Closed Nuclear Plants Could Produce Power

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nuclear explosives plants shut down by President Johnson's cutback in plutonium production may be converted into huge civilian electric power plants.

The Atomic Energy Commission considers the conversion to be technically feasible and has invited utility firms to undertake studies, at their own expense, of the economic and engineering problems involved.

Two reactors soon to be withdrawn from producing plutonium — one at AEC's Hanford, Wash., installation and the other at Savannah River, S.C. — have been offered for commercial power generation.

An AEC official said the two have the capability of delivering "many hundreds of mega-

Red China Faces Leadership Crises in Next 10-15 Years

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Communist China faces at least two major crises of leadership in the next 10 or 15 years as its aging rulers relinquish power to younger men according to U.S. intelligence studies on once-secret Chinese military documents.

U.S. officials believe the changes that will come about in these crises may profoundly alter Red China's attitude toward the outside world, including the United States.

Two other points which stand out in the intelligence reports are: 1. Red China under the leadership of Mao Tse-tung is following a strategy of stalemate toward the United States while it concentrates on promoting Red revolutionary movements in underdeveloped countries, particularly in Africa.

2. The Chinese Reds are devoting considerable resources to a program for developing atomic weapons though one of their military leaders estimated in January 1961 that if they got into a big war three to five years from then they would still have to rely on conventional weapons. Meanwhile the Communist party leaders take the position, according to one of the previously secret documents, that "although the material atomic bomb is important, the spiritual atomic bomb is more important"—apparently a statement of faith in their own Communist world view.

The documents make clear that the Red Chinese leaders believe they cannot be defeated by long range nuclear weapons—such as U.S. missiles—and if they were invaded they would rely on their vast military manpower. One estimate is that in

Demonstrations In Chester, Pa., Held Thursday

CHESTER, Pa. (AP)—Some 500 civil rights demonstrators held a rally here Thursday night then marched around the police station for a little more than an hour in a continuation of demonstrations.

Police said it was peaceful and there were no arrests and the crowd dispersed and went home shortly before midnight.

Earlier today, school officials announced that Chester High School, one of 18 public schools closed Wednesday because of demonstrations—some of them in the schools — would be reopened Monday.

Mrs. Francis P. Donahoo, president of the school board, said that if there are no further incidents, the junior high schools and elementary schools

State Legislators Begin Arriving for Call Session

DENVER (UPI)—State senators and representatives started arriving in Denver today for their second session of the year—this one specifically for the purpose of considering congressional redistricting.

The Legislature will meet at 2 p.m., Saturday in the first day of the session which Gov. John Love has estimated may last a week.

The on-again, off-again session was called by Love Tuesday after he was more or less pressured into the action by a court suit asking that the state's four U.S. representatives be elected at large.

The GOP governor had wanted to wait until all factions of the GOP party had agreed upon a single redistricting plan. Approval by Republican legislators of one plan would have assured its passage since they control both the Senate and the House.

The House went along with a modified doughnut plan which would leave Denver generally intact. However, at least three and possibly as many as seven northeastern Colorado GOP senators—enough to defeat the proposal— expressed their disapproval with the plan.

The main objection to it was the place of several northeastern populous Colorado counties in the 4th District.

The 4th District, on the Western Slope, with only 193,000 population, will be the district most seriously affected by the pending action. Denver, the 1st District, has a population of 493,887. There are 653,954 residents in the huge 2nd District, and 410,555 in the 3rd.

A recent U.S. Supreme Court decision left Coloradoans with no doubt that the state must be redistricted. The decision ordered congressional districts to be as equal in population as possible.

Despite the Senate opposition to the present plan, there still was a chance it may pass both houses. Love, who has refused to endorse any individual plan, has called for a session with legislative Democrats prior to Saturday's session. With their support, the proposal might

Fair Deserves Full Endorsement By Its Customers

By ROBERT HOLTON

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York World's Fair, making a spectacular recovery from opening-day bad weather and civil rights clamor, has earned the endorsement of the most important of all critics, the customer.

The exposition was lauded by some two dozen persons polled at random Thursday on the fairgrounds.

Attendance climbed from Wednesday's opening day 92,696 to 163,252 Thursday the relatively low attendance Wednesday was attributed to civil rights demonstrations which had been announced in advance, and to the chill rain.

More than 300 persons were arrested for demonstrating in or around the 646-acre fair site in Flushing Meadow Park.

Many of the patrons polled Thursday spoke of the educational value of the dozens of government and industrial pavilions.

Superintendent Seeks to Quiet Hospital Furor

PUEBLO (UPI) — Colorado State Hospital Supt. James Meredith sought Thursday to quiet the furor caused by news that the institution had lost its national accreditation.

Meredith said a letter already had been written to the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals asking that reinstatement be made as soon as possible.

He said each of the objections raised by the commission either had been resolved or soon would be.

The commission earlier this month suspended the hospital's accreditation. However, it was not made public until Wednesday when Democratic State Chairman Robert Maytag accused the Republican administration of Gov. John Love of trying to suppress the information.

"Frankly, I don't care about politicians," Meredith said. "I am concerned with my 3,000 patients, my staff and the patients' relatives throughout the state, who may have been led to believe by yesterday's news that the hospital is failing apart when in fact it is better than ever."

Meredith said that three foreign physicians who had not been certified—one of the complaints made by the commission—would be leaving the hospital. He also said the institution had been cited for overcrowdedness, mainly because three decrepit buildings had been torn down.

President Vows He'll Open Poverty War in Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH (AP) — President Johnson flew into industrial Pittsburgh today and declared "We're going to launch our war on poverty today right here in Pennsylvania."

Some 2,000 cheering well-wishers greeted the President and his wife at Greater Pittsburgh Airport.

The greeting was vociferous but still a bit mild compared with that given by a mob of school children who engulfed Johnson and his party earlier in South Bend, Ind., as the President embarked on a four-state "poverty tour."

In Pittsburgh, Johnson and the First Lady broke away from security guards and shook hands with scores of spectators who lined an airport railing.

Among those on hand to meet the President were Democratic Mayor Joseph Barr of Pittsburgh, Sens. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., and Hugh Scott, R-Pa., and David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers.

At South Bend, neither the President nor the First Lady was injured in the wild melee. However, several of the enthusiastic greeters were carried out of the crowd and given first aid.

After about five minutes, Johnson lost his ready grin and looked grim as security men tried to clear a way through the press of humanity.

Secret Service agents waved for police reinforcements and had difficulty steering the President toward the entrance to the field. The pressure of the crowd insistently swept the presidential party away from its destination.

Once Johnson was free of the crush, however, his grin reappeared and he began a more normal hand - shaking tour, greeting well-wishers penned up behind fences and police barricades.

Mrs. Johnson was the first to emerge from the crowd. She was able to reach the exit fairly easily because most of the shrieking youngsters did not recognize her and moved instead toward her husband.

The First Lady said later of the crowd: "There's nothing depressing about them. There's nothing down-hearted about them."

Thursday night, in Chicago, Johnson was saluted at a $100-a-plate dinner by an estimated 6,000 of the Democratic faithful.

The President, who has said he'll tone down partisan talk at preconvention political gatherings, forgot himself long enough to add some resounding flour-

Turkish Cypriot Shot in Back Outside Nicosia

By HAL McCLURE

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — An elderly Turkish Cypriot was shot in the back while crossing a street outside Nicosia today under the eyes of U.N. troops.

A British officer at a post a few yards from where the Turk fell said he was killed by fire from a Greek Cypriot advance post 75 feet away.

"There's nothing we can do about it," the British officer said. "It's just one of those things. We are not the most popular of people right now and I am not getting mixed up in this."

The victim was identified as Hassan Rabhin, 65.

Guns continued to rattle in Ayios Theodoros, a mixed Greek-Turkish village 30 miles south of Nicosia, despite a U.N. cease-fire. A Turk was wounded in shooting there Thursday.

Further trouble was feared between Greek Cypriots and British members of the U.N. force. Scores of Greeks brawled with 50 British soldiers in Nicosia's main square Thursday. Several Greeks and British soldiers were injured.

The scuffle added fuel to growing anti-British sentiment among the Greek Cypriots. A Greek Cypriot government statement said the British soldiers had been drinking and began the fight among themselves.

A short while after U.N. military police quelled the fracas, a Greek Cypriot gun emplacement was blown up by a plastic bomb. No one was hurt. A Greek Cypriot National Guardsman said two British soldiers hurled the bomb.

During the night authorities also found an unexploded plastic bomb outside the Ottoman (Turkish) bank on Paphos street, the borderline between the Greek and Turkish quarters.

Girl, 5, Killed After Running In Front of Car

A 5-year old girl was killed Thursday evening when she ran from behind a parked car into the path of a passing automobile in the 1700 block of South Corona Street.

Deena Kay Duran, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Duran, 501 Warren Ave., died of a crushed chest. She was taken to St. Francis Hospital by E and E Ambulance where she was pronounced dead.

The driver of the southbound car was identified as Heraclio M. Archuleta, 21, of 541 E. St. Elmo St. The accident happened just after the girl had purchased a popsicle from an ice cream wagon.

State Patrolman C. W. Hubbard and Sgt. Paul Layne investigated the accident. No charge was filed against Archuleta.

Fire Destroys Continental Bus South of Denver

SEDALIA, Colo. (AP) — A Continental Trailway bus was destroyed by fire south of Denver Thursday, but all the passengers and the driver escaped without injury.

A Continental official at Denver said there were 14 passengers aboard.

The bus was traveling south on a run to Pueblo when the driver, Nolan Jones of Pueblo, noticed smoke billowing from the rear of the vehicle.

He immediately pulled the bus to the road shoulder and shepherded out the passengers. Jones, with the help of some passengers, managed to salvage all baggage and express packages stored in compartments beneath the vehicle.

Meanwhile, the flames, fanned by a strong wind, swept through the bus.

An investigation was begun to decide what caused the fire.

Portland Newspaper Under New Ownership

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) —The Portland Reporter Publishing Co. has been absorbed by the newly formed Portland Newspaper Publishing Co., Inc.

The merger was approved at a meeting of Reporter stockholders. More than two-thirds of the outstanding stock was voted in favor of the merger.

The Reporter, which first was published Feb. 11, 1960, by striking employes of the Oregonian and Oregon Journal, has been plagued by financial difficulties.

Rail Pact Talks Set For Monday

By NEIL GILBRIDE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Railroad management and union negotiators will meet with federal mediators at the Labor Department Monday to start writing a detailed contract which will formally end one of the nation's longest and most complex labor disputes.

Both sides planned a weekend recess after nearly two weeks of intensive White House talks which ended in an agreement late Wednesday, averting a nationwide strike which had been scheduled for a minute after midnight tonight.

In a White House ceremony Thursday, President Johnson congratulated the negotiators and urged both sides to "get back to the railroads and go to work" so both labor and management can prosper.

It will take about a week to draw up the contract and no difficulties are expected. Then it will take another 10 days or so for the unions to vote their

15 Republicans Plan Reshaping Of GOP Image

By STANLEY MEISLER

WASHINGTON (AP) — A group of 15 young moderate Republicans have been meeting quietly once a week for the past year in hopes of reshaping the image of their party and making their kind of republicanism a force in the House.

The members look upon themselves as formulators of new ideas and not as rebels against the party leadership of Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana.

In the long run, however, they could be a threat to Halleck, for they consider his views negative. The very reason for their existence is to create an affirmative image of the party, an image that is different from the one they feel is projected by the present House leadership.

But, at the moment, they pose no danger to Halleck. Members, in fact, are convinced he does not know their group exists.

Most likely, they prefer it that way. There has been a conscious

Daylight Saving Confusion Begins Sunday in Nation

At the first stroke of the clock Sunday, there will be 24 states or parts thereof which will shift to Daylight Saving Time. The rest of the states will either not observe DST at all or will switch to it on different beginning and ending dates.

The clock juggling will disrupt personal activities, transportation, communications, travel, finance, industrial and general business activities.

Some 100 million Americans will have to re-arrange their schedules while the other 85 million will remain on Standard Time, or will start re-arranging schedules on other dates.

The elimination of such time confusion, particularily the adherence by different states and localities of DST for varying periods, is the target of the Committee for Time Uniformity, a special committee administered by the Transportation Association of America, an organization of transport users, investors and carriers.

Time confusion causes major problems for transport carriers: buses, trains and airlines must print and revise time schedules and hope that passengers, travel agents, and shippers read them correctly and do not miss connections.

But far more than transportation is involved. In some states, Standard Time is required for official state business while the local communities observe DST for all other purposes; many counties of some states observe DST while others do not; and in some areas unauthorized wildcat observance of DST creates pockets of confusion.

The widespread interest and impact of the annual time snarl on all Americans is shown by the fact that CTU's membership includes representatives of radio, television, and other communications, banking, investment, farming, general industry, recreation and travel groups as well as transportation organizations, and federal, state, county and municipal government interests also are cooperating with the committee.

CTU carries out a continuing educational program at the state and federal levels to encourage adoption everywhere of uniform switchover dates when DST is observed, the last Sundays of April and October of each year.

Actions Expected to Save $551 Million Per Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara today announced 63 new actions closing or reducing military bases, depots and arsenals and consolidating offices. He estimated savings at $68 million a year.

McNamara said slicing away at least eight unneeded facilities, scaling down 14 others, combining separate contract monitoring offices in 29 cities, and other actions would yield savings "without in any way reducing military effectiveness."

These latest moves in a three-year economy drive, now embraced by President Johnson, bring the number of bases ordered closed or reduced to more than 500.

When added to those other moves, the Pentagon said, the 63 new actions will:

Save $551 million a year in operating costs.

Eliminate 81,600 civilian jobs and military assignments. Of these 10,056 will drop away as a result of today's actions.

Release 696,000 acres of real estate for nondefense use.

Make available 61 industrial plants for sale to American business.

Fifty-five of the new actions announced by McNamara at a news conference affect military activities in 29 states.

The primary emphasis is on consolidating — one to a city — the separate contract supervision offices maintained by the Army, Navy, Air Force and Defense Supply Agency in many places. That is to be done in two years.

The combining of these offices in 29 cities is expected to lop off 1,800 workers and save $18.8 million a year.

For the time being at least, the Navy's 11 shipyards, major Air Force and Army bases were left untouched.

The other eight actions — worth $21 million a year in savings — involve unspecified installations overseas. What will

Author Calls Becker Prayer Bill Dangerous

BOULDER, Colo. (UPI) — Alan Barth, noted author and editorial writer for the Washington Post, described the proposed Becker Amendment to permit prayer and Bible reading in public schools Thursday as potentially "dangerous as dynamite."

Barth, delivering an American Heritage Lecture at the University of Colorado, defended last year's U.S. Supreme Court decision banning prayers and Bible reading in public schools. He warned that amending the U.S. Constitution to permit the practice would be a blow at the "heart and soul" of the Constitution.

RR Maintenance Engineer Killed In Rail Accident

BURLINGTON, Colo. (UPI)— Melvern F. Lau, 55, a Rock Island Lines district maintenance engineer, was killed Thursday night when he fell between two heavy freight cars being cleared from nearby tracks following a derailment.

Kit Carson County Coroner Bob Hendricks said Lau was brought to Burlington from Des Moines, Iowa, to manage clearing the derailed cars.

Hendricks said Lau apparently slipped while directing operations and was crushed between two freight cars being shoved out of the way by bulldozers.

The coroner said Lau was dead on arrival at Kit Carson Memorial Hospital. Working with him at the time of the accident was Benjamin F. Wells, general manager of the railroad.

Damage estimated at more than $2 million resulted when the Denver-bound train derailed Tuesday due to a burned-out journal in one of the diesel's units.

Eleven derailed cars and engine units were so twisted and mangled that the railroad was forced to build a track around the wreckage to keep traffic moving. One railroad official said more than $300,000 damage was done to new cars being carried on the train.

'Razor blades!"

Hunting and Fishing

By DICK MOORE

"Tag that turkey" is the advice of the Colorado Game, Fish and Parks Department to those hunters who plan to take part in the state's first Spring Gobbler Season.

The law requires that the carcass coupon from the turkey license be attached to the downed turkey when it is in camp or in transportation from camp.

This regulation will be one that is emphasized during May 2 through May 18 season for bearded turkeys. Other regulations to keep in mind is that shotguns no larger than 12-guage nor smaller than 20-gauge and bow and arrows are the only legal weapons: only one bearded gobbler may be taken: and the whole state, except Kit Carson and Yuma counties are open to turkey hunting.

If a hunter is successful during this special spring season, he may still have another turkey during the regular or post season if a two turkey limit is prescribed by the commission when it sets the turkey season.

Spring is walleye season.

But to mention the "walleye" is likely to stir up a storm of controversy. Some fishermen we know won't grant him the stature of a true game fish; others hotly contest this attitude. And few call him by the same name.

Though opinions about this particular fish are varied, the fishing experts are quick to note that there is very little disagreement over the walleye's virtues in a frying pan. And he's even better when broiled over an open fire if you're that lucky.

The walleye, depending upon the section of the country, goes under a wide assortment of monikers: walleyed pike, pickerel, jackfish, yellow or blue pike, and jack salmon, to name a few. Among men who say he's no fighter, the walleye is accorded several more — quite unprintable.

But the facts remain — the walleye is a great delicacy sought by literally thousands of anglers, and spring is a fine time to catch him — though you can get an argument on this score, too, from those who say autumn is best.

Colorado's Hunter Safety Program, sponsored by the Game, Fish and Parks Department trained 6,528 students last year in the art of safely handling firearms. In addition, 360 hunter safety instructors were trained and certified during 1963.

Six hundred and sixty five students received hunter safety instruction in Mesa County, making it the top county in the state in the program.

With Colorado boaters breathlessly awaiting several rays of warm suh and word that the ice is off Colorado's lakes, Assistant Chief Warden Chuck Foster, of the Colorado Game, Fish and Parks Department, has a few tips for utilizing that pre-spring enthusiasm.

He points out that your boat and motor should have been taken care of in the following manner last fall, but if it wasn't, get busy now.

1. If fuel was left in the motor last fall, throw it out. It will probably cause hard starting and may even foul up the fuel system.
2. Remove propeller. Clean and lubricate the shaft. If propeller is bent or nicked, have it repaired or replaced.
3. Drain and refill gear case. If water is detected in the drain oil, have motor checked by a marine dealer.
4. Check spark plugs. Clean or replace if necessary.
5. Remove fuel filter bowl and the filter element and clean with neutral spirits.
6. Check battery and have it fully charged.
7. Refinish boat if needed.
8. Repack trailer wheel bearings and check seals.

Goldwater Gets Phone Threats In Connecticut

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Three telephone threats directed against Sen. Barry Goldwater were received here Thursday night, police said. All apparently came from the same man.

The Arizona Republican spoke at a Republican dinner in the Hotel Statler-Hilton. Goldwater is a candidate for the GOP presidential nomination.

The first call was to police headquarters. The other two were received at fire headquarters.

"Goldwater won't live," the anonymous caller told police shortly before 6 p.m., the time the Goldwater plane was scheduled to touch down.

In a second call a few minutes later the Fire Department was told a bomb was planted in the hotel. In the call, the man said: "You have 23 minutes."

A police detail searched the two floors of the hotel reserved for the dinner. Police using police dogs went through the park area around the hotel. No bomb was found.

Guards were assigned to the senator's room and to his car. Plainclothesmen mingled with the senator through his brief stay in the city.

Despite the precautions, many people strolled up to the senator to chat with him during the dinner.

15 Republicans Plan Reshaping Of GOP Image

attempt to keep the group obscure and anonymous—no announcements, no press releases, no interviews.

But it is known that the group includes at least Reps. Robert F. Ellsworth of Kansas, John V. Lindsay of New York, Charles McC. Mathias Jr. of Maryland, F. Bradford Morse of Massachusetts, Ogden R. Reid of New York, Herman T. Schneebeli of Pennsylvania and Stanley R. Tupper of Maine.

Most of these men are ranked as liberals or progressives in the Republican party, although members of the group prefer to call themselves "affirmative" or "moderate" rather than use any other kind of label.

"We believe the Republican party faces more danger from failing to produce imaginative, affirmative ideas than from acting as a me-too party," says one member of the group.

"There is nothing wrong with saying me-too when the other fellow has a good idea," he continues.

One recent idea, first proposed by Reid, was to write a letter to Secretary of State Dean Rusk, suggesting a conference between President Johnson and President Charles de Gaulle of France to clear up differences between the two countries.

Another idea has prompted some of the members to support a proposal of Lindsay for a Republican plan of Social Security-financed medical care for the aged.

The group gives the young Republicans far greater strength than they ever could have individually. It means that when one member has a proposal, he can line up 10 or more co-sponsors.

Tornadoes Hit Several Towns In Louisiana

roof of her home down on her. Gregory Scott, 4, was injured and hospitalized after his home was destroyed.

Tornadoes skittered crazily through business and residential districts.

The twister that cut through Shreveport hit Bossier City across the Red River, and the sheriff's office reported heavy damage to homes and businesses.

Dangerous weather forecasts were issued in a wide band of the southwest and south from Tyler in East Texas to Greenwood, Mississippi, which is east of Louisiana.

The tornadoes in northwest Louisiana followed a series of earth tremors that jarred the Louisiana - Texas border Thursday night and early today.

It was impossible to determine the exact number of casualties, police said. Many of the injured suffered cuts from flying glass.

Two tornadoes, one a massive black funnel and the other a smaller one were sighted.

The small tornado slammed into the Springhill community 30 miles northwest of Shreveport.

The big funnel hit at Greenwood, 15 miles southwest of Shreveport near the Texas border. It danced over Cross Lake, damaging a men's club, then roared into the Yarborough housing development area where an estimated 50 to 75 homes were damaged. At least one was destroyed.

The Nation's Weather

(Report furnished by U.S. Weather Bureau Station at Peterson Field)

Storm activity continues to produce snow and cold rain through the central Rocky Mountain area.

Overnight temperatures fell sharply over the snow-covered area.

At Ely, Nev., the mercury tumbled to a record low of 4 above zero this morning.

On the warm side, Gulf air still covers the southeast quarter of the country.

However, thundershowers were breaking out in a warm current from the Gulf of Missouri and Tennessee.

West Plains, Mo. collected almost an inch and a half of rain in a six-hour period.

The northwest and Pacific Coast had cool and mostly dry weather this morning. A few showers have occured along the lower California coast and in the mid-Atlantic states.

Three Traffic Cases Heard In JP Court

Three traffic cases were heard in Justice of the Peace James F. Quine's court Thursday.

The first was John A. Goad, 1228 Florence Ave., fined $10 and costs for speeding. According to State Patrolman J. Fred Henderson, the defendant was driving at 40 miles per hour in a 30 zone on West Colorado Avenue Saturday.

JoAnn White, 22, 326 W. San Miguel St., paid a $5 fine and costs for allowing an unauthorized minor to drive. The violation happened April 11 on South 21st Street and A. G. Murin was the state patrolman.

Not yielding the right of way on Black Forest Road April 11 cost John Potter Weed $10 and costs. Weed, 19, 1620 Wood Ave., was ticketed by State Patrolman Lloyd M. Carothers.

More Military Bases Closed By McNamara

happen to them was left open pending consultation with European and Western Hemisphere governments concerned. No NATO forces are affected.

The installations to be closed in the United States include Army ammunition depots in Nebraska and South Dakota, a naval auxiliary air station in Louisiana, Ft. Lawton at Seattle, Wash., and four seaplane bases in Florida and Virginia.

The hardest hit of the installations to be reduced is the Watertown arsenal near Boston. All that will remain there will be the Army Materials Research Agency.

Many of the other 13 installations ticketed for reduction will be all but eliminated.

In addition, a naval weapons industrial reserve plant at Decatur, Ill., and a high-energy fuel plant at Muskogee, Okla. will be put up for sale this summer.

Of the 10,056 reduction in civilian workers and military personnel from all 63 actions, about 6,400 will be in the United States. Most of the 3,600 "spaces" to be reduced overseas are military, the Pentagon said.

McNamara said the new actions will, as in the past, be phased over periods up to 3½ years "to minimize the impact on employes and communities, as well as to reduce closeout and relocation costs.

All career workers whose jobs are eliminated will be offered other spots, the Defense Department said.

"Normal attrition in the work force will provide job opportunities for considerable numbers of those affected," it said.

By careful advance planning and extensive freezes on hiring at other installations, the Pentagon said, "additional job opportunities will be made available."

The department offered to pay moving expenses of any employe who must pull up stakes to take another job in a defense installation elsewhere.

And "to assure the widest opportunity for new jobs, the announcement said, displaced workers will be retrained for new skills at government expense.

Further, the Pentagon's Office of Economic Adjustment will stand ready to help communities find new payrolls, it pledged.

McNamara said in Boston last week it would take him six months to determine which of 11 naval shipyards will be closed because of heavy costs and excess capacity.

The last time the defense chief announced any base closings was last Dec. 12. The announcement came amid considerable political commotion that reportedly won reprieves for some bases, including a couple of the Navy yards.

On that occasion, 33 bases were tapped for shutdown or substantial reduction over a period of 3½ years. All but seven are in the United States.

Up to today's actions, the Pentagon reported, 494 major installations had been ordered closed or reduced, with annual savings pegged at $485 million.

McNamara estimated last winter that the base trimmings then contemplated would cut 70,000 civilian workers from the rolls.

It has been Pentagon policy to absorb as much of the worker reductions through attrition and a freeze on hiring at other installations.

Employes displaced by base closings are generally offered a crack at openings elsewhere in the government complex. The Defense Department also has done some retraining, to give ousted workers new skills.

President Vows To Fight Poverty In Pittsburgh

ishes to his prepared remarks at the dinner.

Come November, Johnson predicted, the voters will bestow "decisive victory at all levels for the party of all the people."

Grinning, Johnson said he had read in a Chicago newspaper that his first presidential foray into the Midwest was taking him into "Goldwater country."

"This is Democratic country," said the President. "It is Democratic tonight and it is going to be Democratic country next November."

In his prepared text, which he read, Johnson said Democrats should think "not only of the next election but of the next generation."

He said that if the party helps build "a great society of the highest order we do not have to worry about success at the polls."

Wherever Johnson went in Chicago, crowds with Democratic - financed placards waited in the chill. Time and again, the president stepped into crowds for handshaking.

About the only non-cheers in view were a small group of civil rights pickets who paraded behind police barricades outside McCormick Place, site of the Democratic party dinner. Driving past, Johnson got only a glimpse of the banner-carrying marchers.

Much noisier was the carefully timed fireworks display that erupted along the lakefront as Johnson left the hall. With rockets bursting aloft, the presidential limousine slowed to a crawl so Johnson could see earthbound displays — a fiery American flag, a Texas hat and a portrait of the President.

Johnson's tour of distressed areas was announced only Thursday, and the final schedule was not nailed down until early today. It embraced a hectic round of helicopter and jet flights, speeches and conferences.

Invited to meet with the President at Huntington late in the day were the governors of West Virginia, Maryland, Alabama, North Carolina, Georgia, Tennessee, Kentucky, Virginia and Pennsylvania.

All these governors signed an April 10 report recommending a variety of federal, state, local and private aid for the economic problems of the area. However, Pennsylvania's Scranton took exception to some of the suggestions.

Man Escapes After Flight In Stolen Car

A car which was stolen from Judith Allmacher, 202 Beaver Court was recovered by State Patrolman Paul H. Cornell and members of the sheriff's office Thursday night.

The sheriff's office was first alerted when a young man drove into the Silver Day 66 Service, 1700 S. 8th St., got $4 worth of gas and left without paying.

The station attendant got the license number and reported the matter to Deputy Sheriffs Bob Walters and Ray Carey who then traced the owner, Miss Allmacher who discovered the car missing from the front of her apartment.

A pickup was put out for the vehicle which was spotted and chased by Patrolman Cornell. The driver abandoned the car at the rear of Harrison School and Cornell, Walters, Carey and Deputy Sheriff Franklin T. Ripley then checked the area but apparently the man ran out through the back door and escaped.

The vehicle was returned undamaged to the owner.

Author Criticizes Becker Amendment

Constitution was to provide a restraint on government and to set up a framework to protect the minority from excesses of majority feeling.

He said the Supreme Court had served "valiantly. . . as a sentinel and champion of individual liberty against the potentially oppressive power of the state—against the impatience of the majority."

"Again and again in recent years—in the name of national security, in the name of public safety, in the name of convenience masquerading as necessity—we have tolerated shortcuts which involved abandonment of ancient liberties," he said.

He warned that "the only thing we have to fear is—ourselves. The courts can remind us of our heritage, but they cannot preserve that heritage for us."

Sheriff Refutes Report of Low Morale in Office

By JIM GLEN

Gazett Telegraph Staff Writer

The whole sheriff's office is up in arms because it's all a pack of lies," a spokesman in Sheriff Earl L. Sullivan's office commented this morning referring to a story in today's Rocky Mountain News.

It attacked Sullivan and claimed morale in his office "had gone to pot." The story was based on allegations said to have been made by a former deputy sheriff. At no point was the sheriff or present members of his office interviewed.

The spokesman, Deputy Sheriff Betty Clausen has been with the sheriff's office six and a half years. She said that the resignations have "resulted in betterment of the office."

The News story is based on the fact that a new manual laying down rules and regulations went into force at the beginning of the year and that subsequently there have been a number of resignations.

One of the early ones came from a man whose driving had brought forth many complaints from the public. One of the new rules insists on careful and courteous driving at all times. Other men who resigned told the writer that they did not like the new manual.

Deputy Sheriff Bob Snuggs said today, a "There is not one rule there that a man cannot abide by."

Sullivan said the rules were designed to obtain the maximum working efficiency in his department. He also added that before they were evolved a few deputies were becoming sloppy in their dress and deportment and that their methods of dealing with the public left much to be desired. "The rules got rid of a lot of deadwood," he said this morning.

Other resignations have come about for "purely personal reasons" generally effecting a man's private life, such as a deputy who left last week. He told this reporter he "hated to leave a job he liked so much."

Undersheriff Doyle McCammon said regarding the so-called low morale in the office that it was "At an all-time high" and "a better functioning department than it ever had been." McCammon became a deputy Jan. 1, 1956.

Referring to the News statement that the men only had half an hour for lunch or dinner, the undersheriff pointed out that first the deputies had to drive from their district to their homes which frequently took up to half an hour. During all that time they were in constant touch by two-way radio with the office and not putting too much of a load on other personnel.

Once at home they had half an hour to eat and then back into the car and on the air again. In this way he explained, the public is not deprived of the services of the sheriff's office. "Sure we would like everyone to have more time, but we just don't have enough men to service the county."

A new member of the office, Deputy Sheriff A. L. Bradley said that she had worked in several other law offices but never worked under such a man as Sullivan who made Low feel like a member of his family. The morale is higher than any place I've ever been and everyone is very co-operative and willing."

Legislators Arriving for Call Session

pass the Senate—despite the Republican opposition.

The plan in effect leaves most of Denver as the 1st District. A small segment of the city, together with surrounding counties—Adams, Arapahoe, Jefferson and Boulder—would make up the 2nd District.

The San Luis Valley and Weld, Larimer and Morgan counties in northern Colorado would be moved into the 4th District which covers the Western Slope. The 3rd District would include the remaining counties in eastern Colorado.

Johnny Freedom Plans His Move To Presidency

BOISE, Idaho (AP)—A letter writer, who says he is "Johnny Freedom" and wants to be president, has asked the secretary of state's office how to register a political party in Idaho.

"We don't wish to run afoul of any laws that would hinder us from occupying the White House on January 1," he wrote. "If the destiny of America rests on the shoulders of the two major political parties—we are finished."

The anonymous writer said he plans a book that "will either put me in the White House or Hollywood. Both need to be cleaned up."

He was sent a copy of Idaho's election laws Thursday.

Chester Residents Still Demonstrating

would be reopened Tuesday. Some 11,000 students and 500 teachers are affected in the shutdown.

The demonstrators, protesting alleged de facto segregation in schools, heard speakers in the Temple Baptist Church demand that more than 200 persons arrested Wednesday night and Wednesday in school sit-downs and other demonstrations be released from jail.

Frank Brooks, treasurer of the Committee For Freedom Now, presided at the rally in place of Stanley E. Branche, chairman of the CFFN, who was jailed Wednesday night.

He told the gathering that the Chester School Board was going to reopen the schools and added: "We're going to close them up again."

John J. Vaul, assistant superintendent of Chester schools, said, however, the school board was going to go ahead with its plans to reopen the schools.

Advised of Brooks' statement, Vaul said:

"I don't know what to tell you because I didn't hear it. I don't know what he had in mind. Our thought is that we want to open the Chester High School with the hope that everything will go on normal and with the understanding that we're trying to indicate to everyone that we want our schools to function normally and without interruption."

Larceny From Person Charges Filed Here

A charge of larceny from the person was filed in District Court Thursday against Frank Antonio Rivera, 38, of the YMCA.

The defendant is accused of stealing a black plastic wallet containing $30 and various personal papers belonging to Esquipula Blea April 19.

Red China Faces Major Crises In Leadership

April 1961 there were supposed to be 200 million armed and organized militiamen.

These conclusions and estimates about Red Chinese policy and strength are set forth in research studies prepared for the State Department's bureau of intelligence and research and based on military papers dealing with both military and political issues which were circulated in Red China in 1961.

In testimony released today, Thomas L. Hughes, State Department intelligence chief, told a House Appropriations subcommittee that "the new materials gave us a look at the dark side of the moon in Communist China."

Hughes also described the documents—obtained in an undisclosed manner—as "uniquely valuable" to the United States in assessing Chinese Communist strategy and tactics and in shaping U.S. foreign policy.

The Red Chinese secret papers were analysed by various Chinese language experts. They were also declassified last year and were made available to scholars through the Library of Congress. They are still being translated.

In connection with Hughes' report that special studies had been made on them, The Associated Press obtained from the State Department two studies—one by Ralph L. Powell of American University and one by John Wilson Lewis of Cornell University. Both men are experts on Communist Chinese affairs.

In their separate reports to the State Department both developed the theory of crises in the Chinese Communist leadership in some detail.

Powell expressed the view that though at some moment of future crisis the military in China might have the possibility of seizing power for itself such a development was unlikely and without precedent in the Communist movement. The military will more likely play "the role of kingmakers," he said.

He advanced the thesis that Mao Tse-tung, who is 70, "will be replaced by death or retirement within less than a decade."

"But the whole top leadership of the party is an aging group," he said. "In 10 years even the surviving alternate members of the present (Communist party) central committee will average about 65 years. Thus during the next decade or a slightly longer period, the party and the regime will face not one, but two crises of leadership—the death of Mao and the death of his successor."

Lewis related this situation to "tensions" between the present aging leadership in China and the younger generation of party members whose differing views on policy have been suppressed under the present rules. Lewis estimated that "a group fully identified with the revolutionary elite and its strategies and techniques could carry on, for at least another 10 to 15 years."

He concluded therefore that "a sharp break in the revolutionary traditions of Mao's inner circle in the (Communist party) political bureau is not probable for five or 10 years."

Rail Pact Talks Set for Monday

expected ratification of the contract involving wages, jobs and working conditions.

Both sides have expressed satisfaction with the pact which roughly amounts to a trade involving union financial gains for management's right to eliminate certain jobs.

Sources involved in the White House bargaining talks credited President Johnson and the two private mediators he called in with a major role in settling the five-year dispute.

The two mediators, Theodore Kheel and Dr. George Taylor, will have the final say in any disagreements resulting from translating the general agreement into detailed contract language.

One source said a major factor in the settlement between the five train operating unions and nearly 200 railroads was that Johnson kept both sides in doubt as to what he might have done if the talks had failed.

The railroads had to worry whether the President might consider seizing the line, and the unions were concerned about the possibility that Johnson might ask Congress for compulsory arbitration of the issues.

"He told us it was our problem and not his," said one source in explaining how Johnson persuaded both sides to reach agreement.

"He added that element needed to break the log jam," said H. E. Gilbert, president of the AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Firemen and Enginemen.

Neil Speirs, president of the AFL-CIO Switchmen's Union of North America, said the settlement represented a "crucial point in collective bargaining in the railroad industry."

Mischief Cases Reported by Sheriff

Two cases of malicious mischief were reported to the sheriffs office Thursday.

The first took place at the home of Lyle Drey, 3919 Magnolia St. Someone put sand and dirt into the gasoline tank of Drey's car which was parked by his house at the time.

The second incident was reported by Mrs. Herman Rague, 1135 Norwood Ave., who told Deputy Sheriff Larry Holien that two children aged six and four were trying to break into an empty house across the street.

The youngsters succeeded in ripping off the wire screen on one of the windows. The matter was reported to their parents who said they would make full restitution.

Palmer Players Hit High Spot in 'Twelfth Night'

By THEODORE FISSHER

Chalk up another top score for Palmer High School Players and their director Jack D. Barnes. Last night in the school auditorium they offered in celebration of the 400th anniversary of Shakespeare's birth, the Bard's most popular comedy, "Twelfth Night."

This, the latest adult drama in Barnes' five year training of these young actors, is to be properly rated from a professional viewpoint as attaining four star quality.

And from an audience standpoint Barnes' hope to win adult attendance worthy of his productions at last was won.

Hitherto incredulity on the part of theatre-goers that the offerings of such sterling dramas as "The Crucible," "Anne Franck's Diary," "Tea House of the August Moon," etc. re-created by public school youth—however commendable the effort — could be worth their consideration, was at last overcome.

There was actually a first night audience of paid patrons of well over 500. And as it proved one that gave the show close attention, frequent laughter, applause and the conclusion an ovation for players and director.

This smooth, letter prefect, spirited production actually was, Barnes tells this correspondent, the end achievement of more than two years of effort.

Credit goes not only to the cast of 24, but to the many students of the stage crew, faculty helpers and others, a score or more.

A special word for the invaluable assistance of Lynn Johnstone, teacher who designed and made the attractive and authentic costumes.

It seems significant to refer to the unique record of Barnes' offerings in statewide public school dramatic competitions. In his five year work at Palmer High he was won four first awards. Perhaps more significant, players in such top scoring shows who have gone on to college have, because of the exceptional training they had at Palmer, immediately found advance placement in college productions.

The comparison of the general "high school dramatic production" — juveniles doing light farce comedies of essentially no dramatic training value or substantial audience challenge with what Barnes has invariably aimed at, pretty well makes clear the over all success of this "Twelfth Night" presentation.

We remind local discriminating threatre-goers that again tonight at eight o'clock and finally Saturday night, they are offered this superlative opportunity of an evening's enjoyment.

Paint Bids To Be Opened By City

Bids will be opened May 8 for 3,800 gallons of traffic marking paint and 300 gallons of thinner to be used by the City Traffic Engineering Department.

City Purchasing Officer Wayne Jackson said his office was seeking the bids for the material which will be used in future traffic marking programs.

He said out-of-state-firms submitting bids must furnish a certificate from the Secretary of State of Colorado authorizing the firm to do business in the state.

Copies of specifications and complete information on the paint can be obtained from Jackson's office at City Hall.

Burglars Try Twice; Fail Both Attempts

Two unsuccessful burglaries were reported to the sheriff's office Thursday.

The first happened at the Colorado Springs Equipment Co. 136 Garden of the Gods Rd. Entry was made by kicking in a window and efforts made to force the safe. Nothing was missing but damage to the safe was $250.

The second incident was reported by Reggie Phillips, of the Continental Baking Co. 1507 Dustry Dr. The office building was broken into and thoroughly ransacked but nothing taken.

Glider Pilots Soar to New Honors

Two Black - Forest - based glider pilots soared for a total of more than 400 miles this week to add to their list of International soaring honors.

Capt. Lames W. Leland of the Air Force Academy and John Brittingham, a rancher from Ramah, accomplished the feats Tuesday.

Capt. Leland flew his Schweizer 1-26 sailplane 229 miles to the pre-named goal of Garden City, Kan. Leland's sailplane was towed aloft at 8:50 a.m. and cut loose a short time later in the vicinity of the Air Force Academy.

Eight hours later he landed at his destination to complete his Gold C Badge and the "goal leg" of his Diamond Badge. He needs only a distance flight of 311 miles to complete his diamond badge.

Brittingham was towed aloft from the Black Forest gliderport the same day. His flight of 216 miles lasted seven hours. He landed at Menlo, Kan.

The flight also gave Brittingham the feat he needed to complete his Gold C Badge.

Both pilots reached altitudes of 15,000 feet during their flights.

German Officer Speaks at ADC Dining in

Capt. Hermann Hagena, 33, of the West German Air Force, currently a language instructor at the Air Force Academy, will be the guest speaker at a dining-in ceremony today at Ent Air Force Base.

The dining-in will be hosted by officers of the Deputy Chief of Staff, Materiel, in the Stonewall Room of the Officers Open Mess. Capt. Charles L. Nida, will preside as Mr. Vice, for the occasion.

Included in the ceremonies of the evening will be the presentation of the Air Defense Command "Master of Defense Award" to Capt. David E. Disbrow.

Capt. Hagena will speak on "The New German Air Force." He is the son of a Lutheran missionary in the former German colony of East Africa, now Tanganyika.

A graduate of the Classical Languages Gymnasium in Marburg, Germany in 1951, he attended Hamilton College, Clinton, N.Y. in 1951-52, on a Fulbright scholarship.

The captain studied at the Universities of Marburg, Heidelberg, and the Max - Planck-Institute for International Law. He received his Doctor of Law (Dr. juris utriusque) from the University of Heidelberg.

Capt. Hagana is the author of "The Legal Nature of Representatives in International Organizations," published in Heidelberg, 1959. He entered the West German Air Force at Hamburg and was commissioned in 1959. After pilot training at Bartow Air Force Base, Florida, and Webb AFB, Texas, he was assigned to the 73rd Fighter Wing in Pferdsfeld, Germany. His tour at the USAF Academy is for two years.

The dining-in is scheduled to start at 7 p.m., Friday, April 24.

Mrs. Nora E. Dunlap Died Here Thursday

Mrs. Nora E. Dunlap, 15 Boulder Ct., died Thursday at 89 at her home, after an extended illness. She had been a resident of Colorado Springs 42 years and was a member of St. Mary's Catholic Church.

Mrs. Dunlap, who had been a widow for many years, is survived by a daughter, Mrs. May Colburn, of Colorado Springs, with whom she made her home; a grandson, William A. Colburn, of Las Vegas, Nev.; four great-grandchildren, a niece, Mrs. Mary Keating, and a nephew, Fred Wager, Colorado Springs, and several grand nieces and nephews.

Rosary services will be held at the Nolan Drawing Room at 7:30 p.m. tonight. A Requiem High Mass will be celebrated at St. Mary's Church at 9 a.m. Saturday. Burial will be in the Pax Christi section of Evergreen Cemetery.

West Side Lions To Mark Anniversary

Charter members of the West Side Lions Club will celebrate the first anniversary of the unit with a dinner meeting at 7 p.m. Saturday at the Candlelight Inn.

To mark the occasion, the club will present a donation to the Brockhurst Boys Ranch at Woodland Park.

New officers will be elected at the meeting. Lions club members and guests are invited.

watts" of electric power — that is, many hundreds of millions of watts — if the shift to peacful use can be carried through.

This would suggest a capacity larger than any of the 13 nuclear plants now producing commercial power.

At Savannah River, one group of 11 Southern utility companies has signed an agreement with AEC to invest $300,000 to $400,000 in studying the feasibility of taking over the heavy - water type reactor scheduled to be shut down about July 1.

Two other groups have indicated interest in this reactor, one of them representing a number of rural electrical co-ops.

The AEC has invited private and public utilities in the Pacific Northwest to undertake similar feasibility studies at the Hanford Center, looking to the possible conversion and operation of one of the three plutonium producing reactors being discontinued there.

Some utility groups have expressed interest informally in this reactor, an AEC spokesman said, but none has yet committed itself to undertake a feasibility study.

The AEC is particularly anxious to encourage private ventures at Hanford, because curtailment of AEC activities there is expected to reduce employment in the surrounding tri-city are a of Richland, Pasco and Kennewick, Wash.

AEC spokesmen said they could provide no guidance on whether the government, if successful in turning the reactors over to private industry, could expect to recover any substantial part of its large investment.

AEC has not indicated specifically whether it hopes to sell or lease the idle Hanford and Savannah River reactors.

The feasibility study at Savannah River is being made by the Bechtel Corp., as general contractor for 11 Southeastern private utility firms joined under the name of the Savannah River Nuclear Study Group.

Sheriff Reports Three Break-ins Thursday Night

Three cases of theft were reported to the sheriff's department Thursday.

The first happened at Calhan High School where someone broke in through a window and stole $150 from the safe on which a cutting torch had been used.

The second incident was reported by Kenneth Karr of Karr's Junction Cafe, U. S. Highway 24.

According to Deputy Sheriff Bob Newman Karr had someone working for him who quit and left taking $120 in cash together with tools valued at $15.

Eugene Simmons, 1230 Westmorland Rd. reported the final case. He told Deputy Sheriff Vincent Denboske that a quantity of tools and a speedometer worth a total of $27 were stolen from the side of his house.

Simmons' son had been working on his bicycle, Denboske said, and had left the tools outside for a short time. When he returned they were gone.

Peter Botsford To Be Featured At Coffee House

Peter Botsford, known as Xebec, will be featured at Le Chat Noir Coffee House, 7½ N. Cascade Ave., at 8 p.m. today and Saturday.

On the same program will be folksinger, Fred Deknatel.

Botsford is one of the finest congo players in the country. He has been playing the congo drums since 1959 and turned professional in 1961.

He has traveled throughout the U. S., Mexico and Europe, picking up the diversified rhythms of the countries and has appeared in clubs and coffee houses in New York and Greenwich Village among others.

Deknatel began singing in Europe "to abate starvation and through much work and more starvation went to Le Chat Noir in 1963 and then to Chicago" where he appeared in a number of clubs and coffee houses under the name Derk Van Damm.

Kentucky Basketball All in the Family

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Back-to-back high school basketball championships in Kentucky are becoming something of a family affair.

Louisville Seneca, coached by Bob Mulcahy, won the schoolboy title in 1963 and again in 1964.

Ashland, in 1933 and 1934, was the last to win consecutive state crowns. An assistant coach at Ashland was Ernie Chattin, who now is Mulcahy's father-in-law.

State to Inform Pupils Of Liquor Regulations

DENVER (AP) — Colorado school children will get 250,000 pamphlets warning of the state's liquor laws and the consequences of violations.

Secretary of State Byron Anderson said the program puts special emphasis on laws dealing with persons under the legal age limit.

"Operation Understanding" is the name given the program by Anderson, and he has urged all police officials in Colorado to cooperate with state liquor enforcement officers.

The pamphlets are being distributed to schools throughout the state.

MOLDED TO TASTE

NEW YORK (UPI) —Molded fresh grape and avocado salad makes a hit anytime.

Soften 2 envelopes unflavored gelatin in 1 cup cold water. Stir in 1 cup hot water. Then add ½ cup sugar and ¼ teaspoon salt and stir until dissolved. Blend in 1 cup fresh orange juice and ¼ cup fresh lemon juice. Chill until the mixture begins to thicken. Fold in 1½ cups seeded Emperor grapes and 1 cup diced avocado. Turn into an oiled 5-cup mold. Chill until firm and ready to serve. Unmold on a serving plate. Garnish with salad greens and clusters of grapes. Serve with mayonnaise, if desired. Serves 8 to 10.

Louisiana Purchase Called Poor Deal

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — The French Ambassador to the United States couldn't resist talking about the Louisiana Purchase during a visit to St. Louis for the city's bicentennial celebration.

"I have not come here to try to reestablish French sovereign power, nor to ask that the Louisiana Purchase should be invalidated," H.E.M. Herve Alphand said smiling.

"It was one of the most disastrous real estate deals within the history of France."

FOR THE BIRDS

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) —Now it's air conditioned houses for the birds. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hanna found that in very warm weather the baby birds in the area leave the nest before they should and have to be fed by their parents on the ground. To make life easier for the birds, the Hannas nailed a piece of aluminum straight across the pointed roof of the bird house. Then they added a thick layer of styrofoam.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, M.D., Ph.D.

Betty is an attractive half-orphan who realized her widowed mother was not to blame when her daddy lost his life in Korea. But when Betty obtained another daddy, note her delight, which shows her hunger for a normal, 2-parent home, all these lonely years!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE S-447: Betty M., aged 12, lost her daddy in Korea.

Betty doesn't even remember him. But she has a wonderful mother who registered a year ago with our SMF (Scientific Marriage Foundation).

The IBM machine found a congenial man with the same religion, hobbies, ideals, etc.

So they were given each other's names and urged to correspond for awhile till they got acquainted by mail.

In three months they met in person, being introduced at church on Sunday by the local pastor, who is one of our 2,500 Clergymen Counselors.

Three months later, they were married and Betty for the first time in her life had both a daddy and mother in the home.

A few weeks later, Betty was bubbling over with such joy at the breakfast table that her mother even asked her why she was so happy.

"Oh, Mother," Betty replied, "I just have to pinch myself every morning just to make sure it isn't all a beautiful dream from which I'll wake up!"

Betty referred to her elation in having a NORMAL home with TWO devoted parents!

Before last Christmas holiday, the SMF received a letter from a school principal in a large Illinois city.

He had lost his wife from cancer, leaving him two little girls, now in the 2nd and 4th grades.

The SMF introduced him to a congenial young widow whose husband had lost his life in an auto wreck, leaving her with two daughters now in the 3rd and 5th grades.

When these two young parents met and fell in love, their daughters seemed delighted to be gaining new sisters.

"But Dr. Crane," the principal wrote, "what impresses me most acutely is the extra delight of my wife's two little girls.

"They were toddlers when their daddy was killed so they don't even remember him.

"So this is the first Christmas season they have ever known where they will have both a daddy and mother together in their home.

"And they are so elated and excited that they are floating on clouds. In fact, I actually think they are more excited at having TWO parents than at Santa's coming next week."

Thousands of former half-orphaned youngsters are regaining happiness, thanks to the SMF.

And thousands of new babies are being born to the cultured, top-notch type of couples who are marrying for the first time via the Scientific Marriage Foundation.

American newspapers deserve the credit, for they gave me the original publicity needed to start the SMF.

Obviously, not all the members of the SMF get introduced to congenial partners, for there is an excess of men up to the age of 35, but then women begin to outnumber men by as much as 3 to 1.

But the SMF is a a non-profit, interfaith foundation that is valiantly trying to help produce happy marriages. All of us Board Members donate our time and reputations to keep it going.

Send for the SMF Questionnaire and Booklet," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents, if you want more data.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Georgia Vice Squad Foiled by Mover

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) — The Savannah vice squad, acting on a tip that illegal liquor could be found at a certain address, secured a search warrant and planned raid.

Officers went to the address the day before the raid was planned to "size up the situation." They returned the following day, but the house was gone.

Officers said somebody had removed the house overnight - all but two chimneys which were left standing like monuments.

Alaskan Quake Raised, Lowered Vast Sections

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the news from Washington:

QUAKE REPORT: U.S. geologists and surveyors report the Alaskan earthquake was felt over half a million square miles and that it raised and lowered huge sections of the largest state by as much as 13 feet.

The reports, made in formal presentation to the American Geophysical Union meeting and at a news conference Wednesday, were offered by S. T. Algermissen of the Coast and Geodetic Survey and Arthur Grantz, geologist with the Geological Survey, Menlo Park, Calif.

"There is little question that one of the major earthquakes of recorded history occurred on Friday evening, March 27, at 5:26 local time," Algermissen said.

The quake came in an area where 14 major earthquakes have been previously recorded.

The experts seem relatively sure of these points:

That a 35,000 square mile area sank between one and 5½ feet.

That a 12,000 square mile area —and perhaps an area out to sea—rose between 2 to 8 feet.

That at one station in Anchorage, seismologists counted 560 local shocks in 178 hours of measuring, from March 30 to April 7.

That the epicenter of the shock seems to be just north of Prince William Sound.

That there is visible cracking in ice and other features over an area of 100,000 square miles—but it isn't known if the underground fault at the quake's origin reaches to the surface.

NUCLEAR CUTBACK: Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield declared Wednesday night that American initiative brought about the cutback in nuclear weapons materials announced this week by President Johnson and the Soviet Union.

Mansfield told the Senate that this was stressed at the morning White House meeting with the President, his senior advisers and congressional leaders of both parties.

Mansfield said he was assured by the President that the American decision to reduce production of plutonium and enriched uranium for nuclear weapons "was not the result of any agreement, executive or otherwise and that there is no fine print."

Mansfield said that despite the cutbacks, "the United States will not minimize the research and development" of nuclear weapons and materials on which the national defense depends.

CUBA: Sen. George A. Smathers, D-Fla., suggested Wednesday that the Soviet Union remove all its antiaircraft missiles from Cuba as a concrete and positive contribution to world peace.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Gals:

I would like you to pour yourself another cup of coffee, sit down for a few minutes, and try to absorb something (that's hard, I know . . . I have trouble doing this myself!) that I would like to explain.

We often wonder where our pennies go, why our budgets won't stretch, and whom we can turn to for advice on comparison buys. Who is going to tell us the truth? How do we know we are getting our money's worth, etc.

Learn to test for yourself. You are the only one who can do it.

As an example, let's take tomatoes . . . canned that is.

Tomatoes come in cans of all sizes. Compare ounces on the label, then price, then contents . . .

Some seem expensive when compared.

Some are not so precious (money-wise that is, gals).

Before you buy your cans of tomatoes this week-end, stop and think: "What am I going to use them for? Spaghetti sauce?" If so, why not buy the cheaper grade? You will find that some tomatoes might have a hard core, but you can squeeze the tomato and just pick out that hard core, if you are saving pennies.

Are you using tomatoes for stewing? This may require a better grade of tomatoes! If not, just "squeeze" 'em and remove the hard core.

Very good canned tomatoes (they usually cost more, too!) can (in an emergency) be used in salads. I have sometimes, when desperate, chilled a can in the refrigerator for a day or so, before opening and pouring off the juice, (especially when the price of fresh tomatoes is high) and cut them for salads.

Now . . . next time you do your grocery shopping, THINK! "Have I bought the same brand for years?" Your answer will probably be "Yes."

So the next time you go to the store . . . instead of buying three cans of "that - same brand," buy three "different" brands. Then when you open the cans "compare them". When you find a brand of tomatoes that is well packed, and the color hits your fancy, and it's cheaper in price than the brand you have been using . . . then it's time you "changed" brands to the one which pleases you the most and save that few pennies. Eh?

For years I bought the same brand of peas, first because my mother did, and had for years, and the label on the can was pretty, and the peas looked greener in the picture . . . then I started comparison buying. Wow! Was I ever fooled!

"I never look at the picture on a label any more".

If I need asparagus, I buy two different brands. I always buy two "small" cans, and even though they cost me little more than one big can, at least I am testing this "myself" and comparing them. When I find a brand that our family thinks is better, then I start using "that" brand.

Asparagus is something that you can really get fooled on. When it says "green tips," then buy two small cans of different brands and "see" for yourself, which can really has the most green tips. In one can we found only one slightly chartreuse tip! And the label said "green tips" . . .

Do the same thing with peas. I know most of you buy that big pound can, but other brands will read "One pound and one ounce" and you are getting an extra ounce. But what do the peas look like?

Here's what to do:

Get two small cans of peas in different brands. Open them both at the same time and test each with a spoon "before" heating (canned peas should never be boiled, only heated) and then test again "after" heating. After they are mixed in your sauce pan you will see the difference . . . Then stick to the brand you like best.

Gals, this is "not" a waste of your husband's hard earned money. Eventually you will stretch every penny the easy way.

Those hard - earned pennies which are saved eventually make dollars. Dollars saved give us security. It is security that we are all seeking.

"Think" before you buy . . . anything.

And as a parting thought, say to yourself "Do we save 10 per cent of our salary?"

If the answer is "Yes"—and let's hope it is, then think again . . .

"If I waste one penny, then that is 10 cents that my husband has to earn to replace it."

Count your pennies, gals, and God bless you always. —Heloise

Letter to Swans Brings Desired Results to Girl

SALE, England (AP) — The letter was addressed to "The Swans, Bridgewater Canal Cheshire."

A postman opened it and solved the puzzle. Two weeks ago the swans had left the Bridgewater Canal and 5-year-old Lindsay Jane Challoner was missing her regular weekend outing to feed them.

"Dear Swans," Lindsay Jane wrote.

"Where have you gone. I've got such a lot of bread for you so please let me have your address so I can bring it to you."

Thursday the postman brought a reply.

"Dear Lindsay Jane," it said. "We are sorry that you have missed us.

"But there are other little girls who save bread for us and we have to visit them in turn.

"We will try to get back soon. In the meantime please feed our friends the other birds with some of the bread you have saved for us.

"The Swans."

Said Lindsay Jane's mother, Rachel Challoner: "Since she received the reply she's been happy again—and she feeds the birds in the garden religiously."

ATTEMPT SHUTTLE

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A converted submarine chaser carrying a party of scientists, sailors and adventurers will attempt a round-trip shuttle of the fabled Northwest Passage this year.

The vessel "Northland Princess" will journey from Vancouver, British Columbia, east to Frobisher Bay on Baffin Island and back again.

If successful, the privately sponsored expedition will be the first voyage through the passage in both directions in one season, the National Geographic Society said Wednesday.

WES IS 75 YEARS OLD—The Women's Educational Society of Colorado College observed its 75th anniversary with a costume tea Monday afternoon at Bemis Hall, with many of the ladies appearing in elaborate gowns of the Gay Ninties period. In the upper picture, behind the huge three-tier birthday cake are, from left, Mrs. Paul Boucher, a member of WES board; Mrs. Kenneth Curran, wife of the Dean of the Faculty; Mrs. C. T. Ryder who narrated the pageant; Mrs. Carroll B. Malone, WES president; and Miss Connie Cooper of Durango, a student who was the recipient of one of the Society's scholarships. In the lower picture at left is Mrs. Darnell Rucker, a board member; Mrs. Lloyd Worner, wife of Colorado College President, Dr. Worner; Mrs. Ben Wendelken, tea chairman; Mrs. Robert Burgart, wife of a CC trustee, a member of the WES board and member of Mrs. Wendelken's tea committee.

Gay Nineties Atmosphere Prevails at Birthday Tea

Dressed in "gay nineties" period costumes, members of the Woman's Educational Society of Colorado College celebrated the 75th anniversary of the society's founding Monday.

The costume tea was held at 3:30 p.m. in Bemis Hall on the Colorado College campus. Some 500 members and friends of the society were invited to attend.

Mrs. C. B. Malone, president of the society, told of the society's founding April 20, 1889, to assist women attending the independent liberal arts college. More than $100,000 in scholarships have been made available to women students since the society's founding.

Nine women students at Colorado College receiving scholarships from the society will parade in costumes of the 1890's period. During the parade, Mrs. Charles Ryder reviewed achievements of the society.

Projects undertaken by the society include raising $12,000 for construction of the Dorothea Cornick Dance Studio, and funds for a sprinkling system for part of the college campus.

The Woman's Educational Society now has pledged itself to furnish and equip the physiotherapy room, the treatment room and the kitchen of the new Boettcher Health Center. This was explained by Mrs. John Merrill.

Game Warden Rescues, Prosecutes Fisherman

CORSICANA, Tex. (AP) — Game Warden John Gerganess rescued a man he saw going under for the third time in the Navarro Mills reservoir.

On shore, the warden noticed that Nelton Tarent of Italy, Tex., had in his possession a string of under legal size bass.

Tarent didn't complain when County Judge Kenneth Douglas revoked his fishing license until September—he even smiled as he paid a $25 fine.

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Speak Up, Mom!

DEAR ABBY: My problem is an eight-year-old neighbor boy who plays with my seven-year-old. He comes to my house after school with my son. We eat supper at six o'clock and the neighbor kid just stands there watching us. When I ask him to eat with us, he never refuses. Sometimes I've asked him to wait in the other room, but he always ends up back in the kitchen watching us. My son is eager to play again, so he gives us a hard time and doesn't eat very well. I've sent the neighbor boy home because of this, but in 15 minutes he is back again. On school nights they let him stay at our house until I send him home so I can get my son ready for bed. Can you help me? I am a nervous wreck. —JACKIE'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: It's not the boy's fault. He has no rules to follow. Tell his mother that YOU have rules and you need her cooperation. Tell her precisely what hours your son has for playtime, mealtime and bedtime. Explain that he isn't permitted company at mealtime or afterwards. And if she doesn't respect your wishes, don't SEND the boy home—TAKE him home.

DEAR ABBY: A serviceman came to repair our washing machine and said he had to take it to his shop to fix. When he brought it back, I was at work. A neighbor saw him trying to get into my house so she called me at work and told me what was going on. I called his employer at once and told him I didn't appreciate people going into my house while I was gone. He said that's the way everybody did nowadays. They always searched under mats, in mailboxes and all over for keys, and let themselves in. Am I out of step, Abby, or did he have a right to do this? —JUST PLAIN MAD

DEAR MAD: You are very much "in" step. And if you want to get technical, the serviceman is guilty of breaking and entering.

DEAR ABBY: My husband insists that when a man and a lady go upstairs, the woman goes first, and when they go downstairs, the man goes first. I say it's the other way around. Who is right? —ETTA KET

DEAR ETTA: When a lady goes up the stairs, the gentleman should follow her so that he can catch her should she trip. And the gentleman precedes the lady when she descends, for the same reason.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "B" IN SACRAMENTO: Watch out! The person who ducks the blood test is usually the one who needs it most.

Get it off your chest. For a personal, unpublished reply, write to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif., 90212. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send one dollar to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif., 90212, for Abby's new booklet, "HOW TO WRITE LETTERS FOR ALL OCCASIONS."

Yankee Trick Isn't Really Joke at All

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—If you live in Kentucky and buy a box of pretzels made in Chicago, don't be surprised if you find the words "Reg. Penna. Dept. of Agriculture" printed on the box.

A similar experience recently happened to a Southern housewife and she wondered if the state of Pennsylvania was up to "some sort of Yankee trick."

This housewife is typical of the many who write to the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture demanding an explanation.

"The answer is very simple," replies Delmar K. Myers, director of the department's bureau of foods and chemistry.

Myers explains that all bakeries distributing products in Pennsylvania must register with the state and so specify on their products' package or container.

Myers says that while the words are not a specific endorsement of the product, they do assure a purchaser that the baker is licensed, that his plant is inspected regularly and that the weight is accurate.

What about the box of pretzels made in Chicago and sold in Kentucky?

Myers explains that out of state bakers who distribute in Pennsylvania as well as other states find it cheaper to include the Pennsylvania registry on all their labels rather than print special labels.

Myers says as far as he knows Pennsylvania and Connecticut are the only states that have such a law.

The "bitter end" is the inboard portion of a ship's anchor cable.

Opening lead: Three of ♢

Our sympathies are extended to East in today's hand who—although he was dealt an abundant proportion of the high cards—suffered the arrows of an unkind fate through no fault of his own. In the course of the auction he was inflicted with a partner who could contribute nothing to the cause; then, in the play of the hand, declarer added to East's humiliation by forcing the latter to dig his own grave.

South opened the bidding with one club and North responded with one spade. East had 14 high card points and substantial support for both unbid suits—so he entered the proceedings by making a take-out double.

South jumped to three clubs. With eight tricks in his own hand he hoped to induce his partner to proceed to three notrump if the latter had a diamond stopper. Three notrump would, in fact, have been unbeatable; however, North is hardly to be criticized for carrying on to game in clubs. He had the equivalent of an opening bid in support of clubs, and his singleton heart made the suit contract appear safer.

West opened the three of diamonds. The deuce was played from dummy and East's queen held the trick. The latter shifted to the king of hearts and South was in with the ace. The contract appeared to hinge upon a successful spade finesse, but the declarer was convinced from East's activities in the auction that he had the king of spades as well as the ace of diamonds. South decided that his only hope was to execute an end play.

To prepare for the final position, it was first necessary to run down the hand. Declarer ruffed out the ten of hearts and then proceeded to cash all seven of his clubs. At trick 10, as the final trump was played, the dummy was down to the ace-queen of spades and the lone king of diamonds. East had left the king-nine of spades and the ace-nine of diamonds with one discard to make.

He saw that, if he blanked the ace of diamonds, declarer could throw him in with the ace and force a lead into the dummy's spade tenace. East, therefore, discarded a spade in a brave attempt to bluff South. The latter was not to be fooled, however, and, when he led a small spade, he went right up with the ace dropping the king.

President's Daughter Is Expert Brownie-Baker

Luci Baines Johnson, the White House's favorite brownie baker, revealed the recipe for her specialty today. It calls for an extra square of chocolate to make the brownies richer.

The 16-year-old younger daughter of President and Mrs. Johnson has a special fondness for baking brownies, according to an article in the current May issue of McCall's magazine. Her older sister Lynda Bird said that Luci "made so many one Christmas, Mother made her buy her own ingredients. This year, she cooked up a storm of brownies here in the family kitchen at the White House, and Mother gave a lot of them away."

The article, describing the Johnson girls, was written by Perle Mesta. Luci told Mrs. Mesta that "Lynn can cook, too. She makes wonderful French toast."

Following is Luci Baines Johnson's own recipe for brownies as it appears in McCall's:

3 squares unsweetened chocolate
¾ cup sifted all purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup butter or margarine
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
1 cup chopped pecans

Preheat oven to 350F. Lightly grease an 8-by-8-by-2-inch pan. Melt chocolate over hot, not boiling water; cool. Sift flour with salt; set aside. In large bowl of electric mixer, at medium speed, cream butter until light. Add sugar gradually. Beat in eggs, one at a time. Beat in melted chocolate. Stir in flour. Stir in nuts. Spread into prepared pan. Bake 25 to 30 minutes. Cool 10 minutes. Makes 16 squares.

Rhubarb Is Back!

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Fresh Rhubarb Lattice Pie. There's no more delicious sign that spring is here and summer not too far off.

Did you know that rhubarb thrives naturally only where winters are cold enough to freeze the ground to a depth of at least 3 or 4 inches? It was originally a native of southern Siberia. In the United States we eat about 56 million pounds a year. Much of it is hothouse grown, contrary to what you may have thought.

Rhubarb of good quality is fresh, firm, crisp, tender and either red or pink. Stalks—the only part to be used—should be fairly thick, although the younger stems on which the leaves are not fully grown are usually the most tender and delicate in flavor.

Lattice-Crust Fresh Rhubarb Pie
(6 servings)

Pastry for 2-crust, 9-inch pie
5 cups (1½ pounds) diced fresh rhubarb
1¼ cups sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 teaspoon grated lemon peel

Line a 9-inch pie plate with pastry rolled to ⅛-inch thickness. Combine remaining ingredients. Turn into the pastry-lined pie plate. Roll remaining pastry ⅛-inch thick. Cut into strips ½-inch wide and arrange over top of pie in lattice fashion. Trim, turn under and flute edge. Bake in a pre-heated very hot oven (450 degrees) 15 minutes. Reduce heat to moderate (350 degrees) and bake 30 minutes or until rhubarb is tender and the crust is brown.

You can use the "squeeze test" to judge if macaroni, spaghetti or rice is thoroughly cooked. If you pinch a piece between your fingers and there is no hard core, the food is done.

'Wonderful, Wonderful', Says Bard of Reception

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House has announced that President Johnson will hold an international reception in June in honor of Shakespear's 400th birthday anniversary.

It occurred to me that it might be fitting to give Shakespeare a chance to return the compliment. And so I have contrived another one of my "interviews" with the immortal bard.

To accomplish this, I have lifted some of his more poetic lines out of their original context and placed them in a contemporary setting, thusly:

Q. Mr. Shakespeare, how do you feel about having your birthday honored by the United States President?

A. "O, wonderful, wonderful, and most wonderful wonderful! And yet again wonderful, and after that out of all hooping."

Q. What type of reception do you think would be appropriate?

A. "Every room blazed with lights and bray'd with minstrelsy."

Q. Wait a minute, Mr. Shakespeare. How can you have a reception like that when the President is trying to economize by cutting the electricity bill?

A. "Light seeking light doth light of light beguile."

Q. Should dancing be permitted?

A. "The man that hath no music in himself, nor is not moved with concord of sweet sounds, is fit for treasons, stratagems and spoils."

Q. Do you approve of the way the President has been dancing at White House functions?

A. "Why should a man, whose blood is warm within, sit like his grandsire cut in alabaster."

Q. How would you like to go driving with the President?

A. "It goes much against my stomach. I was now a coward on instinct."

Q. You must have heard those stories about the President driving 80 miles an hour in Texas.

A. "Every tongue brings in a several tale."

Q. Once or twice the President has escorted groups of tourists around the White House grounds. What is your opinion of that?

A. "The very pink of courtesy."

Razor Factory Workers Shave on Company Time

EAST KILBRIDE, Scotland (AP)—Employes of a stainless steel razor factory no longer shave at home. They take off the whiskers on company time.

The plant owners started the shave break to test their blade against a rival product. Unmarked samples of both are supplied the men, along with soap and after-shave lotion.

A spokesman said the in-shop shaving costs the company 50 pounds ($140) a week but will continue indefinitely.

"We get honest answers this way," he said, "and the men—they love the shave break."

INDIAN GIVERS

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — After 14 years of negotiating, the Cherokee Indians and the city of Tulsa have finally smoked the peace pipe. It was an expensive puff for the city, costing $9,000 for an assessment on 460 acres of Cherokee land which the city needed for water storage.

The Indians will be allowed to install and maintain boat docks on the portion of Lake Eucha granted the city. The land could not be directly sold to Tulsa without an act of Congress.

Japanese to Sell Plant to Red China

TOKYO (AP)—The Japanese government said today it will approve the sale of a second vinylon plant to Communist China despite objections from Nationalist China. The plant will cost $30 million.

"The deal will be approved," said a goverment spokesman "so long as it calls for the same payment conditions as in the first sale."

The prospective seller, Dai Nichibo Rayon Co., says the terms will be the same—25 per cent down and the balance within five years.

Cub Scouts Pack 33, Den 1, met with their den mother, Mrs. Joyce Woolston, Tuesday after school. The flag ceremony was conducted by Bruce Howard and Marvin Slavin, followed by roll call, each naming an animal found in our own area. Each boy had a wire and strung chunks of suet for a bird feeder to take home. Plans were made to attend the practice Saturday, April 25, for the opening ceremony to be given at the Scout-O-Rama. The meeting closed with the Grand "Okela' Howl." A baseball work-up was played at the Cascade School grounds before going home.

A meeting of the Cub Scout Pack Committee was held Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Woolston. Present were Walt Peters, neighborhood commissionor of lower Ute Pass, Harry Pole, chairman of the Pack Committee and Lanoy Anderson, secretary-treasurer. Monthly pack meeting has been moved up a week and will be held Thursday, April 23, in the Community Building, Green Mountain Falls. The regular date conflicted with the annual Scout-O-Rama in Colorado Springs, Apr. 29-30 and May 1-2.

Mr. and Mrs. G. K. Clark are back in their home on Highway 24, after spending three months in Sarasota, Fla., visiting their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Clark.

The Edith Hendrickson Circle, First Methodist Church, met April 15, at the home of Mrs. Hendrickson, 12 Deneta Drive, Manitou Springs, for a 1:30 dessert luncheon. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Ruth Kirby and Mrs. Dorothy Burns. The devotional lesson on the requisites of a Christian was given by Mrs. Arnold Hatch, followed by a discussioin on literature available in the church library by Mrs. Wm. W. Cowan, in observance of National Library Week, April 12-18. Miss Vivian Allmendinger, Pikes Peak Road, was among the 24 members present.

Elmer Tesker, chairman of the Eye Bank for the Woodland Park Lions Club, has issued applications for donors to the Colorado Society for the Prevention of Blindness. Many of the Lions Club members have sent in their donation permission, duly signed and witnessed. This is a most worthy and rewarding project. A resident in our own Woodland Park community has been the recipient of a cornea transplant and will have another this summer. For discarded eye glasses of all kinds, a receptical has been stationed at the Browncraft Steakhouse, Highway 24, entering Woodland Park. The public is welcome to bring their old glasses for the project, sponsored by Lions International. Those collected will be sent to India and other Asian conutries for the needy.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Tesker accompanied Mr. and Mrs. John Carey to the Colorado College Choir performance held April 12 in Shove Chapel. The distinguised choir had returned home from a 6,000 mile concert tour in the United States. Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Tesker joined Mr. and Mrs. Julius Behm with Mr. and Mrs. Benjamine Ward and attended the Stan Midgley colored travelogue, given in Perkins Hall, titled "Traveling the Pacific North west on a Bicycle.

The Capitol Hill Library Crier, published by the Colorado State Library, announces in its April issue the addition of the Ute Pass Community Library and the Black Forest Community Library, to the Pikes Peak Regional District Library. "Reading Is the Key" is the theme for the National Library Week, April 12-18. The goal is to place good public libraries within reach of all our people. Mrs. Doris Rerick, librarian of the Ute Pass Community Library and the newly scheduled Book Mobile service for Cascade and Chipita Park, reports very good response for library cards and use of books.

On Saturday, April 25, at 3:30 p.m., the Grand Lodge of Colorado AF and AM, under the direction of Charles L. Thomson most worshipful grand master, will officiate in the laying of the corner stone ceremony for the new Junior-Senior High School, now under construction in Woodland Park, on the Rampart Range road. The Board of Education will supervise the event. The actual placing of the stone will be done by the Most Worshipful Grand Lodge of Masons in Colorado. Speakers for the occasion will be: Mrs. Dorothy Erb, president of the School Board, postmaster of Florissant and an officer of Snowflake Chapter No. 153, Order of the Eastern Star; Kenneth Perry, superintendent of Woodland Park Schools; Faunt LeRoy, recently elected mayor of Woodland Park and the main address, by a senior student to be chosen by the faculty. All interested persons are cordially invited to attend the ceremony, which is the climax to Colorado Public Schools Week observance from April 19 through 25.

The Gaither Sisters, Judy and Karen, performed a modern and tap dance routine while singing, at the Manitou Springs High School Booster Club talent show last Wednesday.

UNEARTH DETONATORS

WARSAW, Poland (UPI)— Construction workers have unearthed nearly 100,000 homemade detonators for Molotov cocktails near the Warsaw Ghetto where Jewish residents battled Nazi troops in 1943.

The detonators were glass tubes filled with explosives used to ignite the gasoline-filled bottles hurled against tanks. The Nazis razed the Ghetto.

'There Are No Good Signs' Attorney Tells Public Meet

By MARGUERITE MITCHELL
Gazette Telegraph Staff Writer

"There is no such thing as a good sign," attorney Robert Dunlap announced flatly Thursday at the advertising sign board public meeting held in the City Auditorium.

Explaining that he represented no one but himself, Dunlap said the "almighty dollar is not the measuring stick of progress" and suggested having no signs at all in the downtown area.

Dunlap's remarks drew applause from some of the 80 persons who attended the meeting chairmanned by Dr. Fred Sondermann of Colorado College.

The meeting opened with a film produced by the Outdoor Advertising Association of America Inc., and narrated by newsman Bob Considine.

The film pointed out that outdoor ads, to be effective, must be placed in areas of activity.

Other points made by the movie were:

-Local communities benefit by sales resulting from outdoor advertising.

-People in every industry indirectly benefit from outdoor advertising.

-Many perform other services such as giving the time and temperatures.

-There is no proof that the signs are traffic hazards.

Dr. Sondermann asked those present to limit their opinions to the advertising signs which he said was the basic issue.

He read a letter from local artist Vincent O'Brien who urged careful regulation of all signs and billboards, maintaining the reason tourists return again and again to Colorado Springs is because of "our uncluttered look."

A. Earl Bryson, a member of the Charter Association and the Springs Area Beautiful Association, said he was not speaking for either organization when he called for "more control and better regulations."

Bryson said it would be a "shortsighted policy" to do anything to ruin the city's appearance, saying "Let's see to it that the signs are limited."

Dr. Oren V. Shaw, a local dentist, read a statement from SABA which is "in favor of downtown sign control."

Doug Naegle of Naegle Advertising Co. said he felt his company had contributed to the economy of Colorado Springs and was trying "sincerely to create a better image of outdoor advertising."

Naegle said in the 10 months of his company's operation they had spent $50,000 in improving the image of advertising here and planned to spend $50,000 more. He pointed out that they had torn down many shabby, cluttered, odd-sized signs, to conform to the standard signs used in some 15,000 other communities.

He said the situation here "will be self-regulatory because there are just so many areas to place signs," adding that now there are only 18 signs in the town area.

An Air Force officer criticized the "hit-or-miss" kind of signs up Ute Pass, and lauded the kind of signs Naegle suggested.

Eugene Combs of Columbia Savings maintained it is "much more important to use good taste in signs than limit the size of signs." This remark drew a round of applause from the audience.

"If we start controlling signs, we'll start controlling what's on the signs," an advertising man opinioned, adding he thought it was contradictory to the American principles. (Burst of applause.)

Frank Arnold, president of the Colorado Commercial Bank, said he was impressed with the taste and artistic quality of the work done by Naegle's firm.

Mrs. Shaw, wife of the dentist, said she took exception to some of the places they put the signs. "It's not necessary to see a sign so large as the Columbia Savings sign," she said.

"Every time a motorist raises his eyes to look up at some of the signs," Mrs. Shaw went on, "he not only endangers himself but also places pedestrians in danger."

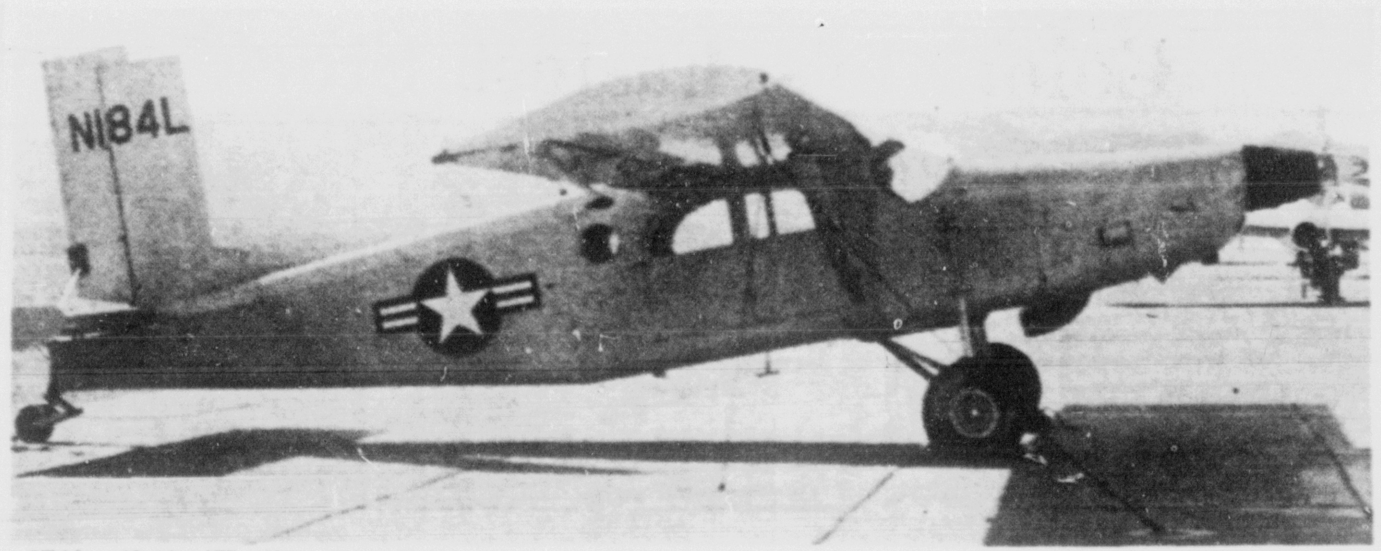
"We must have fewer signs and none at all on the buildings," she said.

Craig Ramsay (of Craig Ramsay Associates) said "if we do away with billboards, where does it stop? Should we do away with the Gazette Telegraph, the Free Press, and the radio and television stations?" This drew a solid round of applause.

Dunlap popped up and said he was "happy to agree with Ramsay about the Gazette Telegraph."

"I don't have to read it, and I don't," the attorney said, "but I do have to look at that Columbia Savings sign and I don't like it."

Committee members present were Angelo Cimino of Star Signs Inc., Floyd Haugh of the City Board of Adjustment, Ed Rodgers, formerly of the Outdoor Advertising Co., O. L. Clark of the Planning Commission, and Virgil Proctor, real estate broker.



STOL AIRCRAFT—Here from Eglin Air Force Base, Florida, for high altitude testing, caused quite a sensation at Peterson Field when it took off "straight up." Florence Will Get Cash Rebate From Gas Firm

The city of Florence was notified Monday night that it will receive a cash rebate of approximately $1,900 from the Plateau Natural Gas Company in the form of a refund.

The city will receive $500 in the form of a rebate for legal fees and $1,416 for a direct refund. It was noted that Plateau Natural Gas Company will refund a total of $18,000 in towns and cities it services, including $10,350 in northern division cities and $7,650 in southern division communities.

Seeking to install a new underground sprinkling system at Pioneer Park, city officials hailed the windfall as a potential source of funds for the proposed project.

City Manager Frank Carochi, who has been instructed by the council to get estimates on various types of pipe and systems which might be installed this summer in the park, reported that one firm had submitted a proposal which would cost the city $1,200 for material and $1,800 for labor. This figure, however, was for plastic pipe. The council is more interested in cast iron.

Commenting on the local water situation, Manager Carochi noted that the spring run-off has statred with four inches of water coming into the reservoirs from Newlin Creek and three inches from Adobe-Mineral. No. 1-2 reservoir now has a total of 22 feet and the city will soon start turn water into No. 3.

The city is currently using considerable water at Union-Highland cemetery and the new bonus plan, 1,000 cubic feet of free water, will go into effect for city residents beginning May 1.

The bonus water, however, will extend through the two-month period of May-June. It will be a total of 1,000 cubic feet for the period and not 1,000 cubic feet for each month, Carochi declared.

The council approved a resolution for the bonus water at Monday's session.

Carochi told the council that work on cleaning of irrigation laterals is nearly complete in the west section of the city. It was also reported that many residents have been cooperating with the city in helping to clean their own ditches.

Also discussed by the council was the problem of licensed dogs running loose in the city and the possible need for a dog leash law; a proposal to investigate a city cigarette tax in addition to the state tax which will become effective in July; a plan to study a municiple swimming pool project on the basis of raising funds from a cigarette tax and through revenue bonds; and the problem of local residents burning weeds without proper supervision of the burning.

Goodwill Industries Name New Slate of Officers

Goodwill Industries of Colorado Springs named a new slate of officers and directors Thursday, at their annual dinner meeting attended by some 400 persons. A report was given by Dr. Ben F. Lehmberg on total revenues and expenditures for the year ending March 31.

Main speaker for the evening was Rev. Harry G. Griffiths, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Pueblo, who spoke on "Forces and Resources."

Rev. Griffiths asked the question, "Are we interested in the rehabilitation of people, on a private basis?" He urged his audience to "extend to another person that help which comes from the Almighty ... through Him, find fulfillment."

On the annual report, Dr. Lehmberg pointed out total expenditures in the amount of $148,160.63, against a total revenue of $172,522.64. Assets and liabilities were shown in balance at $152,086.47, for the year ending March 31.

Officers elected were: Kenneth Hall, president; Don Hibbard, vice president; Armin Barney, treasurer and W. Harry Bradley, secretary.

Three new directors were also elected. They were: John Stone, for a two-year term; Andrew Marshall Jr., and William Henderson, both for three-year terms.

Six directors were re-elected to fill three-year terms. They were: A. C. Erickson, Armin Barney, Kenneth Hall, Don Hibbard, Blakemore McCarty and T. R. Malone.

Alice Sandford Dies Thursday in Local Hospital

Mrs. Alice M. Sandford, 504½ W. San Rafael St., died Thursday at a local hospital. She was the widow of T. J. Sandford, Manitou Springs postmaster, when he died in 1922.

The family home was on Ruxton Ave. and Mrs. Sandford had been a resident of Manitou Springs for 63 years. She had resided in Colorado Springs for a year before her death. She was long a deputy county clerk, under County Clerk Charles Ozias, but retired a number of years ago. She was one of the oldest residents of Manitou Springs.

Mrs. Sandford was born in Gallipolis, Ohio. She is survived by two sons, John C. Sandford, of Colorado Springs, and T. H. Sandford, Tucson, Ariz.; a daughter, Mrs. Sue Manley, Medford, Mass.; a brother, the Rev. F. J. Evans, Mound City, Mo., six grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Graveside funeral services will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday in Crystal Valley Cemetery, Manitou Springs. The Rev. Harry Christopher will officiate. The Blunt Mortuary has charge of arrangements.

Two Boys Admit Setting Fire To Garage

Two boys, aged 8 and 9, admitted to police Thursday that they set fire to a garage at the residence of Mrs. Annie J. Hagan, 124 E. Dale St.

The Wednesday night fire gutted the garage and destroyed the contents of the building. The boys told officers they set fire to a pile of leaves and boards. The fire got out of control and the boys ran away after trying to stamp it out with their feet, police said.

The boys also admitted stealing a set of keys from a pickup truck at the Zecca and Adams Conoco service station, 830 S. Nevada Ave., shortly before setting the fire.

One of the boys told police he got the matches with which to set the fire in the glove compartment of the truck. Both boys were turned over to their parents.

Purse Snatch Attempt Fails, Sheriff Says

Two youths and a girl made an unsuccessful attempt Thursday to snatch the purse of Mrs. Roy Harvey, of the Broadmoor Apartments, the sheriff's office reported.

According to Broadmoor Police Officer Rudolf J. Weide, the incident happened outside the Golden Bee and the trio took off on foot going east on Lake Avenue. The area was searched but the suspects were not found.

New Aircraft Here for Altitude Tests

In the Jet Age, conventional aircraft seldom attract attention. But the troops at Peterson Field showed plenty of interest recently when a very unconventional bird arrived to undergo high altitude testing for the USAF Special Air Warfare Center at Eglin Air Force Base, Florida.

The aircraft, A Fairchild Turbo Porter. Its configuration: High wing monoplane with clipped wingtips and square vertical stabilizer and rudder. Its capability: STOL (short takeoff and landing).

Piloted by Capt. H. J. Carlisle of Eglin, the "Roaring Twenties" type aircraft is powered by a suitcase size, 530 h.p. French Turbomechta turboprop engine tucked inside a long, pointed nose.

A product of the Pilatus Aircraft Co. of Switzerland, the PC-6 is being produced under license by Fairchild. The monoplane has a 50 foot wing span and cruises at 130 knots. It is capable (at least under local wind conditions) of taking off in less three times its own length.

The model used for Alpine rescue work can carry seven passengers or two hospital litters.

Clean-Up Starts At Florence With C of C Painting

The annual city-wide Clean-up, Paint-up, Fix-up campaign was formally launched at noon Thursday in Florence by members of the Business & Professional Women's club and Florence Lions club members, it was announced this week by Bob Deppe, general chairman.

Lions club members joined with the Florence Chamber of Commerce board of directors in painting the front of the chamber of commerce office building on East Main Street, while the B&PW women tackled the task of painting six new garbage disposal drums to be used in the three city parks.

Meanwhile, City Inspector Carl Meyers and County Commissioner Alex Beltramo pledged the aid of city and county crews and equipment in hauling off trash in and around Florence as citizens throughout the area join in the various tasks of spring housecleaning.

Co-sponsors of the Clean-up campaign in Florence are the city and the chamber of commerce.

Gov. John Love asked city and county officials to take in the state-wide Clean-up campaign.

Mayor Charles Cristelli, in response to the governor's plea, issued a proclamation this week for the campaign to be held April 23-May 2 in Florence and urged every citizen, child and adult to participate in the program.

Cristelli pointed out, that the aims of the campaign aid everyone in the community by helping to prevent fires, safeguard health, promote safety, build the ideals of good citizenship, and improve local property.

City volunteer firemen have agreed to help wherever possible and have volunteered to assist in weed burning on vacant lots.

Once again high school students will be available for local work projects both in the residential and business areas of the town.

Local homeowners or businessmen wishing to hire student labor during the campaign can do so by calling Florence high school (Ph. 784-6383) and asking for one or more students for Saturday work or work after school hours.

As usual, the pay set for student "Clean-up" work has been set by the committee at 75 cents per hour.

Former Resident Promoted by Anaheim Police

Joseph Day, 34, a former resident of Colorado Springs, has been promoted to the rank of sergeant and reassigned to the patrol division of the Anaheim, Calif., police department.

Day, the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Day of Colorado Springs, was a member of the local police department for three years before going to Anaheim.

He is a graduate of local schools and was a detective before receiving his promotion. He has been with the Anaheim department for five years.

Dentist Plugs For Fluoridation At Florence

Dr. Richard Rydberg, Florence dentist and secretary of the local Lions club, told fellow Lions Thursday at a luncheon meeting that he expects to spearhead a drive in Florence to get the city council to introduce artificial fluoridation in the city's water system.

He indicated that fluoridation of the domestic water in Florence, which can be accomplished at a very low cost to the city, will result in 40 per cent reduction in tooth decay.

"The amount of fluoride needed to prevent dental decay can best be measured in terms of one drop in a third of a bath tub of water," Dr. Rydberg stated. "The cost per person would be about 1 cent per year."

The dentist told his audience that approximately 45 million Americans are drinking water with the correct amount of fluoridation, or 1 part per million, as the result of nature or man-induced.

"Prevention," Dr. Rydberg declared, "is the key to good dental health. There is such a shortage of dentists in this country that today there is only one-fourth as many dentists as there are patients needing dental care. Therefore, prevention of dental decay and diseases is an absolute must."

"There are several methods of reducing or preventing dental decay," he added. "Local application to childrens' teeth where fluoride is applied directly to the teeth, the oral administration of fluoride tablets, and the use of fluoride in municipal water systems. The treatment of municipal water is by far the most economical and effective."

Knife and Fork Club Elects New Directors

At the annual meeting of the Knife and Fork Club, held at the Antlers Hotel, four new directors were elected for a term of three years. The four are: Verne Johnson, Anton Nelson, Albert W. Slagle and Harold S. Teats, who will fill the expired terms of Harold W. Brubaker, Pete Beroni, James H. Keener, and Dr. C. W. McClellan.

The other members who constitute the Board are — C. Franklin Fielden, Dr. Ben F. Lehmberg, Robert W. Hendee, John E. Kennedy, J. E. Martin, Ray M. Ryerson, Julian P. Tatum and John C. Young, Jr.

The club has just ended another very successful season, having held five dinner meetings throughout the fiscal year and were entertained by as many world-famous speakers.

Words of commendation are due John C. Young, Jr., who served so efficiently as President during the past year.

The new officers elected to serve during the coming year are: John E. Kennedy, president; Verne Johnson, vice-president; Charles E. Kaufman, secretary-treasurer.

Clay Banta Will Be Table Host At Washington

Clay Banta, Chamber of Commerce secretary-manager, will be a table host Monday at a meeting of approximately 200 U. S. Chamber of Commerce members in the Mayflower Hotel, Washington D. C.

Banta was chosen as one of the hosts due to the local Chamber's page contribution to the U. S. Chamber publication "Target Employment."

The meeting, part of the annual U. S. Chamber meet, has to do with the subject of new directions in vocational education.

The local page contribution to the U. S. Chamber publication "Target Employment."

The local page contribution to the book is titled "Developments of Industrial Importance in Colorado Springs during 1963." It provides a listing as to date and time of new industrial activities in the Pikes Peak Region and the information was compiled from various newspaper articles and publicity releases.

Prior to the meeting, local Chamber representatives will attend the morning kickoff meeting the U. S. group which will be addressed by the President, Dean Rusk, Dr. Albert Burke, author and Mr. William Blackie, president of the Caterpillar Tractor Company.

The group will also hear a concert presented by the U. S. Marine Band.

Man Charged In Robbery Fined by JP

A District Court defendant, Henry F. Vigil who has been charged with aggravated robbery and conspiracy, appeared in Justice of the Peace H. C. McShane's court Thursday on a traffic violation.

Vigil, 22, formerly of 609 S. Sierra Madre was fined $6 and costs for driving on Bijou Street March 17 without a valid operator's license. The officer was J. B. Majors of the police department.

Immediately after Vigil's appearance in Justice of the Peace Court he was returned to jail. According to the information filed against him by the District attorney's office, the defendant was one of three men who held up the Self Service Drug Store, 506 W. Colorado Ave., March 17 when a quantity of drugs were stolen. The second count says he conspired with Benny Martinez, 30, formerly of 609 S. Sierra Madre St. and Henry Eddie Maestas, 30, 513 Walnut St.

Vigil pleaded innocent April 3 and is scheduled for trial June 9.

Thunderstorms Douse Sections Of U.S. Today

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

More thunderstorms and showers doused rain-soaked areas in the south central part of the nation today after another outbreak of severe weather.

Tornadoes and thunderstorms with heavy rain, hail and strong winds swept areas Thursday in Kansas, Texas, Oklahoma, Missouri and Illinois and in the South in Alabama and northern Georgia. No injuries were reported in the storm belt but there was extensive property damage.

The most severe storms during the early morning were in Arkansas, eastern Oklahoma and southwest Missouri. Funnel clouds were reported in northeastern Oklahoma and southwest Missouri and a tornado was reported to have swept areas east of McAlester, Okla.

Thunderstorms diminished in the Red River Valley of northern Texas and south central Oklahoma. In Georgia, wind gusts of 58 miles per hour lashed the Fulton County (Atlanta) Airport. Strong winds which swept northern Georgia areas disrupted power and downed trees, signs and plate glass windows.

More showers and thundershowers splashed areas in the Ohio Valley and into the Middle Atlantic states. It was rainy and cool in northern New England.

Wintry weather hit areas in the Far West with snow from the northern Rockies into the central Plateau region. More than six inches of snow covered the Pocatello, Idaho, area, while the depth in Austin, Nev., measured 10 inches.

Unseasonable cold weather was reported in the snow-covered regions with temperatures in the 20s. The cold air headed eastward into the North Central region. The mercury dropped to the 20s in parts of Upper Michigan.

Mild weather continued in most of the southeast part of the nation. Temperatures were in the 70s in the Gulf states.

Inexperience of Dept. of State Desk Men Cited

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some State Department desk men — included the man in charge of Laos—have never visited the countries they analyze.

"No wonder we are mixed up all around the world," said Rep. John J. Rooney, D-N.Y., chairman of a House Appropriations subcommittee, when he heard about it in testimony last February. A transcript of the testimony was released today.

Assistant Secretary of State Phillips Talbot testified, for example, that the assistant India desk officer has never been to India and that the assistant Greek desk officer has never been to Greece.

And Marshall Green, deputy assistant secretary, testified that the officer in charge of Laotian affairs had been to neighboring Thailand but not Laos, and the officer in charge of Philippine affairs had never been to the Philippine Islands.

Thief Charged With Threat Against Johnson

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A convicted thief has been charged with threatening to kill President Johnson at the Democratic National Convention.

Arraignment of Michael Vaughn Cramer, 29, was scheduled for today before U.S. Commissioner Donald Constine.

Cramer was charged Thursday with mailing a letter from Reno, Nev., March 12 to FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, which read: "I warn you. For in August at Atlantic City, N.J., Lyndon B. Johnson will follow Kennedy to the grave. I'll kill him and there ain't a thing you or the Secret Service can do about it."

Secret Service agent Robert Newbrand said Cramer admitted sending threat letters from San Francisco, New Orleans and Philadelphia as well as Reno.

Cramer, formerly of Atlantic City, N.J., was arrested at San Francisco jail following a guilty plea and conviction for petty theft last Monday. A letter intercepted by the jail censor led to Cramer's arrest, Newbrand said.

IN MEMORIAM

The family of Allen Steven Anderson acknowledges with grateful appreciation your kind expression of sympathy. Although we knew that God was always near us and He promised that in our distress He would not leave us comfortless, your words of condolence, many cards and telegrams of sympathy helped us greatly in our hour of bereavement. Without this consolation we cannot imagine how we would have made it.

We wish to thank each of you for your kindness. We would like to thank especially Mr. Samuel Hunter Jr. and those friends who rendered personal services. May God bless all of you.

LEGAL NOTICE

PUBLIC NOTICE
OF
SCHOOL BOND ELECTION
SCHOOL DISTRICT NO. 3
EL PASO COUNTY, COLORADO
May 27, 1964

PUBLIC NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN That at a special election to be held on Wednesday, May 27, 1964, in School District No. 3, El Paso County, Colorado, at the Administration Building, 701 Widefield Drive, in said District, there will be submitted to such qualified registered electors of the District who during the twelve months next preceding the date of election, shall have paid an ad valorem school tax upon property situated within the School District and owned by said person, the following question:

"Shall the Board of Education of School District No. 3, in the County of El Paso and State of Colorado, contract a bonded indebtedness of said District in the amount of $350,000 for the purpose of erecting and furnishing school buildings, erecting and furnishing additions to existing school buildings and for purchasing school grounds within and for said District, said bonds to bear interest at a rate or rates not exceeding 4¼% per annum and to mature serially, as follows:

Amount	Maturity
$10,000	1965 to 1969, inclusive
15,000	1970 to 1974, inclusive
20,000	1975 to 1979, inclusive
25,000	1980 to 1984, inclusive

Said bonds may be redeemable at the option of the District at such time or times and with such premium or premiums, if any, as may later be determined by Resolution of the Board of Directors."

To be properly registered, the name of any voter otherwise qualified must appear upon the registration list of the voting precinct in which he resides made according to law for the next preceding general election of County Officers in El Paso County. In the event said voter is not so registered, he may appear before the County Clerk of El Paso County, or before the Secretary of the School Board of the District at the Administration Building, 701 Widefield Drive, Security, Colorado not less than 10 days nor more than 30 days prior to the time of said school election, and upon making oath of his or her qualifications as an elector and upon answering all the questions required by law to be answered for registration for a general election, cause his or her name to be placed upon the registration list for such school election by said official.

The polling place for the reception of ballots on said question shall be opened at the hour of 7:00 o'clock A.M. of said day, and said polls shall remain open continuously and be closed at the hour of 7:00 o'clock P.M. of said day.

Ballots to be used in voting upon the question submitted will be furnished by the Secretary of the District to the Judges of Election, to be by them furnished to the voters. Each elector voting at said election shall deposit in the ballot box a ballot whereon shall be printed the question to be voted upon and the words "FOR THE BONDS" and "AGAINST THE BONDS", and the elector shall indicate his approval or disapproval of the proposition submitted by placing a cross (x) opposite the group of words on his ballot which expresses his choice.

Persons who are fully qualified to vote on said question but will be unable to appear at the polls on election day should contact the Secretary or Deputy Secretary of the School District at the Administration Building, 701 Widefield Drive, Security, Colorado, not later than 5:00 o'clock P.M., on Wednesday, the 20th day of May, 1964, to determine whether they are eligible to vote by absentee ballot on said question and if eligible, to make application for such ballot.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the Board of Education of School District No. 3, in the County of El Paso and State of Colorado, has caused this Notice to be given as required by law as of the 18th day of April, 1964.

Cragmor Cubs Hold April Pack Meeting

Cub Scout Pack 71, located in the Cragmor area of Colorado Springs, held its April pack meeting Wednesday evening at the Katherine Lee Bates school gymnasium. The Bates Parent-Teacher Association is the chartering institution for the pack and Stan Holden is the institutional representative.

The flag ceremony was performed by Den 1 of which Mrs. Mary Veatch is den mother. The following skits were presented: "Hootenanny" by Den 1, "Rodeo" by Den 9 of which Mrs. W. B. Crow is den mother and "Military Genius" by Den 7 of which Mrs. Erma Tucker is den mother.

Byron Martin, cubmaster, conducted the regular pack meeting and was assisted by Mrs. Betty Carothers in presenting advancements to the following cub scouts:

Bobcat Rank: James Blagg and Ricky Williams. Wolf Rank: Ronnie Leasure. Wolf Gold Arrow: Douglas Klopfenstein and Donnie Malekowski. Wolf Silver Arrow: Steven Veatch and Donnie Malekowski. Bear Rank: Jeff Lee and David Blagg. Bear Gold Arrow: James Edwards and David Blagg.

Bear Silver Arrow: James Edwards. Lion rank: Clayton Sparling, Roger Croskell, Mark Smith, Jack Klopfenstein and Steven Fernandez. Lion Gold and Silver Arrows: Steven Fernandez. Denner Stripes: Steven Carothers and Gary Wofford. Assistant Denner Stripes: Mike Smith and Mark Rollert. Keeper of Wampum: William Sencenbaugh. Keeper of Buckskin: Douglas Klopfenstein.

Capt. Thomas J. Smith, pack committee chairman, announced that Pack 71 will participate in the city-wide cub scout softball program which will begin May 31 and continue for 6 to 8 weeks. A special meeting of all interested cub scouts in Pack 71 will be held Saturday, May 2, at 1 p.m. at Bates School. Coaches will be Smith, Byron Martin, and Bill Bush. Volunteers for score keepers, umpires and team managers are needed.

Four dens of eight boys each were selected to represent the pack in the hoop relay event at the Scout-O-Rama on Thursday, April 30, at the city auditorium.

The pack meeting for the month of May will be held at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, May 19 at Bates School.

Ballet Film To Be Shown At Broadmoor

"The Bolshoi Ballet," a feature length motion picture starring Galina Ulanova, the greatest living ballerina, will be shown at the Broadmoor Theater Saturday at 1:30 and 4:30 p.m.

Miss Ulanova, who has been described as "the second Pavlova," will be shown in two of her most famous roles, "The Dying Swan" and "Giselle." Other members of the renowned balet troupe will be seen in scenes from many of the classic ballets.

The film is presented by the Rocky Mountain National Ballet Company as the second in a series of motion pictures on the dance as art and entertainment. The first was "Red Shoes."

The Rocky Mountain Ballet Company will present a summer series of ballet performances in the major cities of Colorado.

In the Yemen, a man's belt is his status symbol, serving as pocket, brief case, lunch box and key ring.

Custom Woodcraft to Hold Grand Opening Saturday

Custom Woodcraft, owned and operated by D. W. Van Laningham, custom cabinetmaker, will hold a grand opening from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday in its new shop building at 1831 Mount Washington St., one block west of Southgate State Bank.

The new building, of block construction, has 4,000 square feet of space and is equipped to handle the finest custom work.

Custom Woodcraft specializes in provincial, early American and modern kitchen cabinets; vanities, bars, china cabinets, book shelves, gun cabinets, trim work, custom furniture, furniture repair and refinishing, store fixtures, paneling, bamboo work and mill work.

A feature of the new shop is its paint spray room operated by Andy Weatherson, who was employed in Warner Bros. Studio in Hollywood before coming to Colorado about 10 years ago. Weatherson does photo finishing on wood and antiquing, among other things, and is adept in matching the finish on existing furniture.

Associated in the business with Van Laningham is his wife, who is bookkeeper, and his son, R. L. Van Laningham, who does drafting.

Van Laningham has done custom cabinet work here for eight years. He came to Colorado Springs from Beatrice, Neb., where he was associated with Storecraft Manufacturing Co.

The new shop now employs five, including the owner, who said he plans to add two men to the staff.

Alumni Club Hears German Colonel Speak

The Notre Dame Alumni Club of Colorado Springs held their Universal Notre Dame Night at the Moore Restaurant, Thursday evening, according to Otto K. Hilbert, president of the local club.

The theme for this year's meeting was "Extending the Tradition of Great Teaching."

Guest speaker for the evening was Lt. Col. Oscar H. Rechtschaffen, Associate professor of political science and special research associate at the USAF Academy. Lt. Col. Rechtschaffen recently completed a book entitled, "Reflections on Space," which has received extremely favorable reviews since it was published by the USAF Academy.

His speech last night was entitled, "The Fruit That Turned to Ashes," a study of Nazi brutality and inefficiency.

The blame for the atrocities which occurred, the colonel said, lay not so much on the German people as a whole as Germans, even though most all of them knew what was then happening, but on their weakness as human beings under the political structure to which they voluntarily surrendered because of some benefit they saw in it for them.

They did not realize that any totalitarian system, once it comes into being, demands complete obedience to the state, and that consequently, once the system obtains full control, any crackpot or evil idea that has tenure in the mind of the leading group may well be carried out, regardless of its immoral nature, since the will of the society to resist has been sapped by the environment of habitual obedience which a totalitarian system develops.

Lt. Col. Rechtschaffen who personally witnessed four years of Nazi rule as a child before coming to the United States in 1937, has this qualification among many others, which make him eminently able to speak on the subject of the Nazi rule.

For example, during World War II he was a combat intelligence officer and a prisoner of war interrogator for the United States Army. He was Air Force intelligence liaison officer to the West Germany government from 1951 to 1953, and had several positions in counter intelligence, intelligence, and special investigations for the Air Force during the intervening period from 1945 to 1951.

Col. Rechtschaffen in his speech set out the primary factors which existed in German society in the 1930's which enabled a person of poor educational credentials like Adolph Hitler to rise to power.

His speech was supported by documentary movies which showed the Nazi propaganda machine in operation, and showed the results of race extermination at some of the infamous prison camps like Buchenwald and Dachau.

FPC Approves CIG Rate Cut Of $89,000 Yearly

The Federal Power Commission accepted Thursday a cut of $89,000 annually in the wholesale gas rate charged by Colorado Interstate Gas Co. to its wholesale customers.

The cut was made to reflect the revised federal corporate tax schedule signed into law Feb. 28 by President Johnson. The proposed revised rates were filed in March with FPC and are retroactive to Jan. 1.

CIG customers that will benefit from the reduction are the City of Colorado Springs, Public Service Company of Colorado, Colorado-Wyoming Gas Co., City of Trinidad, Plateau Natural Gas Co., Kansas-Nebraska Natural Gas Co., Pueblo Gas and Fuel Co., Raton Natural Gas Co., Greeley Gas Co., Eastern Colorado Utility Co., Citizens Utilities Co. and Southern Union Gas Company of New Mexico.

Reductions put into effect by two other companies also were approved—$717,500 by Mississippi River Transmission Corp., St. Louis, and $510,000 by Cities Service Gas Co., Oklahoma City.

A spokesman for the Power Commission said that about $615,000 of the lower rates reflected the recent drop in the federal corporate tax rate.

Rescued Prospector Dies of Starvation

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP)—One of three copper prospectors lost in the thickly wooded Blue Mountains of Jamaica for eight days died from hunger and exhaustion shortly after the three were rescued Thursday.

The men, working for a Canadian mining firm, said they ran out of food last Friday. Planes had been searching the area since Monday.

The dead man was Cecil Campbell, 42, father of five children.

Scientists calculate that the earth's crust quavers 100,000 times a year.

Jail Riot Quelled In Dallas

By CLAYTON HICKERSON

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Bill Decker, Dallas County sheriff, said Thursday night that a 3½ hour riot of Negro prisoners in the County Jail had been quelled.

"Everything seems all secure now," the sheriff said at 11:30 p.m.

The jail is the same which houses convicted slayer Jack Ruby, but Ruby was not on the same floor as the riots. The sheriff said "Jack's rest has not been disturbed."

Ruby was sentenced to death last month for slaying Lee Harvey Oswald, accused presidential assassin.

One man, jailer Ray Masters, 50, was injured with "superficial cuts" around the neck, the sheriff said. No prisoners were hurt.

Decker said Masters was slashed by two Negro prisoners who crowded into a jail safety vestibule with him. Masters had gone to the point to investigate a fight. As he fought the two Negroes, the riot erupted with about 120 to 150 prisoners involved.

Decker, who was at a Dallas Police Department safety award dinner when the riot began at about 8 p.m., hurried to the jail. Sheriff's deputies, Dallas police and Dallas firemen sped to the scene as the prisoners screamed and hollered, set mattresses afire, and threw everything they could put their hands on out the windows.

Police dogs and fire hoses were used to quell the rioters.

Sheriff Decker blamed the riot on crowded conditions in the jail. He said he had 1,000 prisoners in a jail built for 750.

The sheriff said that the riot was plainly disorganized. "I'm not sure they intended to riot," he said, "and I feel certain there was no escape attempt."

He said the prisoners complained of not being allowed telephone privileges enough, not being allowed to see their lawyers more frequently, protested about the jail food and the generally crowded conditions.

He said damage was unestimated but noted that at least eight inches of water was on the floor where the riot took place.

Ontario Strike Creates Stir In Toronto

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Timmins, Ont. copper, zinc and silver strike by Texas Gulf Sulphur Co. crackled on securities marts, especially on the Toronto Stock Exchange where trading reached a frenzied pitch. On the New York Stock Exchange Texas Gulf, Curtis Publishing Co. and International Nickel all jumped sharply higher on speculation of major financial benefits.

Eight steel firms and officials of two of them entered innocent pleas to a U.S. grand jury indictment charging price-fixing on carbon steel sheets between 1955 and 1961.

The week also saw opening of the 1964-65 New York World's fair, sometimes described as a $1-billion bazaar as a result of $300 million investments by business in pavilions and exhibits. Many companies plan to make it their main sales-promotion and public relations project of the year.

Ever striving for the Pikes Peak Region to be an even better place to live

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Education or Schooling

We have been called to task for a phrase which found its way into an editorial of ours April 10.

In a discussion of the rising cost for schools being borne by property taxpayers, we had pointed out that 65 per cent of all property taxes in the state are taken in support of the government school system.

The offending phrase was: "Thus, it is costing us more and more to educate each student."

A friend has drawn this to our attention with the observation: "Since when can the state educate?" The implication is that we are in process of fooling our readers.

Our friend is precisely correct. The phrase we employed was used through habit and not through the thinking process.

Which brings to mind the fact that we have fallen into another habit in respect to government schools. We often refer to the group of politicians heading up this institution as the "board of education." To be more accurate, we should refer to this group as the "school board." For although the chosen few may run the schools, it is certain that they cannot preside over the educative process, which is an individual affair.

The process wherein the children are herded into government school buildings and there taught to conform and to rely on majority decisions and mass approval may be referred to as "schooling" or a "schooling process."

So our phrase should have been: "Thus it is costing us more and more to school each student."

It is true, of course, that the word "school" is not a verb, but a noun. And thus we are in process of exceeding the rules of grammar by verb-alizing a noun. This is a process, however, in good standing and is employed frequently. Grammarians sometimes object, and yet, in today's world, in order to convey precise meanings we often find it necessary to follow this process.

Take the word, "telephone." This is clearly a noun. It refers to a particular object. It is the name of something. We say, "The person telephoned his friend." We find this a brief way of explaining just what happened.

In the same context a "dial" is the device on the telephone that we use to obtain the number we are telephoning. We say, "He dialed the number."

There are probably thousands of similar instances.

It appears that we are better at finding proper names for things than at finding proper verbs to denote action in respect to specific things.

Thus, the action that occurs in government schools should, we agree, be referred to as "schooling" rather than "educating." For certainly it seems to relate more to the matter of being in attendance in certain buildings than it relates to the process of learning to think and reason.

In another sense, it is probably true that no one can "educate" another.

The word derives from educe (Latin: educare) meaning to draw out, to elicit.

The drawing out process is one in which the student performs the major and the only significant chore. He draws out, from various sources, the facts or the deductions to be elicited or educed. This can happen when he reads a good book, attends a lecture, experiences an event or is otherwise exposed to facts and their meanings. These events can and do happen in schools. But they are not exclusive to schools. They can and do occur outside of schools.

Thus, particular things which can be educed in schools can more accurately be referred to as "schooling."

But this is particularly true in government schools where conformity and the dealing with mass approaches to the educative processes are emphasized.

We appreciate having this matter drawn to our attention. We will try to think more clearly in the future and to avoid misleading expressions, in spite of long habit.

Miscalculations

There are two major miscalculations present in this country. One of them is that free enterprise, capitalism and the free market are worse than they really are. The other is that the government and its various agencies are better than they really are.

Featherbedding

There's an item that appeared in the Saturday Evening Post one week last year that gave us a slow burn at the time and continues to rankle. It was written by a labor boss stooge, named A. H. Raskin. And for a flood of economic nonsense it would probably take forty days and forty nights of straight economic facts in a deluge to surpass it.

Without supposing in the least that we are a modern Noah or that our knowledge of economics is sufficient to be confused with an ark, we'd like to launch our own particular canoe and take our chances with the Raskin rainfall of misinformation.

Possibly you remember the piece. It was called, "The Country NEEDS Featherbedding."

And to try desperately to find some measure of merit in the idea we will give Mr. Raskin credit for one thing. He said that there's an awful lot of loafing on the job; that there's plenty of "made-work" all over the country; and that some of the wasted motion and time is discernible right in the highest echelons of business. We'll buy that much.

From this situation Mr. Raskin concludes that if all of the wastrels and loafers and duplicators of effort were to be fired, it would bring on a depression in the twinkling of an eye. Without these folks in the stores, spending their unearned dough, business would go into a slump and there would be a major catastrophe.

He even hints darkly that there might be a revolution.

On the last point he may be right because the forces of anarchy, for a long time locked up in American labor unions, which were sired in part by the anarchists of the 19th century, might just start putting up the barricades if they had to produce for their livings.

But the Saturday Evening Post's "Speaking Out" guest writer has failed to follow the basic rules known thoroughly by every practicing economist. In real economic life you can't just look in one direction. And to assume that a wholesome firing of all the gainfully unemployed would have but a single result is to insist on a myopic view of economic fact.

It's true, of course, that men fired rarely if ever approve of their dismissal. But the resulting savings in the business community could, and (assuming a free market) would result in immediately lowering costs. As costs fell, and the illustration assumes the same amount of production as before, profits would climb.

Those making the profits would be inclined to re-invest their profits in order to make still greater profits. The result would be the launching of many new improvements in business which cannot come about now because of the high cost of the new tools needed.

Further, there would be many new businesses, which today are standing in the wings waiting for capital, which could be launched.

Instead of a general depression, there would be a great spurt in business activity. More men would have to be hired to PRODUCE. And still more products would be made and distributed at lower prices to consumers.

Now, of course, those men who believe that in this world there is something for nothing for everyone, would be pretty disgruntled. And they'd probably put on the pressure for the government to provide a pension for them at taxpayers' expense and thus the gain would be nullified.

But if we could assume a sudden turn to the free market and full reliance on it alone, what could happen and would probably happen would beggar description.

First of all, the best workers would begin to get bigger, not smaller salaries. With competition between workers restored, it would pay management to hire the best, even if it paid more.

And with minimum guarantees knocked out from under wages, there are simply millions of jobs which today go a-begging, which could be snapped up by men who at last might become willing to work.

Of course they would get only the pay they would be worth. But since costs would be falling, prices would go down, too. And that means that men earning even low pay would be able to buy, and probably about where they are able to buy now at today's inflated prices.

If Mr. Raskin's contention were correct, then it would actually be advantageous for Americans to produce motor cars and homes and food and household appliances and, once produced, dump them in the ocean.

And if that's true for producers it's true for you, too. Why don't you set a match to what you own to encourage business and your own personal success?

The company, or individual who today is on his way up is the same firm or fellow who would have been on his way up fifty years ago or a hundred years ago. He's the fellow who works hard, saves his money and invests a part of his savings.

He doesn't expect to be paid for not producing. And if he ever is freed from supporting, through extra work, longer hours, and moonlighting, the shiftless who are in the big featherbed, just watch what would happen.

We admire the Saturday Evening Post for publishing articles which stir up controversy. We are highly favorable to a full airing of ideas, however far-fetched. But we would have preferred in this case to see the editors of the famous weekly place a discreet sub-head under the title of Mr. Raskin's comments. The sub-head should have been: "A Fairy Story."

These Days

'Unfreezing Our Attitudes'

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Senator Fullbright's recent remarks about unfreezing our attitudes toward foreign affairs have received high marks among intellectuals.

But what do the intellectuals mean when they speak of unfreezing? The new turns in world events of the past year or so have not been such that Khrushchev can cheer about them. His country has had to admit that thirty years of Marxist agricultural policy haven't yet succeeded in feeding the nation. In Hungary, the general air of dissatisfaction has caused Khrushchev to make a tacit promise of more goulash. In Latin America Castroism has receded a bit, with Venezuela and Brazil taking the lead in resisting infiltration. And the house of Marxism is itself fatally divided, with the Red Chinese growing more uppity by the minute.

Toss all this into the hopper, and you might very well come out of it with a new and hopeful foreign policy. But do Fulbright and the intellectuals who follow him really want anything new? Aren't they really calling for a return to the Henry Wallace attitude of the late nineteen forties, when the intellectuals were insisting that the sole reason for the cold war was to be found in western distrust of Stalin's motives?

OPPORTUNITIES

Actually, I trust Khrushchev to behave much more circumspectly during the next few months and maybe years than Stalin ever behaved. I think the man does want a better break for Russian and even Hungarian consumers. But Khrushchev's needs are our opportunities. We can, if we are truly flexible, bargain the Soviets right out of the Western Hemisphere. And we might even David-Harum them into relaxing their grip on Eastern Europe.

Alas, I see no reason to think that the intellectuals want it this way. The record is that, however intellectual they may be, they are not intelligent in their perception of the natural world. I have just had the privilege of a look at a gigantic book by James J. Martin that is scheduled for publication by the Devin-Adair Company of New York some time next fall. It is to be called "American Liberalism and World Politics, 1931-1941," and it consists of a voluminous investigation of what our intellectuals were saying throughout the decade that led to U.S. involvement in World War II. Reading the long manuscript has been a most sobering experience, for it is a stupendous record of mistakes, bad guesses and incredible somersaults.

For example, the intellectuals began the decade of the thirties as pacifists. When the decade came to an end they were howling for war.

They began the decade with an onslaught on munitions makers as "merchants of death." They ended the decade with a despairing cry for more armaments.

They began the decade by criticizing the "Morgan loans" to the countries that became our World War I allies. They denounced the Treaty of Versailles. They said "never again" to involvement in European politics. They refused to follow Secretary of State Henry Stimson in calling for sanctions against Japan in the first Manchurian crisis. By the end of the decade they had reversed themselves on these and all the other propositions stemming from the "revisionist" attitude toward World War I.

PREJUDICE

Finally, they began the decade with a prejudice in favor of Rooseveltian economic nationalism. They ended it with a call for one world.

Now, the big case against the intellectuals does not rest on whether they were right at one end of the decade rather than the other. Maybe some of the flipflops that occurred were all to the good. But the point is this. The war that the intellectuals finally brought themselves to accept had issues— and one of the issues was the emergence of crusading Communism on the world stage. It is still fighting to expand in Southeast Asia, in Africa, in Italy and in the Caribbean. What to do about it? The intellectuals seem to think that if you treat Communist expansiveness nicely, it will subside like a tabby cat and go to sleep.

Maybe, maybe. But when have the intellectuals earned the trust of reasonably intelligent men?

The Old Mountaineer

Two Critics

By FRANK MCDONOUGH JR.

Said the governor of North Carolina to the governor of South Carolina — that is all I ever knew of that old saw, and I have often wondered exactly what they said to each other. I'll bet it was a fiery exchange of words, if not of deeds. Recently, over the air media two far-flung governors spoke to the nation at large, and between the two they pinpointed rather definitely the ills that beset our nation.

The governor of Alaska vented his spleen in no uncertain terms, no doubt being worn with the distress and tragedy which had come to his state. He was hornet mad, no doubt stung by impatience and a horde of bungling invaders from Washington. In effect he said that the bureaucrats had invaded his land in such numbers that they were occupying all the hotel rooms, boarding house accommodations, eating all the already scarce food and crowding themselves and the natives off the sidewalks and that they were accomplishing absolutely nothing. They brought no supplies and not one cent of money. He was a mad hombre, a buzzing hornet and a bitter critic of bungling bureaucracy.

The other governor, George Wallace of Aabama, had a smirking smile of victory upon his face after the Wisconsin primary election. And he took the opportunity to express to the nation the evils of Washington bureaucracy far beyond the immediate issue which had brought him to the Badger State. As someone said, he was the backlash of the white people, but he went far beyond the racial issue. His theme took him into the realm of the whole crushing effect of top-heavy super-government, invasion of the rights of individuals, the real present danger to the free enterprise system and the conduct of union labor. He said to the nation what many of us wish we could say and be heard. His public words may have the effect of awakening and leading us out of the wilderness of dynastic ambition. From Alaska to Alabama is a vast territory and it may just be that the appetite for good clean Wisconsin cheese will help clear away the stench that arises from the rotten cheese factories now flourishing on the Potomac.

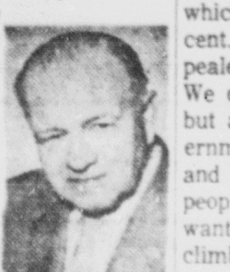
Discrimination

By GEORGE BOARDMAN, PhD



The administration of the federal government plans for discrimination of a type without parallel in the history of this country and in carefully measured tones and cadence bleats about compassion. I call it hypocrisy.

Advertised plans call for expenditures of just under $1 billion to finance the so-called war on poverty which will be geared to assist youth.

What will youth learn from this heavily publicized "plan"? The young people who become unfortunately involved will understand that government has no compassion for those who earn and invest and create. Youth will understand that it has a right to something for nothing and each make-work and educational phase of the plan will combine to teach the lesson of socialistic indecencies — the right of a parasite to a host.

Responsible parents and their children will be further discriminated against while those who are on the dole are given jobs in socialist libraries, socialist parks, playgrounds, scout camps, settlement houses at the expense of decent, respectable people.

The war on poverty can only result in impoverishment. In California the people of the state are being impoverished by about $3 million dollars every day because of the compassion of their state government, alone.

The incoming mail interrupted me and I find that one letter writer hit on this subject. "You will have to admit that the administration is at least trying to do something about the poor people in this country. You seem to begrudge every dollar the government spends, but you know that poverty and illness exist and that only government can attend to such things fairly. It takes compassionate people to take care of poverty."

Ma'am, politicians are busily engaged in trying to buy more votes at the expense of those who earn and invest. Quit kidding yourself. To date, government has impoverished more human beings than have all natural causes combined, including earthquakes. Try keeping in mind that government has nothing but what it takes from the people, and you may eventually get the message. The advertised compassion of government is hypocrisy.

About 15 years ago, a combination of circumstances placed me in a bankrupt condition. Illness and death in my family made the future look bleak at that time. For several months I didn't know whether I would be able to work again or not and during that time I went to one of those awful money lenders from whom I had previously obtained a loan. Before I had finished telling the lender my story, he interrupted. "I do not wish to discuss the situation further, I've heard enough. I don't want to see you or hear from you for a year. One year from today please get in touch with me, let me know how you are doing and if you can see your way clear to begin making payments of some kind on the loan."

Now let's look at compassionate government. I was taxed for everything I purchased. Personal property taxes went up on a heavily mortgaged home and the private lender who held the mortgage advanced the money to pay the property taxes. I did not have a taxable income but government compelled me to pay social security taxes against which I will never draw one cent. Sure, we could have appealed for aid from government. We could have obtained a dole but all we wanted was for government to get off our backs and you know what happens to people who refuse doles and want parasitical government to climb down and off.

So, we finally worked our way out of the problem, with government clinging, whining and adding to the burden. Today, we are in the poverty-stricken classification as defined by Mr. Johnson and his cohorts but I haven't heard the first word about government, at any level, getting off my back, not even for one hour.

I want nothing from government except to be left alone to work out my own problems in my own way and at the expense of my own labor and energy and for this I am discriminated against — by government. Doles are income-tax free. Doles of food are free of taxes. In the meantime, politicians will not be able to buy our votes, either, despite the well publicized compassion, because we will not sanction the system.

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

How to Conquer Poverty

By FRED G. CLARK
and R. S. RIMANOCZY

Poverty can be relieved by charity, housing subsidies, etc., but these steps affect only the symptoms, not the disease.

Until we understand the nature of poverty we won't understand the cure.

The facts are not popular but they cannot be avoided.

Poverty results from low purchasing power.

Low purchasing power results from low personal productivity.

Low productivity can result from two things: 1) lack of production skill, 2) lack of efficient tools.

The lack of production skill can result from two things: 1) physical or mental handicaps, 2) poor education and training.

There is not much that can be done about the first; the answer to the second is obvious — more education and better training.

The lack of efficient tools can result from two things: lack of savings needed to supply the tools or lack of confidence on the part of the savers in the circumstances under which the tools would be used.

The answer to poverty, then, is higher productivity through better skills applied to better tools.

There is no other answer.

People who do not consume enough simply do not produce enough.

Any program that does not focus on this central fact will not conquer poverty, even though it may make it more endurable.

There are a few other facts concerning poverty that should be remembered.

Some poverty is voluntary because the people involved simply do not consider their living conditions sufficiently poor to warrant any extra efforts on their part: society may say they are poverty stricken but they do not agree.

Poverty cannot be measured in dollar income: many people who own their home, live on farms, etc. do not require much cash to get along very comfortably.

Because poverty is a relative condition, there will always be people in the population who are classified as poor simply because they are in the lowest 10th of the income brackets. Many years ago any family receiving less than $1,000 was considered poor.

A recent survey in Westchester County (N.Y.) shows how this yardstick has charged.

Quoting the County Departments of Planning and Public Welfare, the New York Times on March 5th reported: "One out of every 12 Westchester families is living in abject poverty with an income of less than $3,000 a year. One out of every five families is deprived with an annual income under $5,000."

The use of this statistical approach probably means that as long as there is a substantial difference in incomes there will always be people who are considered poverty stricken.

This does not mean, however, that we should not continue to raise the living standards of the entire population through the only method that will work — develop better production skills and better tools.

The Local Scene

The Tax Push

By RUFUS L. PORTER

HERE HE LIES

Ah, Love! to think that you would thus conspire
To push our taxes up a little higher,
Who boasted how you'd keep expenses down,
And prove yourself to be a blooming liar.

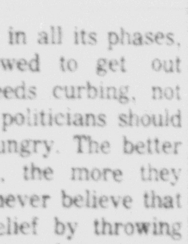
(Thanks to Omar Khayyam, from whose "Rubaiyat" I paraphrased a stanza.)



It is the considered opinion of all economists, except those crack-pots of the Keynesian school, that when the total cost of government in any nation rises above 25 per cent of the total income of the people, that nation is heading toward disaster.

We passed the 25 per cent mark a long time ago and the total tax take is now over 35 per cent of our national income — and still our taxes rise. And disaster, complete and total, is just around the corner.

And now our economy-minded state government is asking for a 50 per cent increase in the sales tax. Now, a sales tax is very probably the most equitable of all forms of taxation, and if we must pay taxes, a sales tax is fairer than most others—BUT not if we have to pay all the others, too. All other forms of taxation are, and have been from the beginning, continually on the rise. More and more of our individual budgets are finding their way into the public ones, which have hollow legs and can never be balanced.

Because the sales tax appears to be more equitable does not mean that I believe they should abolish all other forms of taxation and then continue to raise as much from the single sales tax as they are taking from us now. I believe that if all governments, state, local and national, kept within their prescribed realms of activity, taxes in all categories could be reduced by three-fourths, or even more.

Government, in all its phases, has been allowed to get out of hand. It needs curbing, not fattening. Our politicians should be lean and hungry. The better we feed them, the more they demand. And never believe that we will get relief by throwing the rascals out and putting in another bunch, for they are rascals, too, as the present state administration has so ably demonstrated.

What happens to the politicians after they have taxed us all into bankruptcy? Could be they'd have to go to work. Seems as though they would "think on these things," but they are all near-sighted. They can't see further than the next election. Remember, when they come around passing out cigars (not many of 'em do nowadays), that you and I bought them.

One bit of news I read the other day anent the one per cent sales tax boost bothers me no end. This was the disturbing news that the Colorado Chamber of Commerce was backing the raise. Now, the Chamber is composed of businessmen who are, to say the least, and on the average, SUPPOSED to be a cut above the rest of us in intelligence. But here they missed an excellent opportunity to prove it.

The politicians see the citizens as taxpayers and spend all their time trying to find ways and means of taxing them a little more each year. To the businessmen, the citizens are customers with a capital C. And every businessman also earnestly desires to have the customers spend more of their income with him. He should have the better chance, since he offers them something for their money, against the politician's empty promises. But what chance has he got when he throws his influence behind the politician whose only aim is get all our dollars, including the businessman's?

I have always had a great deal of respect for Chambers of Commerce. They accomplish a great deal of good for the communities in which they operate — if they stay out of politics. Chambers of Commerce are positive, politics are negative, and never the twain should meet. Perhaps our editor was right when he suggested that many businessmen do not understand the free market economy.

I have on many occasions found reason to praise our local Chamber of Commerce and I hold it in highest regard. But I cannot condone the action of the state Chamber in its support of the sales tax increase. And I feel certain that the board does not speak for the entire membership.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economics and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

Question No. 486: "Why do letters to a newspaper that permits its convictions to be questioned before its readers, show the real convictions of the letter writer?"

Answer: The answer is briefly that if the letter writer cannot defend his position when other letter writers question his convictions or the editor questions them, he is certainly not going to write something that he cannot defend and does not believe.

Of course newspapers should not publish letters to the editor which reflect on the honesty and sincerity of another writer or person without giving proof of this lack of sincerity and honesty on the part of the party.

As a matter of fact, reading the letters to the editor is the best way of knowing the general pulse of the people who have convictions in your community. That is one of the principal reasons why letters to the editor of this kind are worth reading.

It makes a splendid means of exchanging ideas to have one's beliefs tested.

People as a general rule do not want to be advocating anything that will harm other people. It, of course, takes energy to write a letter but mainly it is a way of having one's ideas tested. If after having it in print before a large audience there are no questions by the editor or other readers, then one can pretty well be assured that his beliefs are in harmony with moral principles. If they are not in harmony with moral principles, someone will challenge them.

This is a splendid way of a person being superior to his previous self and having his ideas and beliefs tested and examined.

Questions are limited to general human relations questions that will improve the well-being of all mankind on this earth.

FARGO, N.D. (UPI)—A recent survey by the agricultural Information Service shows people are becoming more weight conscious.

The survey disclosed food consumption has declined from 1,616 pounds per person per year in 1909 to 1,455 pounds in 1961. The AIS attributes the drop in food consumption to upgrading of diets, improved food processing and handling and awareness of the undesirability of being overweight.

Wife of Rail Mediator Feels Proud of Husband

By GEORGE ESPER

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "I just felt very proud my husband could do it."

The voice of Edith Taylor bubbled with excitement, joy and pride.

She is the wife of Dr. George Taylor, one of the two private mediators who helped bring about a settlement announce by President Johnson in the four and a half year railway dispute.

Less than two weeks ago Taylor, a labor relations expert and professor of industry at the University of Pennsylvania's Wharton School, left his sick wife at the call of President Johnson.

Mrs. Taylor said today it was worth it.

"Oh, my goodness, yes, to have this wonderful result," she said. "It certainly was."

Mrs. Taylor, recuperating at home from surgery, said she heard Johnson praise her husband in a national television appearance Wednesday night announcing the settlement.

"One of these men, Dr. Taylor, left his sick wife who had just been operated on that day to come here to the White House to serve in these negotiations," said Johnson.

Mrs. Taylor said she thought it was the right thing for her husband to leave her.

"I was in very good hands," she said. "I had very good care. The President was wonderful. He sent the White House plane up at different times with my husband to visit me during the negotiations."

Mrs. Taylor's first word that her husband was to serve the President came from Johnson.

"The President got him out of bed," said Mrs. Taylor. "He couldn't call me that night. Then it was the President that called me as soon as he arrived in Washington.

"'Your husband is right here with me,' the President told me. He told me he thought it was a great thing that my husband would come down. There are times when you have to do things for your country.

"I told him (the President) I was recuperating very well, there was nothing to worry about."

Today, Mrs. Taylor says her recuperation is coming along very well and she's "just about ready to go out." Her husband will be home today.

Local Teams Enter CU Relays

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

BOULDER—The 40th running of the Colorado University Relays opens here this afternoon with a brilliant field of high school and college athletes ready for the annual assault on the records.

C.U. coach Frank Potts has indicated that nearly 1,300 athletes are expected to compete over the two days in four separate divisions. The size of the huge meet, coupled with the addition of a new classification, prompted officials to expand the running time to two days.

A new division, composed of junior colleges and university freshmen, has been added to the original format. Events in this classification will lead off the competition at 2 p.m. today with preliminaries in the high school and university divisions following starting at 4 p.m.

Saturday's schedule begins to unfold at 9 a.m. with preliminaries in the college and high school relays. Also set for the morning session are finals in the college discus and broad jump and the high school shot put, pole vault, high jump, and broad jump.

The afternoon schedule commences with an opening ceremony at 1:15 to be followed by the remainder of the field events at 1:30. Finals in the college and high school track events will begin at 2 p.m.

Altho this afternoon's competition is concerned primarily with the junior college division and preliminaries in the other classes, there will be a finals in the high school two-mile relay. This is of special note in Colorado Springs since Wasson's fine quartet, anchored by distance star Jeff Berven, will be one of the favorites. The same foursome finished a close second to Denver Lincoln at the Aurora Relays earlier this month.

Wasson, Palmer and Academy High are expected to enter full teams in the high school division while the Air Force Academy will have a partial unit competing in the college grouping. A portion of the Falcon squad will be diverted to the Drake University Relays at Des Moines during the weekend.

The Air Force will be joined by a formidable field in the college classification, including defending champion New Mexico. Other college entries are from Utah, Kansas State, Wyoming, Denver, Colorado State University, Utah State, Montana State, Kearney State, Ft. Hays, Kan. State, and Southern Colorado State College.

New Mexico and Colorado made a runaway of the team race a year ago but the competition figures to be much tighter this time around. The Lobos graduated anchor star, Adolph Plummer, and thus should be in reach. Colorado's main worry is an injury to a leg muscle to its great star, Jim Miller.

Miller, the former Palmer High flash who still holds the state hurdles records, is a necessary member of the majority of the C.U. relay teams if they anticipate success. He may be available for only limited duty Saturday, however.

In the high school divisions, defending champions Manual of Denver and Mapleton are back to defend their respective AAA and AA titles. Manual has entered a squad of more than 50 men, the largest high school unit to attack this prominent meet in its history. The Thunderbolts already own a tie in the Aurora Relays this spring.

Manual will be challenged by East Denver, the co-champ in the Aurora meet and the champion in the Pikes Peak Relays in Colorado Springs earlier. Mapleton will also have stiff competition, especially from the Air Force team. The Kadets have outstanding sprint quartets, anchored by Rob Stockhouse, and could be a dark horse in this division. Fountain and Durango, the two top schools in the lower classification to date, will both pass up the C.U. meet in favor of the Fountain Relays.

With the meet spread over two days, Wasson should be a strong contender in both the two mile and distance medley relays. The scheduling will allow Berven to anchor both units with an 880, an event he spun through in 1:58.2, tying the state record, just Tuesday night. He will also anchor the T-Birds' mile relay team.

Palmer will also challenge strongly in the majority of the relays. In addition the Terrors have one of the state's top high hurdlers in Bobby Joe Williams and an outstanding pole vaulter in Bob McCoy. Wasson coach Jim Hartman expects to enter shot putter Bruce Teschner and sprinter-broad jumper Dominic Flacco in the individual events.

The field events and individual races do not figure in the team scoring. Only the relays are counted with just four places being awarded in each. The scoring is on a 5, 3, 2, 1 basis—thus it will not take a large number of points to capture the championship in any of the divisions.

AIR FORCE ENTRIES

[illegible] — Henry Hamby. 440 YD. RELAY — Steve Barranco, Jim Law, Roger Dunn, Jim Lawson. BROAD JUMP — Tom Brandon, Law. HIGH JUMP — Brandon, Joe Hurst. POLE VAULT — Jim Erickson, Greg Minede, Bob Sivon. TRIPLE JUMP—Brandon, Law. SHOT PUT—Steve Amador, Ken Clark. JAVELIN—Greg Hildebrandt. MILE TEAM RACE — Jesse Overall, Bob Foley, Dave Brown, Kirk Hall. TWO MILE RELAY — Henry Armstrong, Dennis Sultany, Lawson, Olstrom. DISTANCE MEDLEY RELAY — Bill Riley, Foley, Brown, Hall. MILE RELAY — Barranco, Riley, Dunn, Olstrom, Lawson.

Roger O'Neill Accepts Palmer Basketball Job

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Roger O'Neill, former head coach at West High School in Chicago, Ill., has been hired as the new basketball coach at Palmer High in Colorado Springs.

Gerry Berry, athletic director for School District 11, confirmed this morning that O'Neill had accepted a contract and will take over the Palmer job next fall. The announcement formally ended an intensive search which had spread over the several weeks since Gerry Schroeder, head Terror coach for past two years, announced his resignation.

O'Neill, who is 30 years old and unmarried, will bring a background of sound basketball to Palmer. He received his undergraduate degree in 1957 from Northern Illinois University where he majored in biology and took a minor in physical education.

For the next five years he was head basketball coach at West High School in Chicago. Despite the high-caliber competition in that area, his teams posted an overall record of 61-36. His final year at West saw his team lose by a close score to the club that went on to win the Illinois State Basketball Championship. Illinois is one of the few states where there is only a single basketball classification.

During the following school years (1962-63) O'Neill was in graduate school at Colorado University, where he received his master's degree. While at C.U. he was assistant freshman coach and helped with the high school recruiting for the Buffaloes.

The past year he has been assistant varsity basketball coach at Lincoln College, Lincoln, Ill. O'Neill told local officials that he accepted the post at Lincoln for the purpose of studying basketball techniques under head coach Norman Kaye.

O'Neill will come to Colorado Springs highly recommended. Kaye described him as "an excellent teacher and dedicated student of the game of basketball. He is a stickler for fundamentals and has some excellent ideas concerning the game," the Lincoln coach added.

Berry said that in a conversation with Colorado University coach, Sox Walseth, he had received a similar recommendation for O'Neill.

O'Neill will become the third Palmer coach in four years. Gerry Hughes resigned in the spring of 1962 to devote more time to his duties as athletic director at the school. Schroeder, a former All Big Eight star at C.U., replaced him but resigned following the season just concluded. He plans to leave the coaching field entirely and commence pre-dental schooling at the University of Nebraska next fall.

Drills Bring New Hope To Colorado's Gridders

By FRANK PITMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

BOULDER (AP)—Springtime in the Rockies has brought new hope to Colorado's football team, flattened by two straight 2-won, 8-lost seasons.

Coach Eddie Crowder happily reports a new competitive spirit among younger players out for the 20-day spring training.

"We'll be extremely young and inexperienced in the backfield," Crowder says, "but these men have shown a keen competitive spirit that should offset their youthfulness."

The practice sessions will be climaxed May 9 in a regulation game between the varsity and alumni. Assistant Coach Dal Ward said some present pro players will come back to play with the alumni outfit.

Crowder, beginning his second year, has installed the switching-T formation. This puts the same slot back and split end and three strongest linemen always on the strong side. The players switch sides depending upon the play's direction.

Crowder's young backfield will be small with none of the present No. 1 starters exceeding 198 pounds.

Frank Rogers, a Del Norte High School star who lettered as a sophomore last year, has been functioning as first string quarterback. His adept ball handling, better timing and all-around finesse gave him the nod over two other Colorado high school standouts, Hale Irwin of Boulder and Bernie McCall of Yuma. Irwin is an effective runner on keeper plays and McCall has been passing better than the others. They will be sophomores this fall.

Fullback is one of the team's strongest positions with three topflight candidates. They are Terry McCarthy of Hayward, Calif., Teddy Washington of Baton Rouge, La., and Norman Patera of Portland, Ore. McCarthy and Washington at 198 are the heaviest in the backfield. Patera is 190.

The No. 1 slot back is a Lakewood, Colo., standout, George Lewark, who has moved ahead of two-year letterman Bill Symons.

George Reese, a transfer from Oklahoma, has sparkled as the best running back and is No. 1 at the left halfback position.

Colorado's line will be more experienced than the backfield with 12 lettermen back. The key players are center-linebackers Larry Ferraro and Steve Sidwell, tackle Stan Irvine, 6-4, 221, and guard Tom Kresnak, 6-1, 203, who captained last year's team.

Rote Leading AFL Passer

NEW YORK (AP) — Tobin Rote, already hard at work preparing for another season as San Diego Chargers' quarterback, learned officially today that he was the American Football League's leading passer in 1963.

Rote completed 170 of 286 passes for a 59.4 per cent average in 1963 and averaged 14.76 yards per completion. Official AFL statistics gave him an effectiveness average of .777 compared to .685 for Tom Flores of Oakland.

Billy Hardwick Has Chance For Two Titles

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI)—With only six classic division bowlers left to compete in the American Bowling Congress tournament, Billy Hardwick of San Mateo today had a good chance for two major championships.

Hardwick's 730 classic singles series and 2088 all-events have not been approached in recent days. Thursday's top scores were posted by Joe Regis of Derwyn, Ill., who had a 638 regular singles and 1835 all-events. Two classic division bowlers could not even match Regis' performance.

Glenn Wilson and Leo Ostermiller of Lincoln, Neb., posted the best doubles series, 1835.

Stan's Shoes of Oakland, Calif., led competitors Thursday night with a 2954 regular team effort. But when the day was done, the top 10 in any of the tourney's nine divisions remained unchanged.

The tourney closes Sunday.

3,000 Tracksters Set for Meet

WALNUT, Calif. (UPI) — A massive assault on world track and field records gets underway in the sixth annual Mt. San Antonio Relays Saturday when the open and university competition takes place.

But of the nearly 3,000 athletes who will be competing in the three-day track and field carnival, the majority went into action today in the high school, junior college and college division events.

The trackmen conclude the competition Sunday with the final five events of the decathlon and the 10,000 run for the open division.

McCord, Barickman Voted Cheyenne Jobs

The District 12 school board has approved the selection of Guy Barickman as head football and track coach and Tom McCord the athletic director and baseball coach for Cheyenne Mountain High School.

The board approved the school's selection of Barickman and McCord at a meeting Thursday night.

Barickman took over the head football coaching job from Eldon Helm, who moved up to principal of the Cheyenne high school. Helm's new job will become effective, July 1.

McCord, who is presently coaching track and was an assistant football coach last winter, will center all his attention on baseball and the duties of athletic director at Cheyenne this fall. McCord will assume command of the baseball team from Helm, who is presently in his ninth season, at the conclusion of the school term.

Barickman was line coach under Helm last year and was a key to the team's success —the Indians won the State Class-AA championship for the first state title in the school's history.

A graduate of the University of Missouri, Barickman was an assistant freshman football coach at the Big Eight school for four years prior to coming to Cheyenne last fall. Barickman received his masters degree last summer and during his under graduate days, he played guard and tackle on the Missouri varsity team.

GUY BARICKMAN
New Grid Coach

Barickman is a native of Jefferson City, Mo.

McCord has been at Cheyenne for two years and prior to his one year stint on the physical education staff of the University of Tennessee (Knoxville), he was at Cheyenne for an additional year in 1960.

During his first term at Cheyecne, Mc Cord was assistant coach in football, baseball and basketball. The former Knoxville resident has played professional baseball. McCord saw action in the Sooner State League (Class D) in centerfield.

McCord will serve out his present term as head track coach and during his two years of management the Indian tracksters have been outstanding in the Pikes Peak League. Last year the Cheyenne team won the PPL District Meet.

Trainor-Tish In Amateur Golf Finals

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP)—Mrs. George Trainor, a slightly regarded vacationing veteran from Rochester, N.Y., and Curtis Cup star Phyllis (Tish) Preuss of Pompano Beach, Fla., met today in the 18-hole finals of the 62nd North and South Amateur Golf Tournament.

Miss Preuss, a 25-year-old blonde, reached the finals by beating the defending champion, Nancy Roth of Hollywood, Fla.

Miss Preuss avenged a 2 and 1 finals loss last spring with a 4 and 3 victory in Thursday's semifinals.

BETWEEN THE LINES

by Loy Holman

A Noble Breed

Without a doubt, the fan of golf is the most underrated and abused of the species of athletic viewers. Although sometimes it's amzing he does, the guy who tramps the fairways deserves some sort of medal for coming back for more.

The reference here, of course, is to the genuine fan — the guy who wears out the shoe soles instead of the breed that gets his eyes full second hand by wearing out the covering of another part of the anatomy while perched in front of the idiot tube.

Although they're still in the minority to the multitude that congregates in the livingroom to watch a few holes dictated by the networks, it still amounts to quite a gang when the number of paid ticket holders comes to a mighty round figure such as the 50,000 who followed their heroes at the recent Masters Tournament at Augusta, Ga.

And this was only typical of the stampede over the courses of any of the major tournaments. The U.S. Open at the Congressional Country Club in Washington, D.C. in June will undoubtedly be even larger.

But while fans in other sports are getting the service of escalators to their seats such as in the Mets' new Shea Stadium and practically all the comforts of home in luxurious emporiums for football and basketball around the country, the guy who follows the golfing circuit pays the price and then can expect the worst.

It's not as though he should be treated like a member of the Knothole Gang for it's often a pretty penny dished out. For instance in the Masters, the spectator had to let loose of $7.50 for a one-day permit . . . and then take his chance.

The ordeal starts even before stepping foot on the course. After hunting far and long for a parking spot, the first thing that greets the golf fan is a sign listing all the thou shalt nots.

Cameras of course are taboo. The click might break the concentration on a putt — if the potential photographer should happen to get close enough to take anything besides the back of the other spectators' heads. A radio is just as sinful.

This is common practice for all tournaments, but the Masters goes a couple steps further. Also on the list are periscopes to see over the multitude and any kind of hard bottom chair that might give the poor paying customer a chance to see over his suffering cohorts.

To boot, he's herded around the course by rope-toting gendarmes while forced to walk five or six miles per round to keep up with the golfers. Shortcuts generally run him right smack into more trouble.

Despite this all-out effort to keep the fan from getting his money's worth, they still flock to the course for any of the major tournaments. A few try to stake out strategic spots where they might see the favorites pass by, but generally they have their own hero who is followed devoutly.

Such are the troops that make up Arnie's Army, with Gen. Palmer in charge of the charge. It was estimated that at certain times the gathering in back of the game's glamour boy reached a figure near 40,000 during his famed assault on par during this recent tourney.

Early in the tournament there was a large force tabbed as Chi Chi's Bandidos who appeared like guerrillas out of the brush. They were typified by one blonde who wore her identification medallion pinned low on the spinal column to certify she was a member of Rodriguez' Rebels, but the buttons disappeared when his birdies turned to bogeys.

Then there was Jack's Pack, who mostly come round and fully packed just like their leader, Nicklaus. And Ben's Brigade keeps going on nostalgia of Hogan's past triumphs.

And Tony's Tribe, the Lema division, has a definite problem of keeping track of the ball. Their trouble is champaign swigging after victory.

So much for the hectic business of chasing the professional golf celebrities around 18 holes. Of course it's hardly the same when the big names aren't involved and about the only obstacle for watching the amateurs in this area is endurance it takes to hike the course.

JACK NICKLAUS
Come Fully Packed

Not all celebrities have a gang in back of them when they play — for obvious reasons. Such was the case not long ago when the one and only Groucho Marx shot a round. But Groucho, who says he consistently shoots under par "because Pa was a horrible golfer," had the following answers for an inquisitive fan who cornered him at the 19th hole. Perhaps they're worth repeating . . .

Question: Who is the greatest golfer you've ever played with? Answer: Me.

Q: Is "friendly betting" good or bad for golf? A: It depends on your handicap.

Q: If you were rewriting the rule book, what changes would you make in golf? A: I would insist on girl caddies.

Q: Are most comedians, like you and Bob Hope for instance, funny on the golf course? A: Tragic.

Q: What most appeals to you about golf? A: Nothing.

Q: Do you feel sorry for golf widows? And what advice do you have for women whose husbands are golf bugs? A: I don't feel sorry for any widows, and my advice is fool around with your neighbor's husband.

Q: If you were to play against Arnold Palmer, what kind of a handicap would you want? A: A shotgun.

Q: Does the way a golfer dresses affect his, or his opponent's, game? A: Only if his jockey shorts are too tight.

Q: What is your handicap? A: My game.

Q: Do you have any ideas or suggestions for re-designing golfing equipment to improve the game? A: Make the holes shorter.

Q: What is the best round you ever had — like perhaps a round of drinks at Jack Benny's expense, or a round with Zsa Zsa Gabor? A: Never heard of either of them.

And here's one more that should be passed along.

Anyone who doesn't shoot 85 or less doesn't have any business on the golf course. And anyone who does shoot 85 or less probably doesn't have any business.

NBA Reschedules Annual Player Draft

NEW YORK (UPI)—The National Basketball Association has rescheduled its annual player draft from April 28 to May 4 at New York's Hotel Plaza. The new date was caused by the extended period of time it is taking the league to complete its championship playoffs.

Joe Eaves is in his 15th season as basketball coach at Auburn University.

Key PPL Game Set Saturday

The Pikes Peak League pennant chase is headed for a showdown between two undefeated clubs this weekend as the loop leader, Florence, journeys to Air Academy High for a Saturday morning outing.

There were two games on today's agenda when Widefield was to have played host to Manitou Springs and Harrison was at Cheyenne Mountain. Both PPL games were slated to start at 4 p.m.

The Florence-Academy High game is the only league game slated for Saturday. Other non-league games that same day include Pueblo Catholic at Cheyenne and the Wasson "B" team at Harrison. Both contests will start at 10 a.m.

The only local track and field meet this weekend will be the second annual Fountain Invitational Relays, Saturday beginning with the preliminaries at 9 a.m. The finals will begin at 1 p.m.

Under the new management of Coach Gene Stone, the Florence nine has recorded three straight loop victories to pace the PPL with a 3-0 mark. With victories over Harrison, Manitou, and Widefield, the Huskies will receive an acid test as top PPL challengers.

The Academy High team, which has finished in the runner-up slot the last four years, has the stick power and bull pen to end the "bridesmaid" jinx and captured its first PPL championship.

But the Kadets will have to get past Florence Saturday and then face six-time PPL kingpins from Cheyenne. John Gannon has been the Big Blue's pitching mainstay and the portside chucker has proven the most impressive pitcher in the Class-AA loop. In two games the Academy High hurler struck out 29 batters including 15 against Harrison last week.

Should the Cheyenne team post a victory over Harrison it would be the 54th consecutive PPL win under the direction of Coach Eldon Helm. And it would mean the 111th over-all victory during the eight-year management of Helm.

Wasson Tops In Meet

Wasson's junior varsity won the third of the weekly reserve meets at the Wasson track Wednesday afternoon.

The Thunderbirds captured nine first places in the 14 meet event and scored 75½ points to outdistance Palmer's "B" team. The Terrors finished with 49½ points, Deaf and Blind School with 21, and East Junior with 2.

McBride Joins Johnson With Unique AL Record

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Baseball's department of unique statistics has had its first busy day of the season.

Some three hours after Houston's Ken Johnson earned a place in the record book by losing a no-hitter to Cincinnati 1-0 Thursday night, Ken McBride of the Los Angeles Angels entered the sweepstakes.

McBride, who previously had hit two batters with pitches, stood out on the mound in the ninth inning and hit two more, forcing in Cleveland's winning run in a 3-2 victory and equaling an American League record for most hit batters in one game.

McBride got into the ninth-inning jam on singles by Fred Whitfield and Tito Francona, who collected the 1,000th hit of his major league career earlier in the game. McBride then hit Johnny Romano and Woody Held in succession, forcing in the tie-breaking run.

The Baltimore Orioles gained a doubleheader split with Boston, winning the nightcap of a twinight doubleheader 1-0 behind the pitching of Robin Roberts after a 3-1 opening-game loss.

In the opener, the Orioles lost the services of Steve Barber, the only Baltimore 20-game winner since the club rejoined the American League 10 years ago.

Barber pulled a muscle under his left shoulder blade in the pre-game warmup, was tagged for two runs in the first inning and then forced to leave. There was no word on how long Barber would be sidelined.

Only one other game was scheduled in the AL. In that, Bill Skowron drove in the winning run with a single in the eighth inning as Washington edged Minnesota 5-4.

The Angels pulled ahead of the Indians 2-0 in the fourth on a triple by Jim Fregosi, an infield out, an error, a stolen base and Bob Rodgers' single. The Indians tied it in the fifth when Whitfield doubled, Francona singled and pitcher Dick Donovan singled both home.

Donovan got credit for the victory when the bizarre ending was fashioned by McBride.

10-man Tie In Texas Tourney

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—The PGA doesn't carry such a statistic but the 10-man tie for first place in the $40,000 Texas Open's first round Thursday was believed to be a record.

Nobody could remember it ever happening before. They knew it certainly never had happened in the Texas Open, which is in its 37th year.

Six tied for the lead in the second round last year and it was agreed then that it was a record.

The 10 were jammed at the top with three-under-par 67s over the 6,715-yard Oak Hills Country Club course.

The big names—Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Gary Player and Julius Boros—passed up the Texas Open this year. But there still were some pretty well-known and respected fellows working over par.

The leaders include Gene Littler, former National Open champion; Bob Charles, British Open king; Bob Rosburg, former PGA champion; Don January, and E. J. (Dutch) Harrison; Charles Sifford, the Negro star playing in his first Texas Open, and Jack Rule.

The only players who have not yet notched a tournament victory were Jerry Steelsmith, Terry Dill and Gary Floan. Dill and Floan are recent collegians, Dill at the University of Texas and Floan at University of Idaho.

The 42-year-old Harrison gave the crowd a boost when he sank a 20-foot putt on No. 18 to tie for the lead after a stirring comeback from a bogey and double bogey on the front nine.

Littler barely missed becoming the undisputed leader. He three-putted 18, bobbling a four-footer on his second try.

Johnson's No-Hit Game Makes Majors' History

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

"So I made history. Keckuva way to get into the books, isn't it?"

Houston pitcher Ken Josnson had just pitched a unique no-hit game against his former Cincinnati teammates Thursday night and lost 1-0 on two errors in the ninth inning, one of them his.

It was the first no-hit game of the young major league season and the second in Colts' brief three-year history. But it was even more than that.

LOSING NO HIT PITCHING — Ken Johnson, the Houston Colt right hander that pitched a no-hitter and yet lost the game by one run to the Cincinnati Reds, wipes the perspiration from his head in the dressing room Thursday night in Houston. Johnson became the first pitcher in Major League history to pitch a no-hitter and yet lose the game. (AP Wirephoto)

Johnson is the first pitcher ever to hurl a no-hitter and lose in a nine-inning game and the first ever to lose a game without giving the opposing team a hit. Other pitchers have gone through nine hitless innings but lost in extra innings after allowing hits.

Johnson, a knuckleball specialist, was well aware of the no-hitter during the game. After the seventh inning, he asked teammate Don Nottebart, "How's a guy supposed to feel, Notty? What do you do?"

Nottebart, who hurled Houston's first no-hit game last May 17 against Philadelphia, replied "Stay loose and keep going."

After he had concluded his bizarre performance, Johnson scorned sympathy.

"What else can I do?" he asked, smiling. "I pitched the best game of my life. I can't feel bad because I lost it. Actually, I feel worse for the guys on the club. I guess that sounds funny, but it's true."

In other National League games, Philadelphia nipped Pittsburgh 6-5, Los Angels downed St. Louis 7-5 for its first victory after seven straight defeats and Chicago stopped New York 5-1.

Johnson, who already had won two games this season, blamed himself for the defeat. His wild throw on Pete Rose's bunt with one out in the ninth put Rose on second, and he reached third on an infield out.

Then Vada Pinson hit a routine grounder to Nellie Fox. The veteran second baseman booted the ball, allowing Rose to score.

Even after that inning, another oddity still was to come. The Colts' Pete Runnels hit a ground ball and appeared to be thrown out in Houston's ninth. First base umpire Stan Landes called it that way. Howver, home plate Umpire Augie Donatelli overruled Landes, saying first baseman Deron Johnson never had full control of the ball.

The Reds immediately announced they were playing the game under protest. But the Colts were unable to score as Joe Nuxhall came out the winner with a five-hitter.

Rookie John Werhas' two-run single in the eighth inning halted the Dodgers' disastrous losing ways. The hit off relief pitcher Bobby Shantz followed two walks and a safe bunt.

Johnson's Own Error Leads To Cincy's Unearned Tally

HOUSTON (AP)—"I pitched the best game of my life. I can't feel bad because I lost it."

That's the way right-hander Ken Johnson of the Houston Colts described his performance against the Cincinnati Reds Thursday night when he became the first pitcher in major league history to pitch a no-hitter and lose in nine innings. It was the first no-hitter of the 1964 season.

The Reds scored an unearned run in the ninth inning on two errors for their 1-0 victory.

One of the errors was by Johnson and the other by veteran second baseman Nellie Fox.

"Even if we had tied it," Johnson said, "I couldn't have gone on."

He displayed an ugly bruise, the shape and color of a plum, on his leg.

Johnson said he received the bruise when Chico Ruiz hit a line drive that caromed off his shin in the ninth. Bob Aspromont played the carom and threw Ruiz out.

Johnson figured it was the closest the Reds came to a hit.

"Actually I feel worse for the boys on the club," Johnson said in the dressing room after the game. "I guess that sounds funny, but it's true."

Johnson, seeking his third straight win of the season, was practically untouchable for eight innings. He started his own downfall with one out in the ninth when he fielded Pete Rose's bunt and threw wild on the inside of the bag as Rose went all the way to second.

Ruiz' hard grounder then struck Johnson on the leg and caromed off toward third. Aspromonte alertly fielded the ball and threw out Ruiz, with Rose going to third.

Vada Pinson grounded to Fox, who booted the relatively easy chance on a short hop, and Rose sped home with the only run of the game.

In the dressing room, Johnson put his arm around Fox's shoulder.

"I told Nellie it wasn't his fault," Johnson said. "It was mine. I put the guy (Rose) on base, and I ave no one to blame but myself."

Johnson, termed a hard-luck pitcher, had an 11-17 record last year and lost many because his teammates could not produce any runs for him. However, he won his last five games in 1963 and recorded a 2.65 earned run average.

Nine pitchers before Johnson had no-hitters at the end of nine, but allowed hits and were beaten in extra innings. The last was Harvey Haddix of Pittsburgh, who lost to Milwaukee in 1959.

Top Skiers To Compete In Silver Races

NORDEN, Calif. (AP) — Top skiers from the United States and Europe will compete at the Sugar Bowl Saturday and Sunday in the Buddy Werner Memorial Slalom and the 22nd annual Silver Belt races.

Included in the men's events are Francois Bonlieu of France, a gold medal winner in the 1964 Winter Olympics; Billy Kidd and Jimmy Heuga, America's first two men's Alpine medal winners; Leo LaCroix of France and Karl Schranz of Austria, silver medal winners, and Ludwig Leitner of Germany and Gerhard Nenning of Austria, only two to finish among the top 10 in all three Alpine events.

Miss Berg Takes Lead In Title Holders Tourney

By MIKE BARRON
Associated Press Sports Writer

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — "I drove pretty well for the old girl," said 46-year-old Patty Berg who took a two-stroke lead over young rivals into the second round of the 25th annual Titleholders Golf Tournament today.

Miss Berg was speaking of her three-under-par 69 in the first round Thursday that boosted her into contention for her eighth Titleholders championship. She also was only one stroke away from the single-round record of 68 which she set in 1955 en route to her tournament record of 291.

"I hope the 291 is broken this time," she said. "Every time a record is broken it shows that women golfers are making progress."

Miss Berg, of St. Andrews, Ill., said she drove well througout the round.

"I was never in the rough at all," she adued.

She took only 24 putts in making four birdies, one bogey and 13 pars over the 6,300-yard Augusta Country Club course.

The 69 put her two strokes ahead of Judy Kimball of Sioux City, Iowa, and Betsy Rawls of Spartanburg, S. C. Gloria Armstrong of Alameda, Calif. and Jo Ann Prentice of Birmingham, Ala. had par 72s.

Defending champion Marilynn Smith of Runaway Bay, Jamaica, was tied with Louise Suggs of Cincinnati at 73. Tournament favorite Micky Wright of Dallas, Tex., was tied with six others at 74, five strokes off the pace.

Fountain Relays Set For Saturday Morning

By CHARLIE DREUX
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Track and field laurels will be up for grabs when 12 teams gather for the second annual Fountain Invitational Relays, Saturday at the Fountain Stadium.

In just one year Fountain Coach John Shultz has established a sound track program at the Class-AA school in addition to making the Fountain Relays the finest in its division.

Included in the star-studded field will be the State Class-AA defending champion, Alamosa and top challenger Durango. The Trojans and neighboring Pikes Peak League fellow member, Cheyenne Mountain, will join Alamosa, Durango and Salida as the favorites in the Saturday outing.

Durango has been most impressive in previous meets by turning in outstanding times, especially in the relays and hurdles. Tom McCord's Cheyenne team is the 1963 champion with Fountain the runner-up and Air Academy High the third place winner.

The Fountain Relays will start at 9 a.m. with the preliminaries and follow with the finals at 1 p.m. There will be no admission charge for the preliminaries. Tickets for the finals will be 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for students and children under 12 years old.

Other teams entered in the Fountain Relays include Florence, Harrison, Manitou Springs, Pueblo County, La Jara, Leadville, and Crowley County.

There will be 13 track and field events on Saturday's agenda. The Durango relay teams will be favorites in that department based on their previous performances. During the Grand Junction Central Relays, the Demons from the Western Slope dominated the relay events. The Durango quartet turned in a remarkable time in the mile relay turning in a brilliant 3:32.8, which by far surpassed anything this season by other Class-AA teams.

In addition, the Durango team was clocked 44.4 in the 440-yard relay and the Demons should win Saturday if they turn in that same time.

The high hurdles will be a competitive event with at least three lads capable of breaking 16 seconds flat. Locally, John (the Jet) Moore of Manitou will pit his skill against Durango and Alamosa's entries. The Demons have a high hurdier who turned in a 15.6 which rates him on equal grounds with the Manitou ace. Moore recently was clocked at 15.7 in a triangular at Fountain.

Fountain's Bob Carter should win the 100-yard dash as the Trojan flash has been unchallenged so far this season and has turned in a 10.1; his best mark to date. In addition, Carter should be a leading candidate for honors in the 220-yard dash and broad jump.

The weights will be open except the shot-put as Cheyenne's strongman, Rick Stowell, has the 12-pound iron ball throwing contest all to himself. The 220-pound All-State footballer set the Pikes Peak Relays record with a heave of 56½ feet to establish himself as the shot-put king in the Class-AA division.

Salida's Ed Ehmke is considered tops in the discus but he'll receive competitive from Stowell and Alamosa's entry.

In all, five teams have the potential to win the meet but all 12 teams have the capabilities to win individual honors.

COACH AND STAR PUPIL—Fountain Coach John Shultz congratulates his ace trackster, Bob Carter, after the Trojan speed merchant established new school records in the 100-yard dash and broad jump Wednesday during a triangular meet. Carter will be favored to win the century event Saturday, during the second annual Fountain Invitational Relays. There will be 12 teams entered in the competition at the Fountain stadium. CC Tennis Team Controls CSC Netters

The Colorado College tennis team picked up its third victory of the season when the Tiger netters downed visiting Colorado State College 8-1.

Conducted at two sites in Colorado Springs, the dual tennis match was held at the Garden of the Gods country Club and Monument Valley Park.

The CSC only won a single match when Tom Sommers defeated CC's defending Rocky Mountain Conference singles champion, Cy Dyer, in a close match which went 7-5, 3-6, and 6-4. The Tigers won all three doubles matches.

The following is the results of the dual match:

Singles — Tom Sommers def. Cy Dyer (CC), 7-5 3-6 6-4; Duncan MacNaughton (CC) def. Harold Derkens, 8-6 8-6; Bill Yost (CC) def. Ray Golden, 6-2, 6-1; Bob Bohac (CC) def. Dick Olson, 6-1, 6-2; Bill Cogswell (CC) def. Paul Clarey, 6-4, 7-5; Jim Hegiberger (CC) def. Bill Hakonson, 7-5, 6-3.

Doubles — Dyer and Yost (CC) def. Derkens and Sommers, 6-0, 6-3; MacNaughton and Bohac (CC) def. Ransom and Clary, 6-1, 6-2; Cogswell and Hegiberger (CC) def. Golden and Hakonson, 6-4, 6-2.

Carson Shooter Wins Two Matches

FT. RILEY, Kan. (AP)—Pvt. Aurelio Ontiveroz of Ft. Carson, Colo., won two matches of the Fifth Army pistol tournament Thursday.

They were the 25-yard timed fire and 25-yard rapid fire, both in the new shooters' classification. The five-day tournament ends today.

Toronto Deadlocks NHL Series

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Red Wings, accustomed to coming from behind and battling to win important games, have reached that point again.

Toronto extended the Stanley Cup hockey playoff finals to the limit with a 4-3 victory Thursday night on Bob Baun's goal at 1:43 of an overtime session. A Detroit victory would have given the Red Wings the Stanley Cup.

It was ironic that Baun should score the winning marker, a shot that deflected off the long end of defenseman Bill Gadsby's stick and past the surprised Terry Sawchuk. It was Toronto's first shot of the overtime.

Baun wasn't even supposed to be on the ice, Toronto Manager-Coach Punch Imlach said.

Traveling secretary Lou Niss of the New York Mets was sports editor of the defunct Brooklyn Daily Eagle.

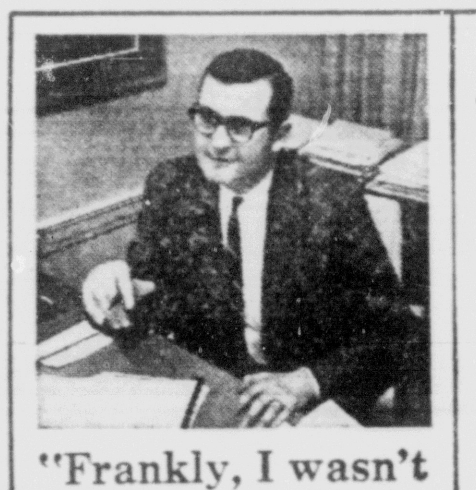
IT'S THE TALK OF THE TOWN!



"Frankly, I wasn't in the market for a new car this year but..."

Lots of people "just-looking" at the new models fell in love with the 1964 Dodge and the deal offered by the "Dodge Boys." After all, why put off buying a Dodge till the end of the year when you can buy today.

"It seemed the cars I really liked, I couldn't afford"

Well then, wait'll you drive the '64 Dodge! Big, bold and daring...priced with Ford and Chevrolet. Even better when you start talking deals with the "Dodge Boys."

"I didn't believe all that jazz about being priced with Ford and Chevy"

Hard to believe, but true! Just drive out to see the "Dodge Boys" and ask them to prove it. He'll be happy to!

You said it, Neighbors! The good word is Dodge! Big Dodge 880—standard-size Dodge—compact Dodge Dart! People are buying them at a record rate. And there's another good word—and it's deal! The "Dodge Boys" deal! That's the clincher to the "Dodge Boys" success story.

THANK YOU NEIGHBOR!!!

Sportsman's Raceway Opens Slate, Sunday

Sportsman's Raceway Park will open its 1964 auto racing season Sunday afternoon with the first of 23 regularly scheduled weekly stock car programs.

Beside the weekly events, featuring two divisions of racing automobiles this season, several special programs have been lined up for the coming summer.

The first of these will be the night of July 3, when a combined United States Auto Club—Rocky Mountain Midget Assn., sanctioned midget card will be presented. This should be the biggest show of these thrilling, speedy, high-performance machines held in the Rocky Mountains in many years.

Top midget drivers from throughout the Rocky Mountains as well as several nationally known U. S. A. C. drivers are expected to enter cars for this co-sanctioned event.

Another special event scheduled for this summer, is the "Tournament of Thrills" auto stunt show, which will be held the night of July 26. These thrill shows, featuring nationally known stunt drivers, are always crowd pleasers.

The two divisions of cars running at Sportsman's this season will be semi-modified stockers, and semi-modified late models consisting of cars dating from 1949 thru 1964.

The past two weeks, several drivers and car owners have been working the bugs out of their new machines, and notably among them is the return to auto racing of Colorado Springs driver, John Talley.

Last Sunday, Talley was attempting to work out some handling problems that crept up in his 1955 Ford, which is powered by a 427-cubic inch Super Maurauder high-performance engine.

Ray Beck of Golden also made an appearance last Sunday, working bugs out of the engine in his 1957 Pontiac, which is powered by a 389-cubic inch engine equipped with the Tri-power high-performance option.

Mike Wooley, one of last year's high point drivers at Sportsman's, has been out on the quarter-mile asphalt oval the past several weeks, getting his 1955 327-cubic inch Chevy in shape for Sunday's opener.

Gary Ager, one of the three Ager brothers who have raced the Sportsman's oval the past two years, has purchased Grier Ford stocker, the familiar black and white number 42 that Manning drove to many Main Event victories the past several years. Ager was turning in some very fast laps last Sunday, and should be a real threat in the stocker division this season.

Track officials have announced that racing will continue on Sunday afternoons for the next two or three weeks until warmer night-time weather permits the switch to Saturday night racing.

Time trials get underway Sunday at 1:30 p.m., with the first Trophy Dash starting immediately following the timing of the last car.

Celtics Favored In NBA Tilt

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The biggest crowd in the history of professional basketball in San Francisco will jam the Cow Palace tonight to see the Boston Celtics renew their feud with the Warriors in the NBA playoffs.

The favored Celtics, carrying a 2-1 series lead in the best of seven playoffs, were crushed by Wilt Chamberlain & Co., 119-91, in their last outing here Wednesday.

"But you can count that as just one of thost things," says Coach Red Auerbach of the Celtics. "The Warriors just got extraordinarily hot and bombed us. That's liable to happen to any club at any time."

Red, or course, is hoping it happens to his Boston strong boys in this fourth game. In the Boston Garden, the Warriors were no competition at all for the Celtics as the home club won by scores of 108-96 and 124-101.

Both teams go into the fourth battle of the titanic series in good condition—although the Warriors have a couple of fingers hurting. Tom Meschary has one finger in a cast, and Guy Rodgers has a dislocated thumb. Both men, however, were outstanding in Wednesday's slaughter of the visitors.

Following the battle tonight, the teams head for Boston and the fifth game of the series on Sunday.

Rookie Throws No-Hitter In Beating Dallas, 3-0

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If Spokane's pitching gets any better, the Dallas hitters might as well go to the plate by proxy.

Rookie Bill Singer, a 19-year-old right-hander who toiled in the Texas League last year, spun a no-hitter Thursday night en route to a 3-0 victory in the seven-inning opener of a doubleheader against the Rangers. It was the first no-hit game in Dallas in a decade.

Then Bob Radovich came back in the nightcap to blank Dallas 4-0 on four hits. Spokane's pitching has bordered on the incredible in the last three games.

Wednesday, Howie Reed tossed a one-hitter at the Rangers, with the only blow a homer by Ken Harrelson in the seventh inning. With only one run and five hits in three games, it's no wonder the Dallas hitters are reluctant to leave the dugout.

Just 408 fans were on hand as Singer, 6-7 with Albuquerque last year, walked two and fanned three. Only two balls were hit hard against the youngster, who celebrates his 20th birthday today.

Until Singer sewed up the Ranger bats, the last no-hitter at Dallas was by Luis Arroyo on Aug. 11, 1954.

The dougle victory made Spokane the winningest team in the Pacific Coast League with a 6-2 mark. The Indians trail Seattle by a few percentage points in the Western Division.

If pitching was the story at Dallas, lack of it was the big news at Oklahoma City where the 89ers rallied to nip Tacoma 9-8 in 10 innings in a contest which featured eight home runs. Fittingly, the game was settled by a homer, John Hoffman's with one out in the 10th.

Tacoma built an 8-1 lead after three innings on a grand-slammer in the first by Dick Dietz, Hal Lanier's two-run shot and Norm Larker's solo blast. The 89ers rallied for six runs in the fourth with Joe Wooten and Carroll Hardy hitting for the distance. Wooten's second homer in the fifth tied the game and it stayed that way until Hoffman's 360-foot smash sent everyone home.

San Diego pushed over four runs in the eighth inning to gain a 7-5 verdict from Salt Lake City. Tommy Helms' two-run triple put the Pads ahead to stay. The winners got four homers from Ken Walters, Jim Campbell, Steve Boros and Tony Perez, all with the bases empty.

Don Davis hit a three-run double in the third to give Salt Lake a 3-0 lead and John Boccabella stroked his fourth homer of the season in the fifth for the Bees.

At Honolulu, the Hawaii Islanders took it on the chin again, losing 9-8 to Denver in 11 innings. Two Hawaii errors opened the floodgates for the Bears' winning rally.

Rain washed out a pair of doubleheaders, Seattle at Arkansas and Portland at Indianapolis.

Kansas State to Test Big Eight Leaders, Mizzou

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A Kansas State team which showed its best pitching in several years against Oklahoma is the next test for Missouri's perfect record in Big Eight baseball Friday and Saturday at Columbia.

Kansas and Oklahoma, both on the heels of Missouri with just one defeat each, must play on the road. Kansas takes on long-overdue Oklahoma State at Stillwater while Oklahoma meets Colorado at Boulder, where the Buffs always seem to be at their best.

Iowa State faces Nebraska at Lincoln in the other weekend series. Doubleheaders will be played Friday and single games Saturday at Boulder and Stillwater, the opposite at Columbia and Ames.

K-State permitted Oklahoma just seven runs, only four of them earned, in a 36-inning three-game series. The Wildcats won the first one 1-0 in 15 innings, lost 2-0, then bowed 5-4 in 14 innings.

Another encouraging factor to K-State Coach Ray Wauthier was the skimpy four walks surrendered by his pitchers in the 36-inning series. But the Wildcats must improve their hitting to beat Missouri.

Coach Toby Greene's Oklahoma State club, rated a contender before the season, lost five straight — three in league play — before Gary Riley's two-out, two-run single salaved a 4-3 victory over Colorado.

John Wilkins, OSU's all-Big Eight shortstop, started slowly but has hit .438 in four league games, pulling his average to .313.

Kansas and Oklahoma are depending chiefly on sophomore pitchers in their drive to unseat Missouri's defending champs.

'First-Class Cricket' Prime Minister Home

LONDON (UPI)—Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas Home was made an honorary member of the Lord's Taverners Thursday and heard Taverner President John Snagge praise him as follows:

"In all our history, he is the first prime minister who has ever played first-class cricket."

Stan Musial, retired, batted .317 against Los Angeles Dodger pitchers in 1963. He hit .313 against the New York Mets.

IDU IN SMALLPOX

The fight against smallpox is continuing and it looks as though we may have a new treatment. Last year we wrote about a new preventive, Marboran. The drug used in treating smallpox, should it occur, is IDU. This compound cured a true viral disease of the eye (herpes simplex keratitis) about two years ago. Will it be equally effective against the virus that causes smallpox?

Yale's Dr. Paul Calabresi found IDU safer to take when combined with thymidine, an essential part of the cell's genetic material. The combination was given to people who had not been vaccinated against smallpox for 20 years or more. These vaccinations did not "take" but they did after IDU was discontinued. The physician concluded the viruses in the vaccine were "stopped" by IDU.

More research will be needed to determine whether this drug will work in smallpox. We do not wish to infer that it will replace vaccination: prevention remains the best way to handle this infection.

A scar on an arm or a thigh does not mean lifelong protection against smallpox. Vaccination every five to seven years is recommended, except when travel requirements call for more frequent prophylaxis.

The procedure does not add to immunity unless there is a skin reaction. The primary reaction ("take") occurs in a fully susceptible person. A somewhat different response is noted in those who were vaccinated many years previously and who remain partially immune. It begins on the second day with the formation of a single bleb surrounded by a red halo. This accelerated response, as it is called, subsides during the second week and does not leave a scar.

A third type of reaction appears when an immune person is vaccinated. A temporary ¼ inch swelling also surrounded by a red halo, occurs within three days. This is what should happen in the person who is vaccinated frequently. Failure to develop any of these reactions is not a sign of full immunity. It may mean the vaccine was inactive or the procedure was done improperly. Revaccination is suggested.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

Indian Sugar Farmers Threaten to Leave Fiji

SUVA, Fiji (AP) — Fiji's 80,000 Indian sugar farmers and their families are threatening to leave the British islands after leases on their cane fields end next year.

Ayodhya Prasad, secretary of the farmers' organization, cabled an appeal for help to U.N. Secretary-General U Thant after a protest meeting of 1,800 farmers. He said farmers are being "deprived of their land and crops and moneys from their contribution to the sugar stabilization fund. The government is not in any visible way trying to assist such farmers."

The Fiji government said the appeal to Thant was "mischievous and misleading."

FAT
OVERWEIGHT

Available to you without a doctor's prescription, our drug called ODRINEX. You must lose ugly fat or your money back. No strenuous exercise, laxatives, massage or taking of so-called reducing candies, crackers or cookies, or chewing gum. ODRINEX is a tiny tablet and easily swallowed. When you take ODRINEX, you still enjoy your meals, still eat the foods you like, but you simply don't have the urge for extra portions because ODRINEX depresses your appetite and decreases your desire for food. Your weight must come down, because as your own doctor will tell you, when you eat less, you weigh less. Get rid of excess fat and live longer. ODRINEX costs $3.00 and is sold on this GUARANTEE: If not satisfied for any reason, just return the package to your druggist and get your full money back. No questions asked. ODRINEX is sold with this guarantee by: Phillips-Smith Drug Store — 13 S. Tejon — Mail Orders Filled.

Hot Beatle Records Ignite Accidentally

COHASSET, Mass. (AP) — Employees at a 10-cent store here are convinced now that the Beatles' rock-and-roll records are the hottest in the industry.

A whole pile of the British mop-heads' discs burst into flames. Fire Chief Charles Piepenbrinck said the blaze, confined to the records, was evidently caused by someone dropping a lighted match or flaming piece of paper.

Florida Strikes Blow For Horseless Carriage

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — After 60 years the American Automobile Association has struck back at horse lovers. When the car first appeared, it met opposition from horse owners who yelled "Get a horse," and tried to rule the new machines off the road.

But last year's Florida legislature finally struck a blow for the horseless carriage. It passed a measure barring horses and other animals from interstate highways and turnpikes.

POOR AIM

DENVER (UPI) — Dennis E. Smith, 22, of Boulder, Colo., shot a police officer Thursday —with a toy water pistol.

Smith told the judge who fined him for drunkenness that he didn't want to hit patrolman R. B. Henry. He just missed when he aimed for the word "traffic" on Henry's police cruiser.

U.S. Denies Claim Of Swedish Airman

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)— The U.S. Embassy has quickly denied a claim by Swedish air force Col. Stig Wennerstrom that he began his spy career as an American agent.

The embassy said in a statement that American authorities had thoroughly investigated Wennerstrom's claim, and "all such allegations are completely without foundation."

Wennerstron, who served as Swedish air attache in Moscow and Washington and held high posts in the Swedish Defense Ministry, is on trial for allegedly handing over Swedish and American military secrets to the Soviet Union over a 15-year period.

UNITE IN PRAYER

WUSHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson Thursday designated May 30, Memorial Day, as a day of prayer for lasting peace.

He asked that all Americans unite in prayer for a world of law and order starting at 11 a.m. local time.

Johnson also requested the nation to invoke God's blessing on "those who have died in defense of our country."

Salida DA To Seek Office as Judge

Robert W. Nevins, district attorney for the eleventh judicial district, has announced that he will be a candidate for the additional district judgeship at the fall elections subject to the will of the Republican Central committee.

Nevins made his announcement in a letter to William R. Stinemeyer, Republican Central committee chairman, in which he pointed out that next January the eleventh judicial district will be divided into two divisions — a northern and southern division.

He noted that Judge Max C. Wilson will remain on the bench as judge of the southern division while he will seek the post for the northern division which will consist of Park and Chaffee counties. Nevins makes his home in Salida.

FIGHT HYPOKINESIA*

*Hypokinesia—that's the medical term for soft, weak, flabby muscles. Its cause: lack of exercise. And it's a threat to many youngsters. Those who spend long, inactive hours watching television. Those who don't participate in sports. Those who ride when they should walk. Those who have every modern comfort. The physical decline of American youth must be stopped. Parents should insist on nothing less than 15 minutes of vigorous activity every day at school—for every boy and every girl. Contact your school officials. For information about a basic program used successfully by many schools, send for the free leaflet offered by the President's Council on Physical Fitness, Washington 25, D. C.

Rena Miller Queen of Florence Club

Rena Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Miller, Rainbow Park, was named queen of the Florence Saddle and Roping club at the clean-up day and queen contest Sunday. Miss Miller was one of eight girls who competed.

Selected as First Attendant was Penny Sterling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Sterling, Canon City, and Second Attendant is Betty Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Wilson, Canon City.

The other girls competing were Lauren Harris, Kathy Roberts, Barbara West, all of Canon City; Kathy Smith, Wetmore, and Kathy Singleterry, Florence.

The contest is based 70 per cent on horsemanship and 30 per cent on showmanship or personality. They rode the American Quarterhorse reining pattern.

The judges were Jack Morris, Canon City, and Bert McDermott, Pueblo.

The queen and her attendants will reign over the Saddle and Roping Club Rodeo on May 10 and Miss Miller will compete with queens of all the clubs in the Arkansas Valley in the Southern Colorado Horsemen association queen contest held in Florence May 10.

Black Forest News

By MRS. DIANA HURST — 495-2744

The Black Forest Community Church held its monthly Fellowship supper in Hardesty Hall this Thursday, April 23 at 6:30. Co-hosts will be Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Hoskins, Rev. and Mrs. Nick Natelli and Mr. and Mrs. Burt Bittner.

A birthday party was held Monday afternoon, April 20, for Laurie Pedigo. Laurie is the daughter of Staff Sgt. and Mrs. Wally Pedigo of the Air Force Academy. Helping Laurie celebrate her third birthday were approximately 15 children and their mothers. Mrs. Alfred Hoskins and her daughter Janine were among the guests from this area. Favors of color books and lollipops were presented to the children. A large birthday cake and coffee was served to the adults. The children enjoyed themselves with cup cakes with a candle on each one. Afterwards the children played various games.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Hurst, 89 Vessey Drive, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Whale, 123 East Washington St., Saturday night. A very pleasant evening was spent in the Whale's beautiful home, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Augustin, 1415 North Tejon and at the Las Vegas Club, which is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Whale.

The Black Forest Book Study Group will meet this Tuesday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Knapp, 450 West Burgess Road.

Three families became members of the Black Forest Community Church last Sunday: the Quinton French family, the Richard Lewis family and the Paul Vaughn family. This brings a total of nine new families to the church this year.

An exhibition of work was given Thursday evening, at 7:30 by the students of District 20 in the Academy High School. The purpose of the exhibition was for the parents to see how their respective children are progressing in various fields.

The Black Forest Chapel will show it's last movie in the Billy Graham series this Sunday, April 26, at 7 p.m. The movie is entitled, "Hope for the Space Age." It was filmed at the World's Fair in Seattle.

Mrs. Albert Bridges, 205 Hungate Road will undego surgery on Tuesday, in Memorial Hospital. Mrs. Charles Greve was in Penrose Hospital last week, but is reported to be home again now.

The correspondent requests that all friends of those people in hospital remember them by sending flowers and cards to make their stay in the hospital more pleasant.

The J. R. Woodruffs and the M. A. Warwicks went to Marios Rest in Denver Saturday, to hear the Mario Singers and to celebrate Mrs. Barbara Warwick's birthday.

The Rev. Jack Alfred, with the division of Home Missions of the World Council of Churches, was the guest speaker at the Senior High PF meeting Sunday at the home of Dennis and Douglas Vaughn, 18 Meadow Glen. The Rev. Alfred gave a talk and slides on, "Migrant Ministry Work in Colorado." Refreshments were served by Mrs. Nova Vaughn and Mrs. Barbara Warwick.

The Darwin Woolley's, 194 North Vollmer Road, took a trip last week to Rapid City, South Dakota. The Woolley's attended a retirement party given in honor of one of Mr. Woolley's friends from the Telephone Co. he used to be associated with.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Hoskins, 33 Leprechaun Lane, entertained Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Hurst on Sunday night with an Italian dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Morast, 150 North Holmes Road were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Darwin Woolley on Fridy night. The occasion was to celebrate Mrs. Peggy Morast's birthday.

Mr. George Colony, 182 North Black Forest Rd., was in an automobile accident last week. Mr. Colony was driving his car at the intersection of Black Forest and Shoup Roads when a car driven by Mr. John P. Weed ran into him. Mr. Colony spent some time in the Memorial Hospital suffering from lacerations of the head, pulled ligaments and multiple bruises, he has since returned to his home.

There will be a coffee hour after the eleven o'clock service Sunday, April 26 at the Black Forest Community Church.

The Rev. Nick Natelli and Ed Morast went to Pueblo April 20 for the installation of the Rev. Lewis Taylor in the Christ Congregational Church in Pueblo.

A gymkana and queen contest will be held this Sunday, April 26, at 1 p.m. This is being put on by the Black Forest Saddle Club. All entries will close at 12:30. There will be a 25 cent gate charge and a 10 cent entry fee on each event. Age limit for the queen contest will be from fourteen to eighteen, all entrants will be judged on horsemanship, personality and appearance. The age division on all gymkana events will be 14 and under and 15 and over. The gymkana events include: reining, bells, pole bending, goat tying, stake race, keyhole and saddle race. For further information call Pat Moser, 495-2486.

Baldwin Drama Has Premier In New York

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP)—The fire this time for James Baldwin is "Blues for Mister Charlie," a slashing drama of racial indignation.

Performed impressively by an Actors Studio cast, it premiered Thursday night at the Anta Theater, the first work for Broadway by the novelist-essayist.

In shifting from page to stage, Baldwin has lost none of his talent for impassioned metaphor and snarling anguish.

The story takes place in a small Southern town and revolves around the killing of a Negro youth by a white shopkeeper. The action moves back and forth in time as the people and pressures at work are brought into focus on the no-scenery stage, lighted by Abe Feder with moody force.

The large cast, artfully directed by Burgess Meredith, includes Al Freeman Jr., Rip Torn, Rosetta Le Noire, Lincoln Kirkpatrick and David Baldwin (the author's younger brother making his debut). All are good.

The drama reaches crescendoes of intensity in the performances of Percy Rodriguez, as the victim's father, and of Pat Hingle, a white newspaperman seeking to break the barriers of bitterness that separate his fellow townsmen.

The most difficult assignment is that of Diana Sands, a highly skilled actress, called on to deliver a long, unpleasant and irrelevant monologue during an over-extended courtroom trial scene. It is a jarring distraction from the general effectiveness of the enterprise—and so is a disk jockey who inexplicably sits at the side of the stage throughout the three-hour span.

Groucho Marx Doing All Right By His Family

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Nepotism? I'm crazy about it," said Groucho Marx with his usual studied irreverence. "Too bad I'm getting too old for it."

Irreverence aside, the acidic comedian seems to be doing all right by his family these days. Tonight his lovely wife Eden joins him on the Bob Hope Show in "Time for Elizabeth," a play written by Groucho and Norman Krasna.

Recently he appeared on the Steve Allen Show to introduce a new folk music act composed of his grandchildren. "But that wasn't nepotism," he declared. "Nepotism is when your relatives have no talent."

What of various other Marxes? Daughter Melinda is nearing 18 and making sounds of wanting to be an actress. "I never suggested it to her," said Groucho, "and that's the surest way to make her want to do it."

Son Arthur is co-authoring a new television series and brothers Gummo and Zeppo are involved in orange growing. And Harpo?

"He told me seven years ago he was retiring and he works harder than I do," said Groucho. "Right now he's touring the Northwest making appearances for United Jewish Welfare. I didn't even know he was Jewish."

With his family so actively employed, you'd think that Groucho might enjoy a leisurely life. Such is not the case. He continues his frequent television appearances; last week he did two of Carl Reiner's "Celebrity Game" shows in one night — and he wouldn't be adverse to taking on another series like his long-running "You Bet Your Life." He is considering two or three opportunities to do so.

Groucho was divesting himself of opinions at a high-toned Beverly Hills luncheon spot where he indulged in his favorite sport of head waiter-baiting.

"Do you call this a full portion of cheesecake" he demanded. "It's sliced so sharp you could shave with it."

He spoke fondly of "Time for Elizabeth," which has long been a cause with him. He wrote it with Krasna over a two-year period 15 years ago, but got involved in television before he could play it on Broadway. It flopped with another actor as star. Then Groucho did it in summer theaters for three years with great success.

Clemency Sought For Diem's Brother

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — Defense attorneys appealed for clemency today for Ngo Dinh Can, younger brother of the late President Ngo Dinh Diem. Can was sentenced Wednesday night to death on the guillotine.

The former overlord of central Viet Nam is expected to be executed within the next four days if the appeal is rejected by Maj. Gen. Duong Van Minh, the titular chief of state.

Can, 53, was convicted by a nine-man court on charges of murder, extortion and misuse of power. He was accused of planning and ordering the torture murder of three persons in 1956, 1957 and 1958.

Can, the last close relative of Diem in South Viet Nam, denied all accusations during the six-day trial.

McNamara Could Lose His Vote Of Confidence

By STANLEY MEISLER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has received a vote of confidence from the House. But angry cries may follow if he fulfills a prediction and closes three naval shipyards in the East before the year is out.

The vote of confidence came late Wednesday when the House by a unanimous vote of 365 to 0 passed the $46.8-billion defense appropriation bill.

All major attempts to change the bill with amendments failed and the measure, as passed, is pretty much the way McNamara wanted it.

The bill now heads to the Senate, where the civil rights debate has posed a legislative logjam.

Most of the controversy in the bill centered on a provision that limits the amount of repair and conversion work that can be done in naval shipyards, leaving the rest for private yards.

During the debate, Rep. Carl Vinson, D-Ga., chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, said this provision, first put in several years ago, has hurt naval shipyards.

"Before this calendar year is out," Vinson told the House, "you will see at least three shipyards closed." He named New York, Philadelphia and Boston.

This quickly drew a defiant cry from Rep. James A. Burke, D-Mass., who said, "I serve notice on the secretary of defense that we will not take this lying down."

Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., saying that the House Appropriations Committee "is the unwitting partner in the destruction of naval shipyards in the United States," introduced an amendment that would strike out the repair and conversion provision. But this lost on a standing vote of 130 to 82.

The provision, which allots 65 per cent of the work to the naval shipyards and 35 per cent to private yards, was supported by Rep. Gerald R. Ford, R-Mich., who told the House, "The private yards can do it cheaper."

The bill provides $461 million less than Congress appropriated for defense last year and is $712 million less than President Johnson requested in his January budget message.

The cut of $712 million is a little more than 1½ per cent of the original request.

Moscow Expresses Fear Of Red China's Intent

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Moscow displays fear that Red China has a long-range plan to smash out of its isolation and throw its weight around in Western Europe in competition with both the United States and the Soviet Union.

The plan might seem far fetched now, but evidently the Soviet Communist party is taking an extremely dim view of it, apparently nursing lively suspicions that the Chinese are up to no good.

The Soviets describe the Chinese plan as "the intermediate zone thory." The Soviet Communist party's top theoretical, Kommunist, denounces the entire thing as a serious danger to the world Communist movement.

The way the Soviets see it, the Chinese have decided to regard Japan, West Germany, France, Britain and Italy as nations under "the bondage of American imperialism" and therefore are wooing those countries.

The implication is that Peking is offering future prospects of a market of three quarters of a billion people and inviting these countries to get in on the ground floor.

Peking will remain unimpressed by Moscow's wrath.

Early this year, Mao Tze-tung the Chinese Communist leader, talked with visiting politicians from France. He is reliably reported to have broached the idea of a "third world" even to suggesting that some central organization be set up for a formal beginning.

Nothing has come of that, and nothing may come of it for a long time. But Mao's idea appears to be to start modestly, perhaps with Red China and France as the nucleus of such an organization.

Japan, West Germany and Italy would be approached later and perhaps later on even the British, if Britain should lose what Mao regards as her subservience to Washington. Some day, also, Latin-American nations and others might be invited.

So the Soviet Communists are accusing the Chinese of developing the notion that governmental leaders of France, West Germany, Japan and possibly even Britain should be looked upon by Communists as potential allies against the United States. Perhaps, by implication, this means allies against Khrushchev's supporters, whom Peking calls renegades from communism.

The Chinese have been making revealing comments from time to time.

Peking's newspaper, the People's Daily, has said the United States is approaching the time when it will be "deserted and forsaken by its allies in the capitalist camp." The same newspaper has made much of the idea that there is deep conflict between U.S. and Tokyo, meaning, it said, that Japan will eventually split with the United States.

Older generation Japanese appear to dislike the Soviets far more than they do the Chinese, for whom they have fellow feeling based on cultural background. Some Japanese even hint it would be a good idea to help China develop economically in hopes this would mute aggressiveness.

HAPPY'S BIRTHDAY

HAPPY, Tex. (UPI)—Folks in Happy are more than just happy over a new 750-foot well that gives promise of ending the town's annual summer water shortage. They are jubilant.

A six-inch stream of water from the new well has farmers as well as town dwellers elated because it opens up new possibilities for farms with a steadily dwindling supply of irrigation water from the shallower depths. The new well was drilled after Happy's lone city water well began to fail.

Public Prefers To See Stars In the Flesh

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Commercial television may be free, but experience has shown that the viewing public is happy to spend hard cash to see their favorites in the flesh.

Result is a flourishing and extremely profitable sideline for many popular television performers. It is personal appearances, summer theatre performances and special acts for fairs, rodeos and exhibitions.

Stars of westerns are always in demand for state and county fairs and rodeos.

Lorne Greene of "Bonanza" and James Drury of "The Virginian" have acts, which, like most others, involve horses, a singing group—and one number kidding Hollywood cowboys.

Andy Griffith occasionally does a country-style show.

Panelists on the more popular game shows, including Arlene Francis, Orson Bean, Peggy Cass, Betsy Palmer and Henry Morgan, are much in demand.

Performers who are not considered actors by the television public are very popular with audiences. Among them are Merv Griffin, Allen Ludden, Hugh Downs and Ed McMahon.

A fair, particularly a billion-dollar fair is a pretty exciting event.

But the New York World's Fair, officially opened Wednesday, was just too big, too diverse to be handled by a 90-minute television special.

NBC did its level best Wednesday night to give the nation an over-all look at the big show. Some of the photography was stunningly beautiful. But in spite of almost desperate efforts to make the arm-chair tour entertaining, it turned out to be a very long and frequently boring program.

The exhibitors probably did not like the opening day disturbances, but shots of the fair on the evening news programs, with integration demonstrators being hauled off to paddy wagons, held the interest more than the so-called entertainment show that followed.

Did It Come From Outer Space?

New Exhibit Will Feature Work of American Artists

Possibly the most advanced, contemporary art exhibition yet to be seen in this area will open Friday at the Colorado Springs Fine Arts Center.

"Americans 1963," containing 69 examples of American painting and sculpture by 15 artists, is being circulated by the Museum of Modern Art in New York as the latest in a series of special exhibitions selected by Dorothy C. Miller, Curator of Collections at the Museum.

The exhibition is generally considered to be the most widely diversified representation of new points of view in art, including some examples of "pop art," as has been seen in one exhibition.

The show's emphasis, according to Miss Miller, is on variety rather than on a single style or movement. The artists were selected as individuals, and are of such consequence, she believes, that they should be more fully known to the public. Each has had at least one showing in New York galleries.

Although, she claims that the exhibition does not necessarily represent any age group of artists, it is interesting to note that, with four exceptions, all are in their 30s or early 40s.

Painters in the exhibition are Richard Anuszkiewicz, Sally Hazelet Drummond, Robert Indiana, Richard Lindner, Ad Reinhardt, James Rosenquist and David Simpson.

The sulptors are Lee Bontecou, Chryssa, Edward Higgins, Gabriel Kohn, Michael Lekakis, Marisol and Jason Seley. Claes Thure Oldenburg's enamel-painted reliefs and objects fall midway between painting and sculpture.

Commenting on the exciting exhibition, Fine Arts Center Director Fred S. Bartlett said, "it certainly represents the most extreme points of view to be seen in art today and should be regarded as a survey on our immediate times.

"The fact that it is most highly abstract in concept," he said, "is simply another indication of the fact that a tremendous number of America's contemporary artists feel and work this way."

The exhibition will remain on view through May.

Child Star Steals Scenes

Patrick McGoohan, star of Walt Disney's fantastic feature motion picture, "The Three Lives of Thomasina," who has more than 600 acting performances behind him, stood quietly at the back of the set. He was not on call but had stayed to study a 6-year-old acting imp, Matthew Garber, at work.

"They are the bane of us actors. What children do on the screen always looks so natural," he explained. "But if an adult does exactly the same thing it looks like over-acting and is usually artificial. I'm trying to find out how they get away with it."

Art Guild Auction Set For Today

The 11th Annual Spring Art Auction of the Colorado Springs Art Guild will be held starting at 8 p.m. today in Perkins Hall on the Colorado College campus.

Mrs. Shirley Copp will act as auctioneer for the fourth consecutive year.

All of the items are original works of art created by area artists. The work is of fine quality, officials said and have already been received and classified.

Donated objects include oil and watercolor paintings; sketches, sculpture, ceramics and other art objects.

Artists who donated work include Earle Gardner, Charles Wilcox, Marion DeNoya, Ernestine Parsons, Marion Steavenson., Davie Roberts, Louise Geer, Jeanette Ward, Tabor Utley, Lloyd Samuelson, Alyda Powell, John Fetler, Sydell Sellmen, Goldie Steward, Dora Cunningham and Buck Gene Carey.

Half the proceeds from the sales will go to the Art Guild and the other half to the artist.

The Guild will set up a food table with homemade cakes and pastries and will serve coffee.

Camera Fans Will Descend En Masse on World's Fair

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

With the opening of the New York World's Fair, it is safe to predict that the area of Flushing Meadows, L.I., will become the most concentrated target for world camera fans for the two years of its existence. Its spectacular buildings, its colorful activities and its assorted multitudes will provide endless subject matter for every type of camera, day and night.

A World's Fair is a magical creation that appears suddenly full of wonders and excitement, then disappears.

How would you photograph the idea of a fair's appearance?

I first gave it some thought 25 years ago just before the opening of the 1939 New York World's Fair on the very same site. At that time I lived about two miles from the fairgrounds and could see the Fair taking shape from the roof of my apartment building.

I called a magician friend and asked him to pose for a bit of 'photo magic.' By photographing him from the roof of my building and by calculating the correct perspective and depth of field, I was able to picture a magician waving his magic wand and producing the Hemisphere and Trylon, symbols of the '39 Fair, from his top hat. Naturally it was an optical illusion or trick photography.

The idea still seemed good this year and this time I enlisted the assistance of Mark Wilson, star of ABC-TV's "Magic Land of Allakazam" and producer of a "Hall of Magic" show in the General Cigar pavilion at this year's Fair. We spent an afternoon searching for the right building for some more photo magic.

We finally found it at the Heliport, landing spot for helicopters which crowns the Top of the Fair restaurant. It was extremely windy and very cold but with the help of optical perspective, Mark Wilson was photographed producing the Unisphere, symbol of the Fair, from his magician's top hat.

I tried several cameras but the one that did the trick best was a 35mm single-lens reflex camera with the telephoto lens. You see exactly what you're getting with a single-lens reflex and the telephoto lens made the Unisphere appear larger and a more important element in the photo.

The problem of exposure and depth of field is very important, too, in this case because it is necessary that both the magician in the foreground and the Unisphere in the background be in focus. This was accomplished by shooting at a comparatively slow speed (1-60th), a small lens opening (f-16 for the late afternoon light) and with the camera focused on a spot a few feet behind Mark Wilson.

THIS IS CLEOPATRA?—Few of the more than three million people who saw Ice Capades last season have forgotten Hans Leiter, who's performing again with the show this weekend at the Denver Coliseum. Leiter returns first with a new partner, William Rider, in "Front Boy" in this year's Ice Capades, and appears again in a takeoff of "Cleopatra."

ABC to Repeat Documentary

"The Making of the President 1960," the highly acclaimed television adaptation of Theodore H. White's Pulitzer Prize-winning book, will be presented by the ABC Televeision Network Thursday June 11. The program, a dramatic study of American politics in action which was first shown by ABC-TV Dec. 29, is being repeated now as an historical document on the mechanics and excitement of a Presidential election.

"The Making of the President 1960," centering on the late John F. Kennedy's successful campaign for the Presidency of the United States, was produced by Wolper Productions, Inc., in association with ABC News.

The ABC-TV program, praised by the press and public, was among six selected by a special committee of the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences as United States entries at the International Television Film Festival to be held at Cannes, France, from April 27 to May 2.

The program was produced and directed by Mel Stuart, with Martin Gabel as the narrator and music composed and conducted by Elmer Bernstein.

Featured are exclusive film and still photos gathered from almost 500 different sources, including the candidates themselves, the television networks and other national news organizations, 19 television stations around the nation, and private citizens.

Informal personal footage supplied by the press secretaries of the candidates highlights the film, including rare 1959 and 1960 film of Vice President Richard M. Nixon, Sen. John F. Kennedy, Adlai E. Stevenson, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, and Gov. Nelson Rockefeller.

"The Making of the President 1960" follows the best-selling book in its story of the seven men who felt they were politically strong enough to be President of the United States, and how they went about getting the nomination. It then turns to the campaign, tracing how Senator Kennedy and Vice President Nixon went about trying to get elected.

Twin Bill at Two Theatres

Startling in its shock value and with strong overtones of sex, Allied Artists' highly acclaimed "Shock Corridor" is scheduled to open here on Wednesday at the 8th St. and Starlite Theatre.

"Shock Corridor" reveals the medical jungle doctors don't talk about, and it tells of the sensual obsessions that explode in a mental institution.

It is the story of a reporter caught up in a strange web of his own fashioning. But before he has reached his goal he begins to suffer a weird hallucination in which he thinks of his striptease sweetheart as his sister. All manner of things happen to him, among them being attacked by a bevy of beautiful passion-inflamed girls into whose mental institution ward he inadvertently walked.

The reporter is portrayed by Peter Breck, a screen newcomer, and the beauteous blonde Constance Towers is cast as his sweetheart, the shapely girl who became a striptease solely because it paid more than secretarial work.

In the institution, Breck meets a wide variety of persons, most notably a one-time nuclear scientist of unusual mental brilliance, an ex-GI who underwent some severe brainwashing in Korea and a Negro student who had been the only one of his race in a white university in the South.

The second first run hit on the program, "Bullet For Billy The Kid," stars Steve Brodie.

BB Stars in Starlite Pic

Brigitte Bardot, who introduced a new excitement to the phrase "sex kitten," currently stars with handsome young Robert Hossein at the Starlite Theatre in "Love on a Pillow," in color and Franscope. She plays a society girl who discovers that love and passion can be tender and violent, pleasant and painful and, always, demanding and vital.

The second feature, "Mission to Hell" is the savage story of a savage story of an expedition to wild and savage Africa.

"Love on a Pillow" was directed by Vadim, the brilliant young movie-maker who first discovered Bardot and made her an international star with "And God Created Woman." Vadim formerly was wed to the curvaceous blonde star.

Daughter of a prominent French businessman, Brigette had no special plans for her future during her school days; she turned to modeling while in her teens. Her face and figure on the cover of a magazine brought her to Vadim's attention, and he arranged for her to play a small part in a film on which he was working.

Relentlessly striving to succeed in this exciting new field, Brigitte acted in a series of minor films and minor roles; she not only learned to act, by acting, but she also took dancing and singing lessons. Since attaining stardom, she has appeared triumphantly in films made in France, Italy and in England.

'Prize' Goes To Aircadia

It's not often that you get a motion picture which is a suspense-thriller, a love story and a sophisticated comedy all rolled into one. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "The Prize," starting Sunday at the Aircadia Drive in theatre with Paul Newman, Edward G Robinson and the beautiful European actress Elke Sommer heading an all-star cast, is just such a picture and it spells Entertainment with a capital E.

The second feature, "Taras Bulba" is a return showing of one of the great film hits. It stars Tony Curtis and Yul Brynner and is filmed in color.

Based on the best-selling novel by Irving Wallace and filmed against arresting backdrops of Stockholm, Sweden, "The Prize" concerns a young American novelist who comes to Stockholm to accept a Nobel Prize and walks into both murderous danger and an uninhibited love affair.

Chief to Get Brynner Film

The United States Air Rescue Service is depicted for the first time on the screen in "Flight From Ashiya," opening Wednesday at the Chief Theatre through United artists release. Starring Yul Brynner, Richard Widmark and George Chakiris, the Panovision, Eastman color drama reveals how Americans in every part of the world are dedicated to saving life, even at the expense of losing theirs.

An extra special attraction on the same program, is "The Beatles Come To Town," in Technicolor. You will hear the Beatles sing several of their Show-Stopping-tunes.

The little known rescue service was born out of death, destruction and hate during World War II. Military organizations dedicated to saving lives were developed out of military necessity, inspiring the humanitarian concept of air-sea rescue operations. This concept, as universal as man's will to live, transcended the battle lines of war and survived in the post-war world to become the Air Rescue Service, with the motto "That Others May Live."

As far back as 1939, the German Luftwaffe conceived the rescue operation, and the British RAF then inaugurated a similar service. Based upon the experience of these two air forces, the U.S. formed its own Air Rescue Command.

Henry V. Back At FA Center

"Henry V," the technicolor screen version of Shakespeare's great drama, will return to the Fine Arts Center Tuesday.

The first financially successful movie of a Shakespearean play, "Henry V" owes much of its success to Sir Laurence Olivier who contributes his talent as actor, director and producer.

Set as a play taking place on the stage of the famed Old Globe theater in Shakespearean England about 1600, the film is a stage performance in celluloid until the camera breaks into the action of Henry's invasion into France. The famous battle of Agincourt still ranks as one of the most dramatic and colorful battle scenes ever filmed.

The movie has become a "must" for high school and college students of drama and literature, as well as the general viewing public who have seen the film in past years.

A distinguished cast, headed by Leslie Banks, Felix Aylmer and lovely Renee Asherson as the French princess, support Olivier.

Bonus Film At Vista Vue

A third and bonus feature has been added to the regular program showing tonight at the Vista Vue Drive-in Theatre.

Dean Martin is starred in the first big hit, "Who's Been Sleeping In My Bed" which is filmed in color. The second hit, "The Lion" stars William Holden and is a thrill packed story of wild Africa. The third and bonus hit, "Kentucky Rifle" stars Chill Wills.

Elvis Film Has 9 Tunes

The secret of Elvis Presley's success is a vibrant personality that projects excitement on the screen and, through his famous voice, onto record players throughout the world. Elvis burst onto the scene eight years ago as a phenomenon and his popularity has leaped ever since.

Now starring in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's romantic comedy with music, "Kissin' Cousins," now in its second week at the Cooper Theatre, Presley is established as one of motion pictures' top box-office stars and no one even comes close to him in record sales.

It is almost impossible to maintain an accurate ledger on his earnings as a recording star because the total goes up every day. During his first seven years with RCA Victor, his records grossed more than $130,000,000. The total at this date is somewhere near the $150,000,000 mark.

In "Kissin' Cousins," a hillbilly story in which Presley plays a dual role, he introduces eight new numbers, with Glenda Farrell rendering a ninth, a parody of "Won't You Come Home, Bill Bailey."

First off, there is the sizzling title song belted in true Presley tradition. With "Smokey Mountain Boy" he tries a new beat — a swing march.

The tribulations of being in love with two girls are told through a romantic ballad, "One Boy, Two Little Girls."

"There's Gold in the Mountains" describes the setting for the plot of "Kissin' Cousins."

"Catchin' On Fast" is a swinging dance number.

"Barefoot Ballad" is another true "jump" tune.

The tempo is changed with a slow ballad, "Tender Feeling."

"Once Is Enough" is another "rock" number, which gives Elvis an opportunity to let loose with everything.

General anesthesia implies insensibility to pain with total loss of consciousness.

Treatment Is Ute's Treat

"Shock Treatment," a story of the nightmare world of the mad, now showing at the Ute Theatre, co-stars Stuart Whitman, Carol Lynley, Roddy McDowell and Lauren Bacall.

The story begins with Roddy McDowall, chauffeur-gardener for a wealthy, miserly woman, being convicted of her murder but committed to an asylum as a psycho. During the trial he confessed he burned the money she kept hidden in the house — a fantastic sum which her executor refused to believe was burned.

The executor hires Stuart Whitman to get himself committed to find out from McDowall where the money is hidden. This he does and has previously boned up on horticulture to be assigned to work with McDowall.

When Lauren Bacall examines him she suspects he is a fraud and checks his background. Convinced, she unmercifully uses him as a guinea pig for a psychiatric experiment which has only heretofore been used on animals. Under drugs she finds out his reason for being there and determines to wrest the secret of the money from McDowall herself, then use it for the psychiatric research for which funds have been unavailable.

She goes psycho herself when the money (in ashes) is dug up by McDowall and Stuart Whitman (escaped and trailing her) saves her from being killed by the enraged McDowall.

Hi-Adventure Comes to Ute

Why the popularity of the movie spectacle drama? The chariot race of "Ben Hur," the battles of "El Cid," the tumult of "Spartacus," the sweeping desert scenes of "Lawrence of Arabia" — these are the ingredients which thrill motion picture audiences generation after generation.

Nor is the excitement limited to these big-scale dramas. On a more modest scale, a current example of this type of picture is the rousing historical action-drama, "Gladiators Seven," which starts Friday at the Ute Theatre.

In this story of Darius, a gladiator who vows to free Sparta from the rule of a cruel and treacherous tyrant, there is never a moment when the screen is not filled with action. The hero battles a dozen enemy warriors single-handed in a spectacular arena contest. Herds of ferocious bulls stampede a military camp, demolishing everything in their path. A raging conflagration has men and animals fleeing for their lives. Hero and villain duel to the death on the parapet of a fortress tower, with the life of the beautiful heroine at stake.

This is escapist drama at its best and it is what the public clamors for.

Victors Goes To 8th St.

Carl Foreman's "The Victors," opens Sunday at the 8th St. Theatre.

An added featurette, "Natures Strangest Creatures" filmed by Walt Disney is on the program.

"The Guns of Navarone" another Foreman picture was true adventure, spectacular and exciting; "The Victors" is a story of men and women who find themselves trapped and changed morally and emotionally, by tragedy of war. Their several stories, their temporary liaisons and desperate efforts to find meaning in their own lives and in the lives of others, are told in "The Victors" with passion, and compassion. It is explosive screen entertainment.

Filmdom advises that there never has been, and probably never will be, another motion picture experience quite like "The Victors." This is certainly credible, considering Foreman's way with a film: "The Guns of Navarone," "The Key," "Home of the Brave," "Champion," "High Noon."

A cast of international stars appear in "The Victors", such players as Vincent Edward, Albert Finney, George Hamilton, Melina Mercouri, Jeanne Moreau, George Peppard, Maurice Ronet, Rosanna Schiaffino, Romy Schneider, Elke Sommer, Eli Wallach and Michael Callan as Eldridge. Peter Fonda and James Mitchum, sons of two famous actors, are co-starred, along with Senta Berger.

Ute Features Special Show

"The Great Waltz," is the second in the series of Golden Operettas at the Ute Theatre to show next Thursday, one day only, on a continuous basis beginning at 1 p..

It is the story of romantic Vienna in the days of Franz Joseph with the haunting waltzes of Johann Strauss, the poignant romance of the life and loves of a great composer, blended with the pomp and pageantry of Europe's gayest court.

The picture stars Louise Rainer, Fernand Gravet and Miliza Korjus, with Gravet portraying the composer, Miss Rainer his wife, Poldi, and Miss Korjus the brilliant Carla Donner, opera star of the day.

The story deals with Strauss' rise as a musician, his joining the revolution, his idealistic love for the singer to whom his devoted wife offers to surrender him, and the greatness of a woman who refuses the sacrifice.

"The Great Waltz" will be followed on successive Thursdays by other great musical dramas in the series of Golden Operettas: Victor Herbert's "Sweethearts" will play Thursday May 7, then Oscar Strauss' "The Chocolate Soldier" on May 14, followed by Sigmund Romberg's "Girl of the Golden West" on May 21 and the last in the series, Rudolf Frini's "Rose Marie," on May 28.

WASH HIM OUT — Rossano Brazzi is the man Mitzi Gaynor tries to wash out of her hair in "South Pacific" which opens Friday at the Cooper Theatre.

Cooper Gets Musical Hit

Rodgers and Hammerstein's Pulitzer prize-winning musical, "South Pacific," in De Luxe color, is set to open at the new Cooper theare Friday.

Adapted from James Michener's best-selling novel, "Tales of the South Pacific," the film is the story of a U.S. Navy nurse, played by Mitzi Gaynor, who falls in love during World War II with a French plantation owner, portrayed by Rossano Brazzi, on a Pacific island. A concurrent love story concerns a Marine Officer, played by John Kerr, and a native girl, played by France Nuyen. It will be shown on the Cooper theatre's magnificent screen on a continuous basis with no seats reserved beginning daily at 1 p.m.

Critics have acclaimed "South Pacific" as one of the greatest musicals of all time. Much of "South Pacific's" romantic flavor was suggested by mood and conversation on the stage. Bali Ha'i, the enchanted island for example, and the boar's tooth tribal ceremony are shown on the screen with all the color and authenticity of actual location shots.

The glorious music by Richard Rodgers and the lyrics by Oscar Hammerstein II include "Dites-Moi Pourquoi," "Cock-eyed Optomist," "Some Enchanted Evening," "Bloody Mary Is the Girl I love," "There Is Nothing Like a Dame," "Bali Ha'i," "I'm Gonna Wash That Man Right Outa My Hair," "I'm in Love With a Wonderful Guy," "Younger Than Springtime," "Soft Shoe Dance," "Happy Talk," "Honey Bun," "You've Got To Be Taught," and "This Was Nearly Mine."

Jones' Role Caps Career

England's fascinating Joan Greenwood, who plays the worldly Lady Bellaston in the screen treatment of Henry Fielding's famous novel "Tom Jones," winner of 4 Academy Awards including the best picture of the year, now showing at the Peak Theatre has about as wide and varied a professional career on stage and screen as any actress in the business.

You name it — Joan's been in it.

Comedy?

Well, together with Alec Guiness, she's been in "The Man in the White Suit," "The Detective," and "Kind Hearts and Coronets."

Drama?

There's "Lysistrata," "The Grass Is Greener," "Bleak House," "The Broken Heart," and many another besides.

Revue? "Rise Above It." Conversation piece? "The Importance of Being Earnest," "The Confidential Clerk," "The Irregular Verb To Love."

And so on.

The daughter of the celebrated painter Earnshaw Greenwood, Miss Greenwood finished her formal education at 15 when she entered the Royal Academy of Dramatic Arts. And the stage, screen, radio and TV has claimed her ever since.

Her Lady Bellaston is played to the Tom Jones of Albert Finney, and she shines in a brilliant cast which also includes Susannah York, Hugh Griffith, Edith Evans, Diane Cilento, George Devine and David Tomlinson.

Weld Is Tame And Grown Up

Colorful Tuesday Weld comes of age as an actress, beginning what she calls her "adult career," in the feminine lead of the Jackie Gleason - Steve McQueen picture, "Soldier in the Rain," now showing at the Chief Theatre.

Recently turned 20, the minx who arrived in Hollywood in her mid-teens and was promptly dubbed "Garbo junior" and "Tuesday Wild," declares she has "reformed."

Tuesday now dismisses the mercurial didoes and little-rebel ways of her past as "just part of growing up."

The truth is, say those who know her best, that they were partly in retaliation for Hollywood's initial inability to take such a neat little trick on her own terms. Tuesday didn't want to be photographed as "cheesecake." She didn't want to be a table decoration at business men's luncheons. "I am," she asserted from the beginning, "a very fine actress."

Chorale Sets All-American Concert for Final Program

The music of America's 20th Century Composers will take the spotlight Friday for the Colorado Springs Chorale final concert of the 1963-64 season.

The program wil include compositions by two Colorado Springs residents and a special ballet number.

Curtain time is 8:15 p.m. at the Colorado Springs Fine Arts Center.

Director David Porter has put together a wide variety of songs, ranging from the gently melodic to the frivolous to the glamor of Broadway.

Porter is just completing his first year as director of the Chorale. He took over in April of last year after serving as assistant director for nine months. In the past he has staged two numbers for the Chorale, "Camelot" and "Show Boat" and has sung several leading roles with the Colorado Springs Opera Association.

The program opens with "Joy of Living," by Jerry Teske of Colorado Springs. The young composer has tried to capture just plain old bursting-out happiness in the composition.

Head of Choral Music at Palmer High School, Teske is a music major graduate of Colorado College. His initial experience with a musical career began while he was a member of an Army band. He began arranging numbers and later, under the influence of Carlton Gamer began composing. He has several string quartets and trios and piano pieces to his credit.

Following "Joy of Living," are two pieces by Randall Thompson — the melodic "Paper Reeds by the Brooks," and "Choose Something Like a Star."

The Chorale will then switch moods with two folk songs by Vincent Persichetti: "Jimmy's Got a Goil," and "Sam Was a Man."

Juliette Hester, a newcomer to Colorado Springs, will be soloist for "Under the Willow Tree" from the Menotti-Barber opera "Vanessa."

She came to Colorado Springs last year from Europe where she studied voice and opera performance and last November sang the role of Voletta in "Traviata" with the Colorado Springs Opera Association.

Comedy is next on the program and the Chorale presents a happy rendition of "Songs Mein Grossmama Sang," by David Morrah and Lloyd Pfautsch. This is followed by the quieter "Reflections."

"Sayings of the People, Yes," picks up the tempo again as the Chorale presents the Carl Sandburg — Sam Paohling composition which parodies famous sayings and is expressed in the stop-and-go rhythms of five o'clock traffic.

Norman Cornick and his dancers will present a ballet choreographed by Cornick to the music of Sousa's "Stars and Stripes Forever." Cornick, who has been head of the Colorado College Dance Department for the past 10 years, has appeared with Hanya Holm at the Aspen Music Festival and with the Lester Horton Dance Company of Los Angeles.

Tickets are $1.50 and may be purchased at the Chinook Box Office between 11 a.m. and 3 p.m. starting Monday. Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Ives at 634-6432.

Concert Will Feature Voice

The versatile "voice" of the Air Force Academy Band will be featured during the organization's Sunday concert at 3 p.m. in the Arnold Hall theatre.

T. Sgt. Ken Shaw, vocalist and announcer for the Band, will take concert-goers on a musical tour of "New York - My Home." Band conductor is Capt. Arnald Gabriel.

Guest performers for the concert include the combined Officers Wives Club Glee Club and the Cadet Chorale and "The Kingsmen," an instrumental - vocal group from the Band.

The program will open with a march, "On the Mall." M. Sgt. Dick Hubbard has arranged a special "New York Medley."

Sgt. Shaw will sing "Soliloquy" from Carousel, arrangement by S. Sgt. Wes Adams.

Selections from "L'il Abner" will spotlight Sgt. Shaw in "Jubilation T. Cornpone." M. Sgt. Dale Chamberlin is the arranger.

The Glee Club and Chorale is to be featured in "The Sound of Music," arranged by Sgt. Adams.

Gordon Jenkin's well known "Manhattan Towers" will combine the talents of the Glee Club and Chorale with Sgt. Shaw as narrator. A native of Boston, Mass., Sgt. Shaw has wide experience in radio and television. He served on staffs of stations in Boston, Los Angeles, and Colorado Springs.

In Washington, D.C., he worked for Radio Free Europe and the Voice of America.

He was assigned to the Academy Band after re-entering the Air Force in 1957.

FEATURED PERFORMERS — Marietta Wilhelm and James Francis will perform in the special ballet number to be featured in the final Colorado Springs Chorale concert Friday at the Fine Arts Center.

Over The Coffee Cup

By LEISURETIME STAFF

It happens every day. You go out for a cup of coffee and the other fellow or gal suddenly pops up with: "Did you hear about . . . ?" or, "Did you see . . . . ?" In this way, the news that doesn't get in the news gets around town. It's natural. Conversation is more essential to the coffee cup in these instances than doughnuts.

But what about the poor fellow who is not on the caffene kick? What of the gal who decides to take tea and see? We don't know any firm in town that offers its employees a tea-break. These poor unfortunates who don't need the residue of the boiled brown bean to open their eyes in the morning and keep them propped open throughout the day have to go through life relying on television or "Time" magazine to get their news (and the only thing they hear or read is things that are happening in the world.) We feel that because a follow prefers a leaf to a bean there is no reason he should be left out of things.

We realize, of course, that protocol forbids the coffee conversationalists from setting with the dedicated tea sippers — (How can you talk when you're sipping? or wondering what to do with a soggy teabag?). We realize that tea drinkers have no "grounds" for support; we realize that tea drinkers are "straining" to be free from this unwarrented stigma placed on them by the coffeebreakers. We believe that the need for knowledge in them has been "steeping" for years.

And because we do, it is to these people who never get together over the coffee cup that we devote, nay dedicate this potpouri of news and nonsense that splases out during our last coffee break . . . .

Have you ever found yourself wondering, after being frustrated trying to get into the GOLDEN BEE some night, just where in the heck all the people come from? We found out the other night. There was one bald-headed gentleman sitting in a corner with a postage stamp stuck on the top of his head. That's the way to get a seat. Mail yourself in.

HECK OF A WAY TO RUN A RAILROAD DEPT. — or maybe that should be department store? Anyway things are getting a little hysterical around the Wood Avenue residence of the R. H. RIXONS. Anyway, they're about as afraid to go to the mail box these days as a man who is four payments behind to the finance company. Just before Christmas, it seems, RICK spotted an ad for a gadget in a Denver paper. Being a devoted husband, he thought his wife would like the item and rocketed off an order and a check to cover the purchase. Then the return mail started coming. First there was a notice from the department store that the item was sold out at the time but a new order was in and RICK would get his when the new shipment arrived. RICK waited. Christmas passed. The mail again: the store returned Rick's check without explanation. RICK forgot about it. The mail again: the store had sent the gadget after all. RICK, honest fellow that he is, decided to send the store another check, but before he could mail his letter, his mail box carried another missive from the store: a letter apologizing to RICK for overcharging him for the item and enclosing his 57 cents change. The problem facing him now is should he risk sending a check for the full amount? Should he return the 57 cents explaining they had refunded him an overcharge for an item he didn't pay for? Or should he return the item itself? Tune in the next mail for the next exciting chapter in how to lose your mind when buying a Christmas gift.

WANDA, the lovely barmaid, down at the ACACIA LOUNGE, swears it happened to her the other night. She was minding her own business when a tiny green grasshopper jumped up on the bar. "Hi," WANDA said. "Say, do you know we have a drink named after you?" To which the grasshopper answered, she says, "What? You have a drink named IRVING?"

SIGNS AROUND TOWN WE LIKE — "Lumbering Along since 1872" on the facade of the NEWTON LUMBER CO., 23 W. Vermijo Ave.; "Love Makes Time Go, Time Makes Love Go," inscribed around the clock on the MARKSHEFFEL MOTOR CO. on Cascade Avenue; the sign over the MARCO POLO show at the BROADMOOR, executed with taste and restraint by sculptor JOHN FETLER — and can you remember where you saw "Whistle, Only in Bottles" painted on the brick side of an old neighborhood store? It's now buried under the modern front of the building at 307 E. VERMIJO AVE. Whistle, for the benefit of the young'uns is soda pop.

The thing about HUGH ROSS is that when he runs for office, he takes off full steam ahead. ROSS not only announced a year ahead of the primary elections themselves, but for awhile he was the only horse in the race. Which ever way the election turns out, people will know HUGH was in the race, as evidenced by a recent remark he made at a local meeting: "This is the first time in my life that I've heard people on all sides talk politics — I think it's because they're LOVEsick." And Hugh isn't even running for state office.

Then there was the attorney who, with a red face and very, very quiet voice, told the boys down at the Courthouse coffeeshop that he had to fire his secretary — she kept falling asleep while he was giving her dictation. We can only say that if his soothing voice can put secretaries to sleep, he maybe ought to change professions and become a specialist in treating insomniacs.

What makes reading the bulletin boards in supermarkets so wonderful is that not only can you find babysitters who won't sit with babies — kids have to be school age — and things like washing machines and haircutting kits, but you can find such interesting political things like this one we discovered in MILLER'S SUPERMARKET IN SOUTHGATE: "Stop Chisling Doctors Stop Mercinary (sic) Medicine Vote Medicare'" Now we haven't yet been able to figure out if this fellow was operated on by a doctor with a blunt scalpel, but we do know that the thing he hates about doctors is that they're in business to make money. In the good old days, he probably would have been against mercenary soldiers; mercenary merchants; mercenary women and mercenary gravediggers. In short he seems to be against anybody who does anything for money.

Us, we only dislike those who make more than we do.

GOOD APPETITE by Marguerite Mitchell

Rusty Cooks Up Derby Day Special for TV Race Fans

Creating a savory stew is an art. It takes patience, timing, and attention.

Such "tender loving care" to borrow from Shakespeare, will result in "a hit, a very palpable hit," also on loan from the Bard. (Well, it's his year, you know.)

If you're planning a party on Saturday, May 2 (that's Derby Kentucky's celebrated stew, burgoo.

According to Carey's "Dictionary of Double Derivations," "Burgoo" is literally a soup composed of many vegetables and meats delectably fused together in an enormous caldron, over which, at the exact moment, a rabbit's foot at the end of a yarn string is properly waved by a colored preacher, whose salary has been paid to date. These are the good omens by which the burgoo is fortified."

Burgoo was originally made from the wild animals hunted in the Blue Grass State. But now, after all, who could cook up an opossum after Pogo endeared himself to millions?

So lets just stick to lean stew meat (no fat, no bones) and several big fat hens. This naturally all depends upon how large a crowd of Derby-Leisuretime-Viewers you have invited over.

Let's start with a half dozen. One big fat hen and two pounds of good stew meat should be enough. Put the hen in the biggest pot you have on hand, and cover with cold water. Simmer gently for several hours, adding more water as it cooks down, and skimming off any stuff that needs to be taken of to keep the water fairly clear.

When the hen is tender (test by gently piercing its thigh), remove from broth and allow to cool. Add stew meat which has been diced into inch-size squares and simmer gently. Never let meat boil roughly or it will be tough. Cut the cooled chicken into fairly large chunks and return to pot.

While all this stewing is going on, prepare the following: six potatoes, peeled and quartered; six carrots and six celery stalks, cut on the diagonal into inch long pieces; 24 creaming onions, whole; fresh corn cut from six cobs, a fourth cup chopped parsley, and a medium head cabbage, shredded.

Add vegetables to stew pot along with a package of frozen baby limas and a can of whole tomatoes. Add more water if necessary, enough to completely cover the vegetables.

Simmer the burgoo for about an hour. Season with salt, pepper if desired, Worcestershire and tobasco.

Serve in large bowls with hunks of French bread. The broth is delicious strained and served clear but is equally good as a dunk for the bread crusts.

By omitting the stew meat, potatoes, celery and carrots, cabbage, and substituting two cups cut okra, a cup of toasted bread crumbs as a thickening agent, and a half cup sherry, the burgoo can be transposed into a Brunswick Stew. Add the bread crumbs during the last 30 minutes of cooking.

Like the bouillabaisse, both are noble dishes, "a sort of soup, or broth, or stew," Thackeray said.

SQUARE 'EM UP! by Lou Maddock

Fike, Saunders Will Head Jamboree Planning Groups

The Southeast Council meeting held in Publo last Sunday was well attended. Plans are being formulated for the annual Jamboree to be held Aug. 27. Dave Fike was appointed chairman for the Colorado Springs area and Harry Saunders for the Pueblo area.

Dancing is the loftiest, the most moving, the most beautiful of the art, because it is not from life; it is life itself, but to most of us it is just fun — a pleasureable recreation,a gratifying hobby. People in sedentary jobs find in square dancing the exhilaration of improved muscle tone and get a more relaxed outlook on life in general. Watch a floor of dancing people and note the expressions on their faces; not a frown on a face; everyone is happy, everyone having a good time, mutually enjoying the one recreation that only friends can fully enjoy, for they are all friendly people.

Some prominent people we do not generally associate with square dancing are Bing Crosby, Ronald Coleman, Lowell Thomas — all successful, enthusiastic callers.

It is hoped there will be a big crowd over at the Shrine Club Monday when Bruce Johnson will be calling. Bruce is a very popular caller out in California and many here will have their first opportunity to dance to him; those who have danced to him before are eager to meet him again.

MOSTLY ABOUT COINS

Coin Collectors Shy Away From World's Fair Medals

By The
Out of the Pockets Collector

They advertise it as the "perfect souvenir o fthe New York World's Fair" and true it may be for the medal collector but to the dyed-in-the-wool coin collector, it just is not a coin and it is a pretty hard chore to get a coin collector to collect anything but coins.

Starting with the Columbian Exposition of 1893, the United States issued its first commemorative coin and there were several of these throughout the year: commemorating various events, anniversaries and the like.

The Columbian half-dollars are still around in quantity, (they struck 950,000 in 1892 preceeding the actual opening of the Exposition and 1,550,405 in 1893, the year that Chicago played host to its first 'Worlds Fair' the Columbian Exposition) If you hanker for one of these Columbian half-dollars today, you'll look a long time before one comes through your pocket change but most any coin dealer will be able to supply you with a brilliant, uncirculated (BU) speciman for a price ranging from $2.50 to $3.75 for the 1893's and a slightly higher figure for the 1892 date.

They sold for $1 each at the Fair in 1893 but in the case of the New York World's Fair this year you have a choice: Silver, bronze or titanium-zinc, BUT you can't spend them as you could the Columbians. (When the Chicago Fair as over there was still a large supply of the half-dollars and these were placed in circulation by fair officials and were passed around for several years before they were all stashed away because of their uniqueness.

The silver medal commemorating the New York World's Fair has been struck in a quantity of 10,000 of .999 fine silver. It is 1¼ inches in diameter, sells for $15 and you get a "descriptive leaflet" when you purchase one. The bronze is the largest of the three, 2½ inches in diameter, and there is also a descriptive folder but the price is a mere $4.

The medal that will no doubt enjoy the largest sale, because it sells for a $1, is the titanium-zinc number, measuring 1½ inches in diameter but they do put it in a plastic case.

Medal collecting is a hobby within itself and one that has attracted a great number of devotees. They have their own clubs on local, state, regional and national level sand publish their own books and magazines. A person may be both a medal collector and a coin collector but it is really following two different hobbies; like the old maid who raised cats and geraniums.

Collecting medals is quite an undertaking. There are medals for this and medals for that, issued by this company and that company so as to make it almost impossible to keep up with them all.

There are certain medals struck by the Philadelphia Mint such as the silver medal that is making its appearance in connection with the Nevada Statehood celebration this year. (These medals will be the subject of a later column.)

Then there are the medals that are struck by local organizations, commissions and sponsoring groups of various celebrations.

To mention but one is to recall the medal that was struck by a group in Greensburg, Kan., two or three years ago in connection with a historical celebration. They are usually struck in small numbers, a thousand, two thousand or maybe even five thousand or more. They cost but a few cents apiece in large lots and many of them find a ready market among the local residents and the people who have lived in the community in times past. Usually distributed through local banks and chambers of commerce, they may circulate freely as legal tender during a period of a month, six weeks or even as long as six months, preceeding, during and for a short time after an event. They act as an advertising medium of the event, a fund-raising medium of the event and also a very unique way of furnishing a really collectable souvenir of the event itself.

Possibly there will be a large number of the New York World's Fair medals bought by people who will want it as a momento of having attended the fair, as a thing to take to the folks back home, etc.

Pictures of the medal depict it as a handsome piece, with the obverse having the "Unisphere" the symbol of the fair itself and the dates 1964-1965 immediately under the symbol, while around the medal appears the legend, "Man's Achievement in An Expanding Universe—New York World's Fair."

The reverse has the legend "The 300th Anniversary of The Founding of The City of New York — 1664-1964" around its outer edge while the center has an early settler and an Indian with an early colonial coat of arms between them and the familiar eagle with spread wings over the shield, the date 1664 and the Latin inscription on a ribboned semi-circle reading "SIGILLUM CIVITATIS NOVI EBORACI."

(Perhaps some good reader who has a descriptive folder of the medal will send it and the medal along so that a better description of the medal can be given in this column in a few weeks and if you want to secure one of the medals we will tell you how if a stamped, addressed envelope is received with your inquiry).

Some people speaking and writing and talking about the new fifty-cent piece that bears the likeness of the late JFK have uninformedly referred to the JFK coin n as a commemorative coin. The JFK coin is a part of our regular coinage, will be struck in about 90-million pieces this year and will no doubt be struck according to the needs of the nation during the next twenty-four years and possible longer.

(Coins are only changed in design after having been used for twenty-five years, or more, unless sooner authorized by the Congress as was the case with the JFK half-dollar. It was in 1948 that the Benjamin Franklin half-dollar first appeared and with its mintage terminated in 1963, after only 15 years, it is one of our shortest lived coin designs. We've had the Jefferson nickel since 1938 and the Washington twenty-five cent piece since 1932. While the silver dollar has not been minted since 1935 and there is no official word as to when if ever there will be additional silver dollars minted and as to the design they will have if they are minted, there is a possibility that silver dollars with a 1964 date would be of the peace design, but an even chance that a new design would appear. It must not be forgotten that the Morgan Silver Dollar was not minted from 1904 until 1921 when they struck several million as well as adapted the Peace design. With a span from 1921-1935, the Peace Silver Dollar has had but fourteen years in the coinage picture of our nation's monetary history).

P. S. Cards, letters, questions, informative criticism and comments addressed to this column are always welcome).

TV Seats Are Hard to Get

"When you've got a live audience program and just so many seats available you've got to be strict about seating," says Ed Perry, manager of guest relations of ABC-TV in New York City.

Normally, Ed steels himself against the pleas of ladies and gentlemen who arrive at the studios on West 67th Street to try and see "The Jimmy Dean Show" on Thursday evenings.

But recently Ed's strong-willed manner melted under the pleading eyes and words of 31 children and four adults who had traveled almost 50 miles to see the show.

"What happened," Ed says, "was that this group — from Plainview, Long Island — had chartered a bus to the city to see Jimmy and the program. The driver got lost once he got to the city, they arrived late and found the doors closed."

"But the kids — ranging in age from nine to 15 — started with 'Gee, we came all the way to see Jimmy and Rowlf,' or 'Aw, come on, Mister, let us in.'"

The group headed by Mrs. George Gray did have tickets and Perry "squeezed the played checkers with the audience to fit everyone in."

"To try and make up for the tight-fit inconvenience, our staff took the group on an informal, impromptu tour of the facilities and the dressing rooms. It was a little rough, but they all had a fine time."

Symphony Fund Is Rapidly Approaching $25,000 Goal

The Colorado Springs Symphony is rapidly approaching its goal of $25,000 for the sustaining fund for the upcoming symphony program and tickets are running out.

Mrs. George Vradenburg, manager of the Symphony, said that $17,500 has been raised to date from more than 400 contributors.

She said that tickets for the 1964-65 season are four-fifths sold out but that orders may still be placed by contacting the Symphony Orchestra office.

Slated to appear here during the season are Richard Tucker, Rise Stevens, Jose Iturbi and violinist Shmuel Ashenasi.

Mrs. Vradenburg said that cooperation of city businesses has aided greatly in the current success of the drive this year.

"Our board of directors has contracted for the finest musical season ever attempted in our community," Mrs. Vradenburg said. "In order to continue with our ever expanding program, we must have the complete support of our city. I am sure that Colorado Springs is proud of being the home of what has been called the finest orchestra of its kind in the country. It is up to us all to carry our share of the responsibility for maintaining this community asset."

CC Sets Production of Marlowe's Dr. Faustus

With all the fuss about Shakespeare's 400th anniversary, everyone seems to have forgotten that this is also the 400th anniversary of one of the bard's contemporaries — a man whom some believe is the actual author of Shakespeare's play.

The anniversary of the birth of Christopher Marlowe is also being celebrated this year and Colorado College will honor the adventurer - writer next Saturday.

Students and faculty members will produce Marlowe's 16th century tragedy "Dr Faustus" starting at 8 15 p m Saturday in Shove Chapel. The production is open to the public without charge.

Marlowe, who was killed at the age of 29 in a knife brawl resulting from his counter-spy activities in England, is regarded by some scholars as the man who really wrote the plays that bear Shakespeare's name.

Periodically Kit Marlowe's name is bandied about along with Bacon's and others in scholarly discussions of the author of MacBeth, Hamlet and others.

One can compare the style of Marlowe with that of the Shakespearean plays Saturday at Shove Chapel.

A total of 30 students and faculty members have been cast in the production which has been in rehearsal since April 11.

In the title role as Faustus is Kenneth Burton, assistant professor of religion and minister of Shove Chapel.

Other faculty members in the cast are: history Professor William Hochman as the chorus, Thomas Mauch of the English department as Emperor Charles V; and physics Professor Wilbur Wright as the Horse-Courser.

Students featured in the cast are Michael von Helms as Mephistopheles, Joseph English as the Old Man, Stephen Wiley as the Evil Angel, and Richard Knight as Wagner.

The play is directed by James Fox, a senior, with the assistance of Onica Friend. Settings are by Frederick Davis, costumes by Joan Carter, and the program is by English Professor Thomas Ross.

Sponsoring the production is the Associated Students of Colorado College, the student governing body, and the Committee on Religious Life.

NBC Special Gets Award

Sigma Delta Chi, the professional journalism society, named the National Broadcasting Company recipient of a public service award for its unprecedented three-hour TV program on the civil rights movement, "The American Revolution of '63."

In announcing the award Russell E. Hurst, Executive Officer of Sigma Delta Chi, released the judges' citation which stated that "NBC enlarged the scope of television journalism by illuminating the American Negro's struggle for freedom and equal rights . . . demonstrated singular public-spirited motives and increased the public's understanding of one of American's most pressing domestic problems."

This commendation is the fourth major award received by "The American Revolution of '63," an NBC News program broadcast Sept. 2, 1963. The National Conference of Christians and Jews gave the program an Annual Mass Media Brotherhood Award, citing it as the best network documentary on television. The American Civil Liberties Union and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People both commended the program as being of "historic significance" and "educational value" to the civil rights movement.

Doc Severinsen Will Hold Open Concert Clinic Here

Carl "Doc" Severinsen, the man who is at the front end of trumpet players in this country and often finds himself the butt-end of the jokes of Johnny Carson and Skitch Henderson on the "Tonight" show will conduct a "concert clinic" here May 3.

Severinsen, accomplished musician that he is, will wear three hats for the performance to be given at Arnold Hall at the Air Force Academy.

He will perform with the Falconaires, the Academy dance band; the Academy concert band, and will join Johnny Smith and his quartet for a jam session of sorts.

The program, which is designed primarily for music students, is open to the public without charge. Severinsen's appearance is being sponsored by local schools, music stores and the Academy band.

Severinson learned the trumpet from his father back in his native Arlington, Or. At the age of nine, young Doc, whose father was a dentist and thus the nickname, won the Oregon state music contest. Four years later he placed first in the National Regional Senior Division.

After high school and Army service, Severinsen was features with the orchestras of Charlie Barnett, Sam Donahue, Tommy Dorsey and Gene Krupa. In 1949 he settled in New York and began working with Vaughn Monroe's "Camel Caravan." He became a staff musician with NBC and worked such shows as Kate Smith, Dinah Shore, Eddie Fisher, Sid Caeser and was regularly featured on the original Steve Allen Show.

He served both as soloist and conductor for the Allen and the "NBC Bandstand" shows and presently is featured on Johnny Carson's Tonight show as soloist and assistant conductor.

Severinsen has been called "the most exciting musician on the clinic scene today." In addition to his versatility, his tone quality is one which teachers agree they would like most to have their students imitate.

Severinsen, who is married and the father of three children, records for Command Records.

Repeats Set For Series

"Moment of Fear," a series of suspense, adventure and mystery plays originally telecast on various dramatic programs, will be presented on NBC-TV Tuesdays beginning May 12 and continuing through Sept. 15 in the time-period now filled by "You Don't Say!"

These TV plays, which were seen in prime time during recent seasons, star such headliners as Bette Davis, Ronald Reagan, Linda Darnell, Michael Rennie, Merle Oberson, George Sanders, Jose Ferrer, Janis Paige, Nick Adams, Carolyn Jones, Agnes Moorehead and Brian Aherne, among others. The selection of plays will encompass the most popular shows from the various series.

Leisuretime Viewing

Last week we had Fidel Castro. This week we have Charles de Gaulle. The main differences between the two is that de Gaulle has a clean-shaven chin, a non-communist tag and an opinion of himself that makes Castro look like a pigmy. De Gaulle also came to power a little bit differently than the bearded liberator to the south.

At any rate you can follow de Gaulle's rise to power in the first of a two part show WEDNESDAY (channel 11, 10:30 p.m.) and see the aftermath next week at the same time.

Crews of "CBS Reports" spent 13 months gathering the film and material for the unusual documentary — unusual for CBS Reports since it is the first two part show they've done on a single personality. You'll see de Gaulle as an obscure lieutenant colonel and his very successful efforts to rally a defeated nation to stand-up to Hitler's Hordes. Also covered in the two-part show are the conflicts the French president had with Churchill and FDR.

From the battles of politics and such, the Leisuretime Viewing Spotlight moves to the battles of the ring and "Boxing's Last Round," TUESDAY (channel 5, 8 p.m.). David Brinkley — without Chet — explores what may be the dying gasp of the Manly Art of Self-Defense.

Let's face it, boxing is at its most critical stage in history in this country. Perhaps the American people are getting tired of watching two men try to beat the hell out of each other, or perhaps, and in view of the past, there is not enough blood for them. At any rate, boxing is at the point where it may fade completely from the American scene as a lucrative profession for poor boys trying to make it big in hurry.

The NBC cameras cover all aspects of the sport, presenting a somewhat sympathetic view of the men whose fists are their bread and butter to the more unsavory characters who have invaded the dressing rooms. Interviews during the show are with Gasious Cassius Clay—lesser known as Mohamad Ali or the guy who flunked the Army IQ tests; Sonny Liston, the bear with a paw of honey and a gun he carries for friends; Emile Griffith, who started the whole fuss about how bad boxing is because an opponent he fought died in the ring — funny how it only happens to champions, the criticizm that is; nobody ever condemned Ezzard Charles or some of the lesser known fighters — and Mrs. Benny Peret, wife of the man who died in the ring with Griffith.

And so, from political and physical battles, we turn to intellectual battles — that of who was the guy what really writ them plays by the old English drunk, Willie Shakespeare. Now nobody with no sense knows that nobody with no sense knows that no fellow who liked to booze it up in the London taverns, deserted his wife and was a miserable actor could write such stuff like Hamlet. It must not have been that there guy Shakespeare.

At any rate, this year marks the 400th birthday of the Bard and NBC repeats its highly acclaimed "Shakespeare: Soul of an Age," SUNDAY (channel 5, 8 p.m.). The color cameras visit the places associated with Shakespeare and his plays — what are believed to be the actual sites of MacBeth's confrontation by the witches and Richard III's death among others — as well as Stratford on Avon. Sir Michael Redgrave will read excerpts from some of Shakespeare's plays and Sir Ralph Richardson will narrate.

Other shows which fall into the Leisuretime Viewing spotlight include:

"The Defenders," TODAY (channel 11, 6:30 p.m.) rush to the rescue of Glynis Johns (and what red-blooded American male wouldn't?) who plays a four-time loser kleptomanic in "The Thief." Miss Johns, as the kelpto faces life imprisonment if she is convicted of shoplifting for the fourth time so the Prestons look for her estranged father. Logical, isn't it?

Eddie Albert, singer Jane Morgan, comedians Rowan & Martin and the Step Brothers join Ken Murray and his home movies on "The Hollywood Palace," TODAY (channel 13, 7:30 p.m.). Murray also features one of his famous "Blackout" sketches with a surprise guest.

Roy Wilkens, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, will try to provide the answers on "Issues and Answers," SUNDAY (Channel 13, 12:30 p.m.). Wilkens will probably be questioned about the demonstrators loosed on the World's Fair by the rival, Congress for Racial Equality. A profile of Pennsylvania Gov. William Scranton who ain't runnin for the Republican presidential nomination but ain't runnin away from it either; a report on Grand Central Terminal's keeper of the clocks; an archeological report on Guatemalan civilization and commentary on Spring's arrival from abroad are among the features on "Sunday," SUNDAY (channel 5, 2:30 p.m.).

The Army always seems to be having problems with defectors to the enemies — that is if you believe the movies. And the army of the future seems to have them too as evidenced on "The Outer Limits," MONDAY (channel 13, 6:30 p.m.). "The Chameleon," is the story of a man hired by Central Intelligence to impersonate a creature from outer space and infiltrate their space ships in order to kill them because the creaturees . . . . . just, watch it, if you like it.

"The Fugitive," TUESDAY (channel 13, 9 p.m.) is almost as complicated. Kimble, working as a bartender in a swank Tucson night spot, becomes involved with the club's entertainer, her son and her mentally disturbed husband in this first of a series of repeats.

From space creatures, to bars, to commandos — that's where "Suspense" leads us WEDNESDAY (channel 11, 6:30 p.m.). Harry Townes has the title role in "Donald Roberts," a story of a battle-ignorant intelligence officer and the men who hate him — like Bruce Gordon—and the men who try to make the men like him — like James Daly. Roberts causes the death of a soldier on a commando raid and the suspense begins.

George Peppard, Darren McGavin and Madlyn Rhue get together for "The Game With Glass Pieces" on the "Bob Hope Presents the Chrysler Theatre," FRIDAY (channel 5, 6:30 p.m.). Peppard stars as an actor who is out of work, can't find work and doesn't like it. Peppard comes well equipped for the role. He starved while trying to hit it big and finally did after countless odd jobs and a lot of worry.

Donnelly Rhodes stars as an artist who threatens to do what every artist threatens to do when a museum won't accept him as a genius and his work as a masterpiece — bomb the museum on "The Alfred Hitchcock Hour," FRIDAY (channel 11, 8 p.m.). In "Ten Minutes From Now," Rhodes makes his threat then shows up at the museum carrying a shoe box that ticks. And erstwhile police officer Lt. Wymar, played by Lonny Chapman, grabs the artist and turns the box over to the bomb squad. They find an alarm clock. Wynn faces a suit of false arrest by the artist and the problem of trying to figure out if the artist is serious about carrying out the bomb threat or not — alas, only Hitchcock knows for certain.

CC Sets Production of Marlowe's Dr. Faustus

With all the fuss about Shakespeare's 400th anniversary, everyone seems to have forgotten that this is also the 400th anniversary of one of the bard's contemporaries — a man whom some believe is the actual author of Shakespeare's play.

The anniversary of the birth of Christopher Marlowe is also being celebrated this year and Colorado College will honor the adventurer - writer next Saturday.

Students and faculty members will produce Marlowe's 16th century tragedy "Dr. Faustus" starting at 8:15 p.m. Saturday in Shove Chapel. The production is open to the public without charge.

Marlowe, who was killed at the age of 29 in a knife brawl resulting from his counter-spy activities in England, is regarded by some scholars as the man who really wrote the plays that bear Shakespeare's name.

One can compare the style of Marlowe with that of the Shakespearean plays Saturday at Shove Chapel.

A total of 30 students and faculty members have been cast in the production which has been in rehearsal since April 11.

In the title role as Faustus is Kenneth Burton, assistant professor of religion and minister of Shove Chapel.

Other faculty members in the cast are: history Professor William Hochman as the chorus; Thomas Mauch of the English department as Emperor Charles V, and physics Professor Wilbur Wright as the Horse-Courser.

Interviews during the show are with Gasious Cassius Clay—lesser known as Mohamad Ali or the guy who flunked the Army IQ tests; Sonny Liston, the bear with a paw of honey and a gun he carries for friends; Emile Griffith, who started the whole fuss about how bad boxing is because an opponent he fought died in the ring — funny how it only happens to champions, the criticizm that is; nobody ever condemned Ezzard Charles or some of the lesser known fighters — and Mrs. Benny Peret, wife of the man who died in the ring with Griffith.

And so, from political and physical battles, we turn to intellectual battles — that of who was the guy what really writ them plays by the old English drunk Willie Shakespeare. Now nobody with no sense knows that nobody with no sense knows that no fellow who liked to booze it up in the London taverns, deserted his wife and was a miserable actor could write such stuff like Hamlet. It must not have been that there guy Shakespeare.

At any rate, this year marks the 400th birthday of the Bard and NBC repeats its highly acclaimed "Shakespeare: Soul of an Age," SUNDAY (channel 5, 8 p.m.). The color cameras visit the places associated with Shakespeare and his plays — what are believed to be the actual sites of MacBeth's confrontation by the witches and Richard III's death among others — as well as Stratford on Avon. Sir Michael Redgrave will read excerpts from some of Shakespeare's plays and Sir Ralph Richardson will narrate.

Other shows which fall into the Leisuretime Viewing spotlight include:

"The Defenders," TODAY (channel 11, 6:30 p.m.) rush to the rescue of Glynis Johns (and what red-blooded American male wouldn't?) who plays a four-time loser "kleptomanic" in "The Thief." Miss Johns, as the kelpto faces life imprisonment if she is convicted of shoplifting for the fourth time so the Prestons look for her estranged father. Logical, isn't it?

Eddie Albert, singer Jane Morgan, comedians Rowan & Martin and the Step Brothers join Ken Murray and his home movies on "The Hollywood Palace," TODAY (channel 13, 7:30 p.m.). Murray also features one of his famous "Blackout" sketches with a surprise guest.

Roy Wilkens, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, will try to provide the answers on "Issues and Answers," SUNDAY (Channel 13, 12:30 p.m.). Wilkens will probably be questioned about the demonstrators loosed on the World's Fair by the rival, Congress for Racial Equality. A profile of Pennsylvania Gov. William Scranton who ain't runnin for the Republican presidential nomination but ain't runnin away from it either; a report on Grand Central Terminal's keeper of the clocks; an archeological report on Guatemalan civilization and commentary on Spring's arrival from abroad are among the features on "Sunday" SUNDAY (channel 5, 2:30 p.m.).

The Army always seems to be having problems with defectors to the enemies — that is if you believe the movies. And the army of the future seems to have them too as evidenced on "The Outer Limits," MONDAY (channel 13, 6:30 p.m.). "The Chameleon," is the story of a man hired by Central Intelligence to impersonate a creature from outer space and infiltrate their space ships in order to kill them because the creaturees . . . . just, watch it, if you like it.

"The Fugitive," TUESDAY (channel 13, 9 p.m.) is almost as complicated. Kimble, working as a bartender in a swank Tucson night spot, becomes involved with the club's entertainer, her son and her mentally disturbed husband in this first of a series of repeats.

From space creatures, to bars, to commandos — that's where "Suspense" leads us WEDNESDAY (channel 11, 6:30 p.m.). Harry Townes has the title role in "Donald Roberts," a story of a battle-ignorant intelligence officer and the men who hate him — like Bruce Gordon—and the men who try to make the men like him — like James Daly. Roberts causes the death of a soldier on a commando raid and the suspense begins.

George Peppard, Darren McGavin and Madlyn Rhue get together for "The Game With Glass Pieces" on the "Bob Hope Presents the Chrysler Theatre," FRIDAY (channel 5, 6:30 p.m.). Peppard stars as an actor who is out of work, can't find work and doesn't like it. Peppard comes well equipped for the role. He starved while trying to hit it big and finally did after countless odd jobs, and a lot of worry.

Donnelly Rhodes stars as an artist who threatens to do what every artist threatens to do when a museum won't accept him as a genius and his work as a masterpiece — bomb the museum on "The Alfred Hitchcock Hour," FRIDAY (channel 11, 8 p.m.). In "Ten Minutes From Now," Rhodes makes his threat then shows up at the museum carrying a shoe box that ticks. And erstwhile police officer Lt. Wymar, played by Lonny Chapman, grabs the artist and turns the box over to the bomb squad. They find an alarm clock. Wynn faces a suit of false arrest by the artist and the problem of trying to figure out if the artist is serious about carrying out the bomb threat or not — alas, only Hitchcock knows for certain.

Take Your Pick

For a thunderstorm sequence in Universal's "Marnie," Alfred Hitchcock hired one of Hollywood's most specialized specialists, Walter Hammond. His specialty — creating lightning charges to match any desired pattern of forking or zig-zaging.

10-Years Long

Now 20 years old, Jada Rowland has played Amy Ames on "The Secret Storm" on the CBS Television Network since its premiere on Feb. 2, 1954.

Changing Times

Many recent contestants on "What's My Line?" ply occupations that were even in existence when the show premiered on Feb. 2, 1950.

Fringe Benefits

"Candid Camera's" Allen Funt has turned a whole office-building floor into recreation rooms, complete with sauna baths, for his staff.

More than 1,400 urban renewal projects have been undertaken since the program began in 1949.

HOTEL FURNITURE TO BE AUCTIONED

It was announced yesterday that the Ross Auction House has been commissioned by the Broadmoor Hotel to sell 25 rooms of its used furniture at public auction.

The sale will be conducted next Monday afternoon in the Ross Auction sales rooms at 123 South Cascade Avenue.

Jack R. Ross, Auctioneer, said the furniture for Monday's sale, is about ten years old and is two-toned bleached mahogany and birdseye maple. It is of the finest construction and the finish is resin bonded.

The large variety of items to be sold consists of twin beds, high-boys, low-boys, vanities, desks, mirrors, overstuffed chairs, night stands and upholstered straight chairs.

The auction of this quality used furniture will start at about 1:00 P.M. Monday afternoon at the Ross Auction House.

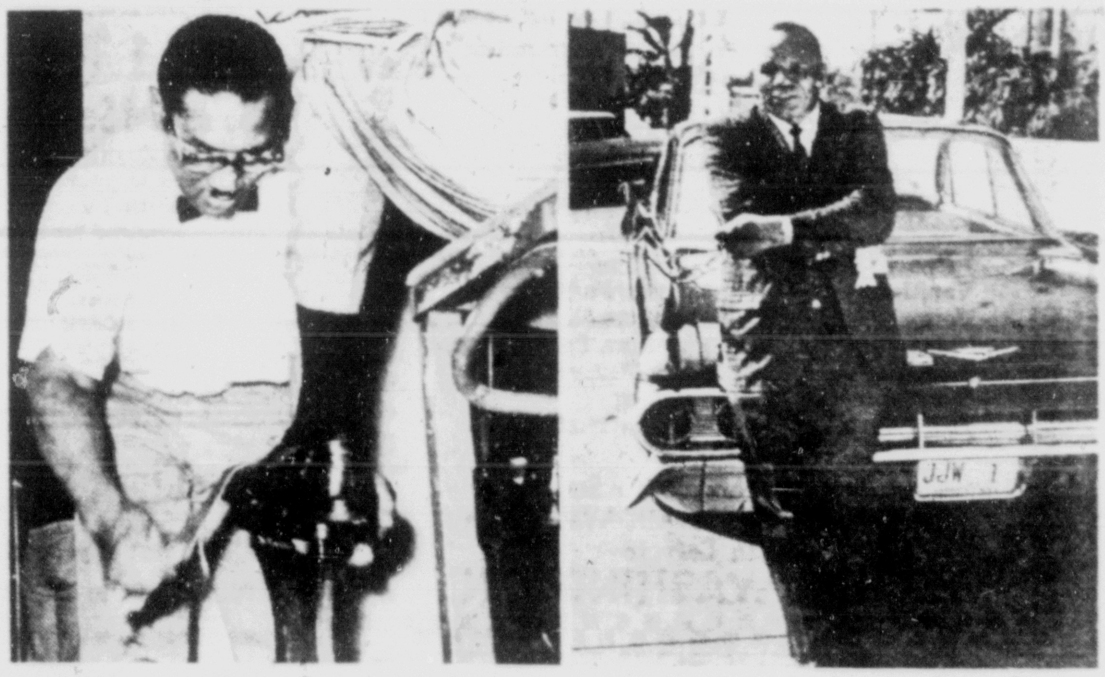
RED'S GUEST — Tony Bennett, whose heart can be found in San Francisco, appears as a clown as guest on "The Red Skelton Hour" Tuesday on Channel 11. Virginia Grey and Jules Munshin also guest star.

MAN ON THE WAY UP—How far up he will go, only Gen. Charles de Gaulle, president of France, knows for certain. But American television viewers will have a chance to trace the rise of the French Man of Steel in a two-part broadcast to be carried on Channel 11. The first part of "DeGaulle: Roots of Power," will be seen at 10:30 p.m. Wednesday with the second part scheduled for the following week. Above, top, left, de Gaulle as a boy of 10; to pright, de Gaulle making a speech in London in 1941; center, left, de Gaulle and officers after the 1044 liberation of Paris; center, right, de Gaulle practices posing after graduating from the French West Point; bottom, left World War I ended and the future leader of Paris is a proud captain; bottom, right, a scene in a maximum security Prisoner of War Camp in Germany where de Gaulle spent three years in W. W. I.



FORMER CHAMPS — Two former boxing champions represent the extremes experienced by athletes who choose prizefighting as a career. Beau Jack, left, once the lightweight champ, now earns a living shining shoes. Jersey Joe Walcott, right, ex-heavyweight king, is a well-to-do motel owner. They are among those who will appear on "Boxing's Last Round," Tuesday at 8 p.m. on Channel 5.

Emmy Show Hosts Set

Joey Bishop, star of NBC-TV's "The Joey Bishop Show," and E. G. Marshall, star of "The Defenders," will be co-hosts and masters of ceremonies for the 16th annual presentation of "The Emmy Awards" during the NBC-TV Network special of Monday, May 25.

Bishop will preside at the origination from the Palladium in Hollywood and Marshall will be host for the New York portion of the awards telecast from the Music Hall at the Texas Pavilions of the New York World's Fair.

Bishop served as emcee for "The Emmy Awards" shows in 1961 and 1963. Marshall won Emmy Awards in 1962 and 1963 for his portrayal of lawyer Lawrence Preston in "The Defenders," in the category of "Outstanding Continued Performance by an Actor in a Series."

Bob Finkel will be the executive producer of "The Emmy Awards" show which will mark its 10th consecutive year on NBC-TV with the May 25 telecast.

Lisa Howard Gets Award

Lisa Howard, ABC News Correspondent, has been named winner of the 1964 "Matrix Award" of the Philadelphia Professional Chapter of Theta Sigma Phi, the national fraternity of women in journalism.

Miss Howard was cited "for outstanding achievement in journalism and communications."

Theta Sigma Phi is presenting her with the award "in recognition of the unusual quality of the journalistic powers you have displayed, in exclusively reaching the most reticent news sources, and in reporting your finds to the nation."

Otis Would Rather Switch Than Fight

"Switching to Sno-White and enjoying their "collar-comfort" laundered shirts at "four-for-a-buck" was no pain at all!", Otis said today.
"But fighting with my neighbor about quitting smoking didn't leave me a leg to stand on," Otis added. Adv.

'Show' Blasts TV Immunity

New York, N.Y.—"The heroic resistance of the national television networks to programs of quality and importance is legendary," say the editors of "Show," and they prove their point in the April issue by citing an international prize-winning documentary that the networks wouldn't give the time of day, or night.

"A conspicuos example of NBC, CBS and ABC immunity to excellence," reports "Show," "is 'The Chair,' a brilliant, outspoken, minutely documented portrayal of the dramatic last-minute reprieve of Paul Crump. (Crump was the first condemned murderer in the U.S. to have been saved from electrocution on the grounds of rehabilitation. Louis Nizer, the veteran trial lawyer, successfully presented the plea.)

"Show" catalogues the producers' "making the disheartening rounds of agencies and network programmers for six months"; tells of their sending the program to the Cannes Film Festival in May 1963, where it won the Eurovision Grand Prix as the world's best TV program of the year; describes the producers' second unsuccessful attempt to sell their award winner to Madison Avenue. "Now once more," says Show, "the locals have come forward and lucky viewers in some selected communities coast to coast will have the opportunity at long last to tune in one of the best TV shows ever produced."

Show follows its statement with a five-page preview of "The Chair," offering readers who might never be given the opportunity to see the program "a glint of the programming gold the lead-loaded networks habitually pass by."

Carson Set For Vegas

Johnny Carson will headline a show at the Sahara Hotel in Las Vegas this summer. The star of NBC-TV's "Tonight Show" will perform at the noted nightclub for one month, beginning July 7. (Woody Allen has been selected as the first of several substitute hosts on the "Tonight Show" during Carson's absence.)

Carson's only previous nightclub experience consisted of a week at a small cafe in Bakersfield, Calif., some 10 years ago. Since then Carson has become the most popular personality in the late-night [illegible] viewing and has received more than 100 nightclub offers.

Tentatively scheduled to join Carson for the Sahara show are John Bubbles and January Jones, entertainers who have frequently appeared as his guests on the "Tonight Show."

Recent Films Sold to NBC

The National Broadcasting Company has announced the completion of a second multi-million-dollar agreement with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer for the television premieres of a new package of seletced feature film attractions for presentation on NBC-TV during the 1964-65 season.

The list of prestige films, which includes numerous widely acclaimed attractions and virtually every major Hollywood star of the past decade, will be broadcast on NBC-TV's "Saturday Night at the Movies" and "Wednesday Night at the Movies" (NYT), beginning in the Fall.

NBC's first agreement with M-G-M was announced Feb. 28, 1963, and the television premieres of the films began in the current NBC-TV schedule on "Monday Night at the Movies" and "Saturday Night at the Movies."

The selection of NBC-TV presentations will be made from among such outstanding motion pictures as:

"Adam's Rib" — Spencer Tracy, Katharine Hepburn; "Bad Day At Black Rock" — Spencer Tracy, Keenan Wynn; "Battleground" — Van Johnson, John Hodiak; "The Brothers Karamazov" — Yul Brynner, Maria Schell; "Designing Woman" — Gregory Peck, Lauren Bacall; "Escape from Ft. Bravo" — William Holden, Eleanor Parker; "Green Mansions" — Audrey Hepburn, Lee J. Emmy 'n' Day Set April 28

April 28 will be "N" Day for 1963-64 Emmy Awards, when the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences announces the list of nominations for this year's Emmys, it was announced today by Mort Werner, President of the academy.

The nominations will have been selected by the National Awards Committee, representing all of the nine chapters of the academy, and ratified by the board of trustees during five days of meetings. The trustees' meetings, which will be held at the Savoy-Hilton Hotel in New York, will begin on April 22.

The 16th annual Emmy Awards will be presented during "The Emmy Awards" special telecast on NBC-TV Monday, May 25 (10-11:30 p.m. EDT). Twenty-seven categories for outstanding achievement have been selected, including honors for programs, performances, directing, writing, cinematography, electronic photography and film editing. The International Award and the Station Award, two special awards which were created last year, will be presented again this year.

"The Emmy Awards" show will originate at the Music Hall of the Texas Pavilions at the New York World's Fair and at the Palladium in Hollywood. E. G. Marshall and Joey Bishop will be the hosts for the East and West Coast respectively.

Close 'Rook' at a Chess Player

ONE-HANDED METHOD—Chess Players have developed fantastic ways to think. This player uses the popular one-handed method to keep his mind from wandering and his thoughts on the game. (Gazette Telegraph Photo)

TWO-HANDED METHOD — Opposite of the one-handed method in chess thinking, is, of course, the two-handed method. This method not only serves to keep the mind on the game but helps keep the player from thinking out loud. (Gazette Telegraph Photo)

PAWN'S EYE-VIEW—This is the chessplayer from board level. Once he gets into the game, nothing short of an H-bomb explosion will divert his attention, not even the camera. (Gazette Telegraph Photo)

NOW IF WE.... — This is what is known in the chess world as a consultation match. In other words, sometimes even chess players figure two heads are better than one and they put their heads together to decide what the next move will be.
(Gazette Telegraph Photo)

QUIET PLEASE — With three games going neck and neck, silence is essential. The first things a chess player learns, after he has learned the difference between a pawn and knight, is to keep his mouth shut, his eyes open and his ashes in the ash tray.
(Gazette Telegraph Photo)

KIBITZER'S VIEW — Kibitzers are welcome at some chess matches; all that is required is a closed mouth and the ability to refrain from showing off your knowledge after a player has made a bad move.

1,500 Year-Old Game Calls For Devotion Beyond Duty

Text By DICK MOORE
Photos By STAN PAYNE

The chess player, a man with a faraway rook in this eye, actually suffers from addiction to a 1,500-year-old game once dubbed the royal sport of kings.

The addict, usually possessing the instincts of a horse-trader, the slyness of a fox and the relentless pursuit of a cheetah, happily marshals his army of knights, bishops, king, queen and pawns on a board composed of 64-squares, and ferociously wages war against his opponent's similar array.

Historians end in a stalemate trying to pinpoint the birthplace of chess. Most of them agree Hindus invented the game in the fifth century. It found favor among the royalty of India, Persia and Arabia before its introduction to the Western World.

This conclusion, no doubt, caused considerable stirrings in the graves of Romans, Greeks, Babylonians, Schythians, Egyptians, Jews, Persians, Chinese, Arabians, Araucanians, Castilians, Irish and Welsh (and undoubtedly the Russians) each of whom claimed the game's invention.

Even the mystics got into the act, claiming that since mortals cannot master the game in its entirety, extraterrestrials zoomed down with flaming chariots or flying arks and, while dodging dinosaurs, presented cave men with the first chess sets to appear on Terra.

The mystics might have a point. Historical records of chess games played in the time of the Egyptians keep cropping up with annoying frequency. Besides the game's pristine possibilities, a number of chess subtleties seem to defy human inventiveness. For instance Chess possesses no elements of chance. A player's success or failure depends solely upon his attained skill. And there's the little matter of the game ending with the capture of the king, though this piece is never removed from the board. And what about the queen, the most powerful piece on the board, bowing to her lord the king?

Reflection also reveals that chess pieces are mutually subservient in the power of capture. A lowly pawn can capture a lordly bishop or rook, while any knight foolish enough to dally with the queen is sure to end with his saber bent. The king remaining on the board after his capture, no doubt expresses the old adage, "The king is dead, long live the king." But could it just be possible the game is intended to demonstrate an eternal cycle?

In the field of terminology, Chess has been easier to trace; the word "chess" coming from the Persian "Shah" or "king", "Checkmate" from "Shah mat," meaning "the king is dead," and the words "en passant" from the French meaning "in passing."

Death and passing might be apt terms describing the condition the local chess gentry found themselves close to the time domestic rebellion in female form exploded in their faces.

According to the story, the Colorado Springs Chess Club, organized in 1948 by Harold Wilcox, Jaun Reid, Carl Powers and a few others, initially held weekly meetings within the supposed sanctuary of the members' domiciles.

Complete quiet, of course, must reign when players' minds are engaged in the intricacies of slaughtering pawns or galloping horse - mounted knights across the checkered battle squares. In fact to even think loudly on such occasions is tantamount to blowing bubble gum in the ear of a golfer poised on the verge of a $30,000 putt.

Consequently, on the night of the meetings, the little woman found herself relegated to sundry nether regions of the house along with her muzzled children, dog, and the padlocked radio. In the bleak dawn when the gladiators dispersed, she crept back to the living room where a discouraging array of overflowing ashtrays, spilled ashes and smelly cigar butts, confronted her.

The end of such a tale is apparent. With gimlet eyes and irascible stare and no doubt with the aid of a broom, instead of a lance, the little woman ejected the battlers from their battle fields with meat aplomb.

Finding themselves checkmated by their own mates, the chess warriors retreated to the rooms at the YMCA.

Since 1954, the year the club moved to Colorado College's Cossitt Hall, the group's now 40 members meet at 7:30 Monday evenings. There, free from domestic debacles, they play matches with other club teams.

Under the current club president, Col. John Romlein of Ent, the club competes in the Colorado State Chess Association, an organization brought into being by Jaun Reid, dean of men at Colorado College.

Reid, with the aid of Herman Stein of the Broadmoor Hotel auditing department, bring the greatest of American grand chessmasters to Colorado Springs for simultaneous exhibition matches.

The word "chessmaster" has developed through the ages into a comprehensive term. The worldmaster's position cannot be disputed since he gains the title by winning the world championship. Below him, but also including his rank, come ex-world masters or champions and next in order the grandmasters who are winners of an international master tournament recognized as first class. Below these ranks, the master classifications become dichotomized to an intricate degree.

During the centuries of chess play, chance and the individual circumstances of players influenced their admission to the charmed circle of champion or master status. It is also curious from what large varieties of professions great chess players appear. A random selection of such includes: Ruy Lopez, ecclesiastic; Philidor, musician; Deschapelles, soldier; Lewis, merchant; Stauton, writer; Saint-Amant, wine merchant; Andresson, teacher; Morphy, laweyr; Stienitz, rabbi; Zukertort, doctor of medicine; Lasker, mathematician and philosophy student; Capablanca, diplomat; Alekine, doctor of law, and Harmonist, ballet dancer.

Perhaps the most unusual of all chess masters, Robert J. Fischer, the Brooklyn boy chess genius, will face the Colorado Springs Chess Club in simultaneous play Tuesday.

Fischer, now 20, became the youngest U.S. champion in the history of the game when he won the title at the age of 14.

Described as a sullen genius who plies his trade with the instincts of an old-time gunfighter, he has proven his chessmanship, consistently defeating the best players. He never bothered to finish high school. Slouching his way toward the Manhattan Chess Club, his pocket crammed with chess pieces, he is reported to have said: "The stuff they teach you in school I can't use one way or the other."

At the age of 6, Fischer gave amazing promise of chess talent. At 13 he became the youngest player to win the National Junior Chess Championship. A year later he won the U.S. Open Championship against a field of 175 players. This victory made him eligible to play in the U.S. Chess Federation Championship meet in 1958, where he became the youngest player in history to achieve this monumental honor.

Fischer's current ambition, after winning in interzonal competition and successfully defending his U.S. Championship, is to meet the present world champion, Tigran Petrosian of Russia.

But regardless of sullen genius, brilliant mathematicians or just guys like you and I who enjoy pushing either wooden pieces or expensive ivory creations across the squares, chess brings forgetfulness of common troubles.

JUST ONE MOVE—The thing that really bothers a chess player is to have a perfectly planned program of moves which will give him the game interrupted because the other fellow didn't move as you wanted him to. The result, as evidenced by the concentration on this player's face: you find yourself in check and the game is jeopardy.
(Gazette Telegraph Photo)

CHESS GENIUS — Bobby Fischer, the 20-year old chess genius and the man who may become world champion will play approximately 50 area chess whizzes April 28 at the Broadmoor. Fischer, who has been setting the chess world—and the social world—on its ear since he was 13, will take on the opponents all at once.

NO PRIZE, BUT—Lt. Col. V. J. Clark of NORAD, didn't win the top prize with his handsome Golden Retriever, Andrew Craigmer, but the dog should be prize enough for any dog fancier.

Military Going to Dogs: Dogs Going to the Trees

By DOT REILLY

The military community of Colorado Springs is literally "going to the dogs". This is not derogatory terminology in any sense of the word, but a reflection of the tremendous number of military families who own pedigreed dogs, and who share mutual interests in various breeds, bloodlines, dog schools and dog shows.

Along with its many other attributes, the City of Colorado Springs is a virtual paradise for dog owners. Probably no other city its size in the United States can boast a more complete roster of qualified Veterinarians, excellent kennel facilities, well stocked pet supply stores, and competent handlers and trainers.

For the dog member of the military family, Colorado Springs is Shangri La. It is a bonus to the dog owner as well. Military assignment to the Southern and Eastern portions of the United States bring the inevitable struggle with ticks, fleas, mites, etc. Other portions of the nation have humidity and temperature readings that endanger both the dog and the owner's disposition, but not so Colorado.

Indeed the only logical complaint of the canine fortunate enough to reside in the Pikes Peak area might be the absence of trees in the Northeast section of the Springs. And this is compensated for by a ten minute ride to Black Forest.

Sunday, April 12, the Colorado Springs Kennel Club held the first dog show of the season in the Community House at Black Forest. This show was a fun match, and judging by the tremendous turnout, a great success.

It is to the Colorado Springs Kennel Club's credit, that they were able to provide a full day of interesting competition. For the newly arrived military dog owner to area, it was an insight to the quality of competition and handlers in our area. There were entries from over a hundred mile radius.

The Colorado Springs Kennel Club, in scheduling its Fun Match jut one week prior to the three days of dog shows in Denver, gave exhibitors and owners invaluable aid in preparing dogs for the Denver shows.

The Black Forest Fun Match was great experience for the exhibitors, fun for the spectators, and the dogs — well the dogs couldn't see the Black Forest for the trees!!

PUPPY TOO — Even puppies got ribbons at the black Forest Show, although in some cases the ribbons were almost as big as the dogs. WAAF M. Sgt. B. Moisan congratulates Toby of Bur-cron, miniature schnauzer, who won best of breed (puppy) and was second best in best of group. (puppy)

Stamps in the News

The five cent commemorative stamp honoring the tercentenary of the State of New Jersey will go on first day sale June 15 in Elizabeth, N.J.

The city of Elizabeth was chosen because it is also celebrating its 300th anniversary and is the oldest city in the state as well as its first capital.

Depicted on the new five center is a detail from a painting in the Union County courthouse showing Philip Carteret walking ashore at Elizabethtown with his men in 1664. The drawing overlays a sketch map of the state.

Collectors desiring first day cancellations of the New Jersey commemorative may send addressed envelopes, together with remittance to cover the cost of the stamp to be affixed, to the postmaster, Elizabeth, N.J. 97206. The outside envelope to the postmaster should be clearly marked "First Day Covers, New Jersey Tercentenary Stamp." Requests must be postmarked not later than June 15.

Austria has issued a new set of six values commemorating the 1964 Viennese International Horticultural Exhibition. The multi-colored stamps depict various flowers on display in the exhibition. Also issued by that country is a series of stamps marking the 15th Universal Postal Congress held in Vienna, and a special stamp for the Second Parlimentary and Scientific Conference.

HORNS APLENTY — Versatile is almost an understatement when applied to Army Sgt. Bill Prince of the North American Air Defense Command Band. He really plays them all — the tenor saxaphone, flugelhorn, clarinet, trumpet, alto saxaphone, flute, bass clarinet and trombone. The sergeant, who is from Detroit, Mich., is a feature performer with the "Cavalcade of Music" presented by the NORAD organization. The band has appearances scheduled this month at Carnegie Hall and the World's Fair.

Norad Band Will Perform Twice at World's Fair

The North American Air Defense Command Band marches on New York this month with its "Cavalcade of Music" for performances at both Carnegie Hall and the World's Fair.

The band will present a "Salute to the Armed Forces" Carnegie Hall for the third successive year.

Under the direction of Lt. Col. Mark Azzolina, the five-year-old band is the official musical representative of NORAD, the two-nation force of more than 200,000 Canadians and Americans guarding the continent against aerospace attack.

It is composed of musicians from the U.S. Army, Navy, Air Force and Royal Canadian Air Force — the four services contributing strength to NORAD.

First Armed Forces Week performance by the band at Carnegie Hall was in 1962. A return engagement last year produced such acclaim that the sponsoring Carnegie Hall Society invited the band to make it an annual visit.

This year's salute, to be given along with the Army Air Defense Command's Choral Group, is set for May 14.

Both groups return to the same stage May 18th for a concert for an International Red Cross convention.

The band and the soldier singers also join forces May 17 for a concert at the Fair's Enterprise Commons.

Another band appearance at the World' Fair's U.S. pavilion is booked for May 19th and the choral group will perform there the following two days.

CU to Show Art Exhibit

The ninth annual Colorado Intercollegiate Art Exhibit will be on display Sunday through Friday in the Center Ballroom of the University of Colorado Memorial Center at Boulder.

The show will be part of CU's Fine Arts Week.

The traveling exhibit opened last week at Colorado State College, where CU students were awarded 12 of 25 prizes for excellence.

Leading the way was Mamoru Sato, graduate student of Denver, who's sculpture, "Allemande," was named best in show. He also took third place in the oil paintings category.

Other prize winners were:

Carolyn Dewey, Boulder senior, honorable mention in oils; John Fudge, Denver graduate student, first in water colors; Paul Fundingsland, Colorado Springs junior, third in water colors, and Arthur Nelson, Denver senior, first in ceramics.

Clue to History of Man Found in Folklore

VOICES IN THE VALLEY—By Frank R. Kramer—The University of Wisconsin Press — $5 — Reviewed by R. B. Murray — From time to time throughout history political scientists, economists and historians themselves have attempted to explain the movement of people through time by reducing social interaction or phenomena to formulas or to other fixed explanations. Thus some historians have claimed that the movement of any given society is determined by the qualities of that particular society's leader. Others have insisted that leaders simply reflect the basic desired of the people in the society and a leader can put policies into force only when the mass of people have already accepted the policy in question. This has gone to such lengths that in 1947 a mathematician by the name of N. Rashevsky reduced all social phenomena to mathematical formulas in his widely unread "Mathematical Theory of Human Relations." With the exception of the latter work, the truth is probably a puzzle comprised of pieces from all theories.

Some of the pieces that historians have most often left out in the past in considering what motivations make history, claims Frank R. Kramer, the author of this work, is the role played by the myths and folklore of a given society. In "Voices In The Valley" the author examines mythmaking and folk belief in the shaping of the Middle West and its relationship to history in general.

The book begins by examining the attempts of the French Jesuits to make an ideal society of the Huron Indians who already in their disavowel of the importance of property, their austere acceptance of death and their placement of primacy of human values over material things, went a long way toward a type of primeval utopia. In one of the more interesting sections of the book the author describes the Huron Feast of the Dead as it was reported in 1635 by one of the few Europeans to ever witness it. In another chapter Professor Kramer discusses the role of the homestead in interior America. In an example set with the Pennsylvania Dutch the homestead was regarded as a complete self-sufficient entity. The farmer planted, roofed his barn and mended his fences all by lunar law. The farmer regarded that his land was placed in his hands by God to take care of. He had to answer in church for neglecting any of his soil. The Pennsylvania Dutch family was closely knit with father starting son over the hill in the south forty. This was then contrasted with the often cold New England families with their attitude that land was a commodity to sell.

This writer believes that our current so called "sick humor" began in New England. Over one hundred years ago, for example, the author relates the story of the New England wife from that period whose dying husband asked for ham. She refused him because she told him she was saving the ham for his funeral.

Professor Kramer also discusses folk belief and myth in religion, in industry and in the American agrarian revolt. He then describes the method of folk belief or myth in a society as taking one of the successes in society and building it up as the basis for the society's greatness. In this, says author Kramer, people today, in accounting for their role in the universe is essentially the same as it has been with people for "millennia." The author then concludes that these myths and folk beliefs are important for the historian to study to properly evaluate a people's history.

The author, Frank R. Kramer, received his B. A., M. A. and Ph. D. degrees from the University of Wisconsin and is presently a Professor of Classics and Ancient History at Heidelberg College, Tiffin, Ohio.

This volume is probably not for casual reading although parts of it are amusing and light. Historians should read this fine work and consider its message and those interested in folklore and regional literature should have this volume in their libraries.

BUYING THE WIND — By Richard M. Dorson — The University of Chicago Press — $7.95 — The Maine sea captain had a schooner full of fish. He should have been in port but his vessel was becalmed. The crusty old captain was shifting his cud and walking up and down the deck uttering oaths the likes of which no landlubber had heard. The cook's helper came up to the captain and surmised that he was a good seaman, but when it came to other things he was a might weak in his knowledge. The helper told him that if he made a love's offering to the Lord instead of taking His name in vain, and then asked Him for a bit of wind, it would be forthcoming. Why didn't he try it? The grizzled old captain said he certainly didn't have anything to lose; he'd try anything to get his vessel moving.

The captain drew out a half-dollar from his pocket, held it out and looking skyward asked the Lord for some wind. He then threw the coin overside. The coin no more than hit the water and a 110-mile an hour hurricane came up. Just a short time later there was a tremendous crash on the beach. The good captain sat there looking up and down the beach at his rigging, his smashed vessel, fish strewn as far as the eye could see and his crumpled men. He shifted his cud of tobacco and announced dryly "If I'd aknown God's wind was so damn cheap, I wouldn't a' ordered so much."

From the above story Richard M. Dorson's BUYING THE WIND takes its name. His book is 535 pages of American folklore — stories similar to the above, riddles, proverbs and folksongs. The book is divided into regions of the country. The presentations are as originally told and unedited to capture the flavor and dialect of the teller. The stories and other folklore have been meticulously collected by the author and others over a period of many years.

Richard M. Dorson is known as one of the most eminent folklorists in the world. This fine collection will not detract from this reputation. This book is a must for folklorists and should be presently arriving on local booksellers shelves — R. B. Murray.

Broadmoor Gets Act 1

Jason Robards, Jr., one of the most distinguished actors in America, portrays the acid-tongued George S. Kaufman in "Act One", the new Warner Bros. drama now at the Broadmoor Theatre. "Act One", a recounting of the rise of Moss Hart of playwriting fame in collaboration with Kaufman, was written, produced and directed by Dore Schary, a friend of Hart's for 35 years.

Mothers of the program's child audiences make up about 30 percent of the viewers of "Captain Kangaroo" on the CBS Television Network.

FOURTH OF THE SEASON — This is a rehearsal scene from one of the four plays produced this year by the East Junior High School Drama group. Trying to get shoes on Shirley Steinkraus are Cheryl Boyd and Mary Ann Fites. Helping are Kathy Haskins, Bob Lilley and Ron Steadman.

The Show Must Go on Even If You Have to Move Away

They are a long way from being professionals, but drama students at East Junior believe just as strongly that "The show must go on," even if it means remaining in Colorado Springs when one's family has moved to another city.

Mary Ann Fites was one of the 70 ninth grade students at East Junior who devote a considerable amount of their out-of-school time to work in dramatics under the direction of Robert L. Allen of the school's faculty.

When Mary Ann learned her family planned to move to Aurora just three weeks before she was to appear in a play, she persuaded her parents to let her stay here with friends until after the performances. She appeared in the play April 17, and on April 18 she rejoined her family.

The drama club, which is a co-curricular activity, was organized three years ago, and since then has had a tremendous growth in popularity among ninth graders. The 70 pupils in the group are only part of those who would like to participate if it were possible to use more.

Starting with two plays, Allen increased the number of productions to three last year and to four this year, to give every member as much experience as possible in various phases of play production.

Although it is not part of the students' regular program of studies, Allen believes dramatics training has important benefits that carry over into the classroom situation and helps students do better in their studies.

For one thing, he says, boys and girls gain significantly in poise and self-confidence that help them express themselves more effectively in their classes. Another advantage is that they gain a knowledge of the skilled and technical occupations within the various fields of entertainment.

The group presents its plays only for the East Junior student body. Admission is charged for some plays and is used first of all to cover necessary expenses of production. Any profit helps finance ninth grade activities. The drama activity is completely self-supporting, Allen says.

WORLD'S FAIR BOUND — The Spanish Infanta duplicated from Valazquez's 17th century painting, was packed off to the New York World's Fair this week by the Charles Manns to be exhibited in the Doll Collections Museum Inc. theatre. The Spanish artist painted the infanta, when she was 8 years old, in her betrothal gown of blue velvet with gold lame trim. The golden-haired child was a member of the House of Hapsburg.

IMPRESSION OF AN IMPRESSIONIST— The Manns' replica of Pierre Auguste Renoir's "Girl With Watering Can" is mirrored in a reproduction of the French impressionist's painting. The child's gown is blue velvet with white cotton lace trim. The portrait doll was executed in almost exact detail including the watering can which the Manns had to make to capture the authentic look.

PRIZE WINNER — "Miss Willoughby," a portrait painted by England's George Romney, stands with her look-alike whic hwon first place for Mrs. Charles Mann and her husband last year in a doll exhibit in Los Angeles. The doll's gown is white with rose ribbons at her waist and on the natural straw hat. She stands 23 inches.

Manns Will Exhibit Doll At New York World's Fair

Polly Mann's "Spanish Infanta" is going to the Fair.

Mrs. Mann, president of the Doll Study Club, has been invited by Doll Collections Museum Inc. in New York City to exhibit several of her portrait dolls at the World's Fair which opened this week.

The Spanish Infanta, a replica of Valazquez's "Infanta Margarita" (painted in 1659) was packed up and crated off to New York this week. Mrs. Mann said she might send along "Miss Willoughby" and "Girl With Watering Can" (Renoir) later on.

"There is nothing as hard as making a doll," she continued, explaining that she worked with the hardest media available, porcelain bisque. But the first requirement is a background in art, Mrs. Mann said, adding that she had this requirement, having worked in ceramics and being a painter.

Mrs. Mann and her husband Charles started learning the art of doll making from scratch a dozen years ago. "No one teaches you how to make porcelain bisque," Mrs. Mann said, "you just have to learn how yourself."

The Manns have a well-appointed workshop where they begin by designing and sculpturing the various parts that will form the complete doll. Mann then does the molds for the different pieces, and the intricate work continues step by step.

Mrs. Mann does all the dressmaking for the dolls whose costumes are as authentic as present day materials will allow. This is often tedious work, as noted on the Infanta's gown which took 30 yards of lame binding.

In the case of the Renoir doll, she had to make a watering can to duplicate exactly the one held by the child in the portrait.

The Manns acquired a supply of old paperweight eyes from a now defunct factory in France, thus further adding to the "people-look" of their dolls. They have a wigmaker in New York who provides them with a combination of human hair and a synthetic fabric which makes the dolls' hair easier to comb.

Their Infanta will be housed in the State of Louisiana Building in a theatre operated by the Doll Collections Museum Inc.

The museum intends to communicate the story of mankind, its religions, cultures, rituals, marriage customs, arts and labors through the doll exhibit.

To Host Show

Rudy Vallee has been signed as host of a new summer variety series featuring young performers on the threshold of stardom, beginning Wednesday, July 8 on the CBS Television Network.

The variety hour will replace "The Danny Kaye Show" for the summer. It will be produced by Irving Mansfield, whose "Talent Scouts" program was a summer series on the Network last year.

"The new program," Mansfield explained, "will be dedicated to the young and talented who are on the very brink of stardom, waiting for that great stroke of timing which will make them marquee names."

Producer Set For TV Shows

George Schlatter, a young veteran of television, will produce the Meredith Willson summertime specials to be presented Thursday June 4, Tuesday, June 30, and Tuesday, July 28, on the CBS Television Network. One of the shows will be repeated on Monday, Aug. 31.

Willson, who will star in the series of one-hour musical variety shows with his wife and concert partner, Rini, is the executive producer.

Skiers Ignore May 'Buds' For Pikes Peak Ski Race

For most people, May means a chance to get out into the open for picnics and hiking. It means green hills and spring flowers and lightweight clothes.

That's for most people. But for the ski-addict, it means the Pikes Peak championship Ski Race.

The race this year will be held May 10 at 16 mile in the Devil's Playground area.

Missing from this year's race will be a two-time winner of the giant slalom Buddy Werner who was killed recently in an avalanche in Europe.

Bob Beattie, the Olympic Ski Team Coach and Willie Scheaffer, Denver University Ski Team Coach, will be course setters this year.

The race, which is open to the public at no charge other than the toll road fee up the Peak, has a long and colorful history. This year, the race is co-sponsored by the Sno-Jets Ski Club and Alpine Blazers Ski Club.

The race dates back to 1944. Before the Pikes Peak Race, however, several other meets were held in this area. The Silver Spruce Ski Club sponsored jumping meets near Divide in the late 20's and the Pikes Peak Ski Club held the first race on the Peak itself in 1937, a classified and intercollegiate race. A special feature of this race was a grudge race between four of Colorado College's football Gorillas, none of whom had ever been on skis before.

The first Pikes Peak Championship Race was open to military personnel only. Sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, the Race was held April 23, 1944 with the slalom and downhill course set "in the chimneys" above Glen Cove. Some of the country's top skiers were among 92 entries in Classes A and B. Toni Matt of Camp Hale took the first Pikes Peak trophy.

In 1945 the course was set beginning at the 14-mile point and finishing at Glen Cove Lodge. A two-day meet, this year's race was enlarged to include Class C racers and women's team. Entries were not restricted to military. Winner of the trophy donated by the Broadmoor Hotel was Ed Hornung and the best woman racer was Dorthy Vance of Denver.

The open class was added in 1946, when the downhill course was set along the "Sky Line Trail" known now as the Racing Trail. Various affairs connected with the race that year were dinner at Glen Cove Lodge on Saturday night, a jumping exhibition and the Awards Dinner at the Acacia Hotel. The winner was Barney McLean, while Ada Durrance topped the women's entries.

In 1947 Dick Durrance copped the title with a sterling performance. Ladies winner that year was Katy Rondolph. 1948 and 1949 saw Barney McLean come back to win twice and retire the original Broadmoor Hotel trophy.

In 1950 the BPOE Lodge donated a new Skimister trophy, the one now on hand, but the race was cancelled by lack of snow due to the Colorado drouth.

In 1958 the race was revived by the Sno-Jets Ski Club, assisted by the Jaycees and the Pikes Peak Ski Club. The late Bud Werner of Steamboat Springs, Colorado, blistered down the course to win the race and the Broadmoor Hotel trophy, and to become the first name on the newer Skimeister trophy. Winner of the women's race was Carol Izett. A new feature of the 1958 race was an unclassified contest between ski club teams, a race which turned out to be the largest unclassified race ever held in Colorado. Winner of this was the host Sno-Jets Ski Club.

In 1959, Dave Gorsuch of Climax, Colorado, in a spectacular finish beat out Bud Wernr for first place, by 7 tenths of a second.

The 1960 winner was Max Marott and 1961 Hans Peter Lanig took the honors.

Werner was again the winner in 1962 which was the last race until this year. The 1963 season found Pikes Peak lacking in snow cover, therefore the race was cancelled.

Svetlova To Dance At Pueblo

Brilliant ballet and a world-famous concert pianist will be featured in Pueblo's Memorial Hall on Monday evening, May 4.

The Greater Artist Series will present Marina Svetlova Dance Ensemble and pianist Theodor Haig as the final concert of the current season.

Marina Svetlova for seven years was the prima ballerina of the Metropolitan Opera. She has been guest ballerina with the New York City Opera, Teatro dell Opera in Rome, the Theatre National de l'Opera Comique in Paris, and the famous Teatro Colon in Buenos Aires.

The Dance Ensemble is considered one of the finest classic ballet companies on tour today," said Miss Frieda Bell Altman, sponsor. "The program has brilliant costuming and spectacular dancing."

Theodor Haig is celebrated on five continents as one of the most brilliant of American pianists. His recent tours have taken him throughout the United States, Canada, South and Central America, Africa, Europe and Asia. After his first London recital in 1960, critics hailed Haig as a pianist of "true distinction," Miss Altman said.

Tickets for the concert are available from Miss Altman's office in Memorial Hall, Pueblo. All seats are reserved. Mail orders are handled promptly.

TV Stars Get Top Honors

The American Humane Society has honored Donna Douglas of "The Beverly Hillbillies" with a special award, and stars of both "The Beverly Hillbillies" and "Petticoat Junction" on the CBS Television Network will be cited this week at the annual convention of the Los Angeles Metropolitan District of the California Federation of Women's Clubs.

Miss Douglas was cited "for consistently demonstrating kindness and compassion for a wide assortment of living 'critters' and making a valuable contribution to the humane cause."

ALLEN'S GUESTS — The NORAD Commanders will make another television appearance May 12 when the group performs on the Steve Allen Show over a Denver television station. The group will perform "Gravy Waltz," written by Steve Allen and "Trumpet Tag," composed and arranged by M Sgt. Art Wiggins. Lt. Col. Mack Azzolina is conductor and officer in charge of the Commanders.

COLORADO SPRINGS KENNEL CLUB NOTES

by Mary Urban

The next meeting of the Colorado Springs Kennel Club will be held this Monday, 8 p.m. in the Green Room of the Antlers Hotel. Anyone who is interested in joining the club is welcome to attend the meeting. Just come in and introduce yourself and we will try to make you feel at home. We are all a little dog-crazy and will welcome all fanciers of pure-bred dogs.

We have a very interesting program lined up for the evening. Because there has been so much misinformation about the similarity between Collies and Shetland Sheepdogs, two kennel club members who own these two distinctive breeds will introduce their dogs and explain the difference between the two. Collie owner, Mrs. Helen Pinello and Miss Donna Brock who owns Shetland Sheepdogs will be in charge of the program.

Breed of the Week — The Old English Sheepdog

This breed can be traced back almost one hundred and fifty years. There are conflicting ideas as to its origin. It is believed that the breed was first developed in the west of England in the counties of Devon and Somerset and the Duchy of Cornwall.

One of the most distinctive of all dogs, the Old English Sheepdog is a medium sized, heavily coated dog that for a century or more was used by English cattle and sheep raisers to drive their herds and flocks to market. A marked characteristic of the breed is its gait, which is quite like the shuffle of a bear.

Contrary to what many believe, it was not a herding dog. Perhaps the smaller ancestors of the breed served at one time to round up the flocks, but after the dog tax went into effect and farmers discovered they could avoid paying out money by docking the tails, the Old English Sheepdog was kept solely as a driving dog.

The docking of the tail has led to the breed's nickname "Bobtail." It is not true, of course that the practice of removing the tail has produced a breed naturally tailless or bobtailed. According to the standard, the tail should be removed at the first joint when the puppy is three or four days old. Seldom is an Old English Sheepdog seen in the show ring with more than a mere thickening of the skin where the tail has been removed. Since this dog has been used more for driving than for herding, the lack of a tail to serve as a rudder, has in no way affected his working ability with heavier kinds of sheep and cattle.

The Bobtail stands 22 inches or more at the withers and is built on the square. The length from the withers to the root of the tail is equal to its height. The outer coat is shaggy, the undercoat soft and deep-piled. In color the dog is gray, grizzle, blue or blue-merled, with a fair amount of white.

Those who breed and show the Old English Sheepdog claim the coat is not a problem but it does need daily brushing to prevent matting. It is a home-loving dog, not given to roaming and fighting and is very agile. He is very intelligent and affectionate. He makes an ideal house-dog. He is equally at home in a large house or small apartment.

Beauty Show Set for TV
